U. S. Might Send Arms To French

W. P. B. Vice Chairman Says Call May Come to Supply Rejuvenated Army

Witherow Speaks

President of Blaw-Knox Says Capital Should Be Encouraged

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—The United States may be called upon to supply a "rejuvenated" French army, the vice chairman of the War Production Board said today, while one of the nation's leading industrialists asserted he was "not fighting for a quart of milk for every hottentot."

Ferdinand Eberstadt, the W. P. B. executive, in a speech prepared for the opening of the 47th convention of the National Association of Manufacturers said:

"You must not forget that war is a matter of change and hazard and that what is true today may not be true tomorrow.

"We may, for example, (it is to be hoped), have the privilege of supplying a rejuvenated French army which, although it would cause a change in our calculation, would be a very agreeable burden indeed."

N. A. M. President W. P. Witherow, who is also president of the Blaw-Knox Company, suggested in a prepared speech that private capital be encouraged to provide the motive power for post-war reconstruction and added:

"Personally, I am not interested in any other form of government or form of economy than our own. I admire beyond expression the stand the Russians have made. x x x they are fighting nobly for Russia and Soviet ideals. We're fighting for America and American ideals.

"I am not making guns or tanks to win a 'people's revolution.' I am making armament to help our boys save America. x x x I don't want any "modified" free enterprise or bill of rightless democracy.

"Immediately after the war, government aid to war-torn countries is a foregone conclusion. But not the rehabilitation of their economy or the reforming of their lives. I am not fighting for a quart of milk for every hottentot, or for a T. V. A. on the Danube, or for governmental handouts of free Utopia."

Eberstadt said this country's war production volume has been "enormous" although it has fallen short to some extent and in some fields of the "inspiring goals which our President very wisely set for us."

He told the nation's top-ranking industrialists gathered for the convention that:

"You, of all people, should be gentlest in your judgment of the degree of confusion, intricate regulations, and conflicting instructions which must necessarily have accompanied the creation in so short a time of a war business exceeding $100,000,000,000."

This was the first meeting of the N. A. M. since the United States entered the war, a year in which business and business men underwent the most drastic regulations in the nation's history, and among some of them expected to draw special fire of the speakers from industry's ranks were:

The $25,000 limitation on salaries; the law empowering the army, navy and Maritime Commission to renegotiate war contracts; and the National War Labor Board's rulings on labor problems which have affected industry.

Witherow dwelt on some of them.

He described "rationing, renegotiation, shortages, investigations, indictments, questionnaires, anti-trust suits, conflict, overlapping, red-tape and confusion, National Labor Relations Board, W. L. B. and other alphabetical slowdowns that took the time of management" as so many things in the knapsack industrialists have to carry.

"American industry knows that in total war some extensive controls are necessary. x x x but we must know also that our sacrifices are temporary. Any suspension of free enterprise should be for the duration only," he said.

Ration Book No. 1 Is Essential for Obtaining Others

Those Who Would Acquire Books Must Register by December 15, Is Board's Advice

All consumers who have not registered for War Ration Book No. 1, must register by December 15, with the local board which serves the area in which the consumer regularly resides, John M. Cashin, chairman of the Kingston War Price and Rationing Board, announced today.

War Ration Book No. 1 will be used by consumers to secure coffee rations. It will also be used to issue War Ration Book No. 2 and may be used to ration other commodities. It is therefore essential, Chairman Cashin pointed out, that every individual have a War Ration Book No. 1 regardless of whether or not he buys sugar or coffee.

Nobody will be able to obtain War Ration Book No. 2 unless he has War Ration Book No. 1.

Chairman Cashin further explained that persons who do not have War Ration Book No. 1 include those who have not registered, those who have registered and have not been given books because they had excess supplies of sugar, and those who have surrendered their books to local boards for one reason or another as required by the regulations. He urged these people to register at once.

Sears to Close Kingston Store

Rumors prevalent the past few days that Sears, Roebuck & Co., would close their Kingston store at 311 Wall street, on Christmas Eve, for the duration at least, were confirmed this morning by Girard W. Gallup, manager of the store.

Mr. Gallup said that a complete announcement was to be made shortly, when full details had been settled, but admitted that the store would wind up its business Christmas Eve and that employes had been notified to that effect.

It is understood, from other sources, that it had been desired to make extensive alterations to the store and expand lines but that lease arrangements with the Woolworth Co., owners of the building, could not be arranged satisfactorily.

All of the indictments were moved to County Court by District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Justice Bergan granted that motion. Arbuckle Fortune Will Be Given To Various Groups

Will of Miss M. A. Jamison Provides for Certain Persons to Extent of $500,000

The $40,000,000 Arbuckle fortune which cotton, coffee and sugar built over a period of 60 years, will go almost entirely to religious, charitable and educational organizations under the will of Miss Margaret A. Jamison, the last direct descendant of Thomas Arbuckle, the founder. Miss Jamison died at the Arbuckle Farms in New Paltz, November 18. Her will was filed for probate Tuesday by the Union Trust Company at Pittsburgh, where she also maintained a home.

Except for $500,000 in bequests to friends and old family retainers, the big estate will go to set up the Arbuckle - Jamison Foundation, which will be managed by three trustees. These trustees have power to select beneficaries with the limitation that either principal or income must go for such "religious, charitable and educational" uses as are "operated or conducted under Protestant or undenominational auspices" and conform to the laws of Pennsylvania and New York.

Trustees are Clara Dravo of Pittsburgh, a girlhood friend of Miss Jamison and her late sister, Martha, who lived but a block from the Jamison home in Pittsburgh and who under the will is given $50,000; Martin E. Goetzinger of New York, who has been associated with the estate. A third trustee named was the late John G. Frazer, Pittsburgh attorney.

Among the bequests were: Vassar Brothers Hospital of Poughkeepsie $10,000; Dr. Scott Lord Smith of Poughkeepsie, $25,000; Samuel Kevan, of New Paltz $5,000.

Other bequests were:

Elizabeth Guggan of Trenton, N. J., $10,000; Laura Green of New Hyde Park, Long Island, $5,000; Eli Depuy of Brooklyn, a house and lot at 3 Bridge Road, Sagamore Park, Bronxville; Martha Arnold of Atlantic City, N. J. $10,000; Minnie Arnold, (Mrs. George Arnold) of Atlantic City $25,000. Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, $10,000; William Milne of Long Island $25,000; Charles King Woodridge of New York $4,000.

Secret New American Planes Are Enough 'To Make the Angels Gasp'

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Writer)

New York, Dec. 2—The United States has some secret new planes that are "enough to make the angels gasp," the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was told today.

Major Nathaniel F. Silsbee, of the army air force, explained in a paper prepared for a meeting of the society that a score of new fighters, bombers and transports are under test. Many, he said, already have been flown, but are still on the secret list.

In addition to the new designs, the air force has developed a method of making wholesale alterations in planes after manufacture. This is done in places called modification centers, of which he said there are dozens. They are not all at aircraft factories.

These centers make quick alterations demanded by battle conditions, such as, said Major Silsbee, installing different type guns, or refitting with a landing gear that will not crack up in desert fighting.

Such centers altered Doolittle's planes to fit the bombing of Japan. They have painted planes a dusty pink for the Egyptian desert, and fitted others for Arctic regions.

He said that the tail gun added to the flying fortress caught the Nips so by surprise that nearly 100 Japanese planes were downed before a single ship was able to get back to tell the others what was happening.

"As the war proceeds," he added, "there is no intimating what further surprises in the way of speedy alteration and adaptation are in store for the Axis."

America is not building planes on a strictly mass production basis, but keeping the production fluid. Nevertheless, he said, there were present large-scale orders for planes in 1,000 and even 5,000 lots.

It is not generally realized, he declared, that most of the first-line military planes fighting today are the result of designs six years old. As examples he cited the German Messerschmitt ME-109, British Spitfire and Hurricane and American Curtiss Hawk P-36.

The Germans, he said, were reported to have at least two planes with pressure cabins, which relieve their crews of most of the handicaps of high altitude fighting. One is a fighter and the other a bomber.

Night Club Death Toll Nears 500; C. C. Clark Victim

Public Safety Committee Announces Official List Is 490 Dead, 174 Injured

Boston, Dec. 2 (AP)—The toll of dead in the Saturday night Cocoanut Grove night club fire crept close to 500 today, according to a Boston public safety committee tabulation, while the state, city, army and navy moved to investigate the causes of the tragedy and a Suffolk county grand jury gathered.

(Freeman Note: The tragedy was brought more closely to Kingston today with word that Clyde C. Clark, former student at St. Stephen's College, Annandale-on-Hudson, and his wife were victims in the fire.

(Mr. Clark, an accomplished pianist and orchestra leader, who at the time of his death was a resident of Keene, N. H., his home town, used to play at Kingston High School dances and was one of the leading musical figures of a decade and less ago when he played at leading night clubs in Greenwich Village.

(Mr. Clark, who attended St. Stephen's from 1922 to 1926, when he was graduated, was one of the most popular men in his class. He was a member of Kappa Gamma Chi, college local fraternity.)

After a final re-canvass of all its lists, the public safety committee announced that the dead had reached 490—with only three bodies still unidentified—while 174 lay injured or burned in hospitals. Of the injured, at least 35 had developed pneumonia as a result of inhalation of smoke and heat during the holocaust.

Meanwhile, throughout Boston and in many other communities funerals carried victims to their graves. In some, two and three members of the same family were laid to rest.

To Conduct Inquiries

Boston army and navy headquarters both revealed that they would conduct their own inquiries into the catastrophe because military personnel had perished in the fire, although the army indicated that it would not consider the civil aspects of the affair.

While licensing agencies investigated safety conditions in 52 closed night clubs and temporarily banned entertainment in any of the city's 1,161 eating and drinking places, city officials summoned additional witnesses before an inquest into the disaster.

One, Theodore Eldracher, a district inspector assigned to supervise alterations at the night club in February of this year, said that he had observed that a fire door was being installed between two parts of the club, but did not ascertain whether it had been covered with metal.

Disclosure that a three-year-old baby was in the Cocoanut Grove at the time of the fire and was carried out by a man who "looked ghastly" was made today by the next witness.

Mildred Lane, of Newton, who was a patron at the club, said that when she got out through a door leading to Shawmut avenue, "I turned around and saw a man holding a child high. I would say the child was about three years old. The child looked very ghastly. It wasn't making any noise at all that I could hear."

Miss Lane said that before her own escape she had been in a small dressing room off the main dining room in which there were about 50 people, and that "one of the women was screaming for her baby. She must have been one of the entertainers," but, she add-

Meat Rationing Program Scheduled For Early Next Year; Coupons Are to Be in General Use

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP).—You'll have to learn how to juggle a new kind of money soon to put meat on the table.

Disclosing a few more details of the meat rationing program scheduled for early next year, the office of price administration explained some phases of the point rationing system which has been developed particularly for handling such commodities.

Shortly after New Year's, everyone will get war ration book No. 2. No. 1 was the sugar book which also is being used for coffee. Book No. 2 will contain 192 coupons of different colors, denominations, and lettering.

These coupons are the coin of the new money system which Americans will have to master. Instead of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and halves, you'll have a red A-1 coupon, a red A-2 coupon, a red A-5 coupon, a red A-8 coupon, and a red B-1 coupon, and so on, through the whole alphabet (except I and O), and then all over again for the blue coupons in the same book.

When meat rationing starts, O.P.A. will asign certain letters for use the first month or period of weeks—perhaps red A, B and C for February—and then will put out a price list, in points, on various kinds of meat—maybe something like this:

Cut	Points per lb.
Hamburger	1
Porterhouse	8
Lamb chops	3
Round steak	4
Bacon	5

This illustration is strictly hypothetical, because the big question which officials haven't settled yet is the point values to be assigned different kinds of meat. The points represent the figures on the coupons. An A-1 or an S-1 is good for one point, a B-5 or a T-5 points and so on. Two C-2's can be used for a 4-point purchase.

From this point on, you budget your points just like your money, except that it will be your points rather than your money that will be rationed. You might have a ration of 48 meat points for February. If you spend all your coupons on porterhouse, well you spend them all on porterhouse and that's that. If your taste runs to hamburger you get more of it for your coupons.

The government has printed 160,000,000 of these new "ration money" books, so that everyone can have one. While meat is expected to be the first commodity rationed with it, other things may be allotted with the same book. For instance, all the red coupons could be used for meat, leaving all the blue coupons for perhaps cothing, although O.P.A. does not contemplate clothing rationing at present.

Generally the point values will be figures on available supplies rather than on intrinsic values. In some cases O.P.A. might juggle the points from month to month, to influence the public to choose more plentiful things by making those items "cheap" in points. In the case of meat, for instance, steaks might be made very "expensive" in points to get people to eat more plentiful roasts—if that were the case—or pork might be made more expensive than beef, or vice versa.

P.S.: You'll still have to pay real money, of course, as well as coupons.

Zena Sailor Was in Navy About Year; George De Freese Is Listed as Missing

Word was received Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Edward White of Zena that their son, William White, who had been in the U. S. Navy for a year or so, had been killed in action. There are no details as to when or where he met his death. His parents had not heard from him in several months.

Besides his parents, who have been residents of Zena for eight or nine years, coming there from New York city, he leaves one sister, Margaret. Mr. White has been employed with the Kingan Packing Co., Poughkeepsie. The family has made their home in the former Shufeldt place at Zena, which they have conducted as a boarding house during their residence there.

William was well liked by all his friends and associates in Zena and was for two years a member of the Zena 4-H Club, where he took an active part in its work. He attended the Zena school and during 1940 attended the Kingston High School. According to records at the 4-H Club office he was born July 14, 1923 and enlisted in the Navy December 19, 1941.

It is stated that William is the second Zena boy in the armed forces of the United States to be reported missing. The other is George DeFreese, 18, who made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Baldinger of Zena and who also enlisted in the Navy. He was reported missing some months since, following report that an American warship had been lost in the fog in North Atlantic waters. At that time a number of the crew of the ship were reported killed and others missing. It is stated that no word has been received from George since that time.

Cold Wave Warning

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—The weather bureau, following its regular morning forecast today, issued the following cold wave warning: Eastern New York: Light snow tonight. Much colder, with a cold wave and temperatures falling to 10 to 15 degrees in the extreme west, 15 to 20 in central to north portions, and 20 to 25 along the coast.

Charles Poletti Succeeds Lehman As Governor; Assurance Is Given

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Democratic Lieut. Governor Charles Poletti succeeds Herbert H. Lehman as governor of New York today with the latter's assurance that the state is, financially and otherwise, "in excellent condition."

Before resigning to direct foreign relief and rehabilitation under appointment by President Roosevelt, Lehman broadcast a valedictory accounting of his 10-year governorship last night with an assertion the state surplus may exceed $75,000,000 by the fiscal year-end, June 30.

Poletti, son of a Vermont stonecutter, will be sworn as chief executive (4 p. m., E.W.T.) soon after Lehman files his resignation with the secretary of state. Irving Lehman, chief judge of the Court of Appeals and brother of the governor, will administer the oath.

Poletti's plans thereafter are unknown. He was defeated for reelection as lieutenant governor by Thomas W. Wallace, Schenectady Republican.

Lehman stressed social labor accomplishments of his administration in his farewell address, expressed belief he has left no important problems "undisposed" and added:

"I am happy to be able to report that when Governor Dewey takes office on January 1, 1943, he will find the state in excellent condition."

Forseeing New York and its people in "a great role in the development of the world of tomorrow," the retiring governor said "people will not be satisfied to go back to the old order of things. They want security, lasting peace, goodwill, justice and opportunity."

"I know that the enlightened and humane people of New York state," he continued, "will continue to play their part in bringing about a better and more secure world."

The governor traced in detail various steps of his administration through the depression years, citing the closing and subsequent strengthening of banks, unemployment relief, the moratorium

Situation Grave for Axis Arms

Il Duce Speaks

Assails Anglo Prime Minister for His Statements

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Adolf Hitler was reported withdrawing at least part of his armies from the bloody 100-day-old siege of Stalingrad today, while on the shores of ancient Tunisia the allies cut off the vital Axis "escape corridor" to Tripoli.

Besides cutting off the avenue of retreat southward, crack shock troops of the British first army were reported to have cut the highway link between Bizerte and Tunis, thereby severing the last land communications between the two Axis citadels.

Rail communications had been cut previously.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said Stalingrad's defenders, folding back the weakening German siege lines, had recaptured a dominating hill on the southern side of the Volga metropolis and pushed out from two to five miles beyond the hill.

Red Star said the Russians defeated a German division in a two-day battle for the Satlingrad height.

On the Tunisian front, German headquarters asserted that counter-attacking Axis troops "threw the enemy out of several villages" yesterday and dispersed allied parachutists.

Significantly, neither Rome nor Berlin gave the scene of the action and again failed to mention that the key Axis strongholds of Bizerte and Tunis were virtually under siege and cut off from retreat.

Dispatches from North Africa said Hitler was frantically rushing reinforcements to Tunisia by sea and air in an attempt to stave off threatening disaster, even as American and French troops severed the coastal road some 200 miles south of Tunis, the capital.

Meanwhile, Hitler's Axis partner, Premier Mussolini, broke months of silence to warn the invasion-jittery Italian people that any weakening would mean Italy "would renounce forever its dream of being a great nation."

Capping reports of a mounting internal crisis in Italy, Il Duce declared he had " a vague impression that the Italian people want to hear me."

Then, bitterly, he assailed Prime Minister Churchill's blunt notice to the Italian people to get out of the war or get bombed out, and promised that Germany would help Italy with "powerful contributions" and "the joint Italian-German defenses will give the raiders a hot reception."

In the same breath, Mussolini disclosed that women and children were being evacuated from Italian cities to leave fighters as "masters of the situation."

Mass evacuations have already been reported from the Italian war-foundry cities of Turin, Milan and Genoa, the targets of heavy and repeated attacks by R. A. F. bombers in recent weeks. From Turin alone, 300,000 civilians are said to have fled to safer regions.

Asserting that the Italians "will not be inferior to the British and Russians," Mussolini declared that the war would last "forever—until we achieve complete victory."

On the Russian front, Soviet dispatches reported that Hitler was pulling troops from Stalingrad to bolster other German forces now all but trapped and threatened with annihilation on the snow-covered Steppes between the Don and Volga rivers.

The newspaper Pravda said a full Nazi division moved out of Stalingrad had counterattacked a fortified hill occupied by the Russians, but despite a local superiori-

Except for $500,000 in bequests to friends and old family retainers, the big estate will go to set up the Arbuckle - Jamison Foundation, which will be managed by three trustees. These trustees have power to select beneficaries with the limitation that either principal or income must go for such "religious, charitable and educational" uses as are "operated or conducted under Protestant or undenominational auspices" and conform to the laws of Pennsylvania and New York.

Trustees are Clara Dravo of Pittsburgh, a girlhood friend of Miss Jamison and her late sister, Martha, who lived but a block from the Jamison home in Pittsburgh and who under the will is given $50,000; Martin E. Goetzinger of New York, who has been associated with the estate. A third trustee named was the late John G. Frazer, Pittsburgh attorney.

Among the bequests were: Vassar Brothers Hospital of Poughkeepsie $10,000; Dr. Scott Lord Smith of Poughkeepsie, $25,000; Samuel Kevan, of New Paltz $5,000.

Other bequests were:

Elizabeth Guggan of Trenton, N. J., $10,000; Laura Green of New Hyde Park, Long Island, $5,000; Eli Depuy of Brooklyn, a house and lot at 3 Bridge Road, Sagamore Park, Bronxville; Martha Arnold of Atlantic City, N. J. $10,000; Minnie Arnold, (Mrs. George Arnold) of Atlantic City $25,000; Madison Avenue Presbyterian church, $10,000; William Milne of Long Island $25,000; Charles King Woodridge of New York $4,000.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Associated Press Science Writer)

New York, Dec. 2—The United States has some secret new planes that are "enough to make the angels gasp," the American Society of Mechanical Engineers was told today.

Major Nathaniel F. Silsbee, of the army air force, explained in a paper prepared for a meeting of the society that a score of new fighters, bombers and transports are under test. Many, he said, already have been flown, but are still on the secret list.

In addition to the new designs, the air force has developed a method of making wholesale alterations in planes after manufacture. This is done in places called modification centers, of which he said there are dozens. They are not all at aircraft factories.

These centers make quick alterations demanded by battle conditions, such as, said Major Silsbee, installing different type guns, or refitting with a landing gear that will not crack up in desert fighting.

Such centers altered Doolittle's planes to fit the bombing of Japan. They have painted planes a dusty pink for the Egyptian desert, and fitted others for Arctic regions.

He said that the tail gun added to the flying fortress caught the Nips so by surprise that nearly 100 Japanese planes were downed before a single ship was able to get back to tell the others what was happening.

"As the war proceeds," he added, "there is no intimating what further surprises in the way of speedy alteration and adaptation are in store for the Axis."

America is not building planes on a strictly mass production basis, but keeping the production fluid. Nevertheless, he said, there were present large-scale orders for planes in 1,000 and even 5,000 lots.

It is not generally realized, he declared, that most of the first-line military planes fighting today are the result of designs six years old. As examples he cited the German Messerschmitt ME-109, British Spitfire and Hurricane and American Curtiss Hawk P-36.

The Germans, he said, were reported to have at least two planes with pressure cabins, which relieve their crews of most of the handicaps of high altitude fighting. One is a fighter and the other a bomber.

Night Club Death Toll Nears 500; C. C. Clark Victim

Boston, Dec. 2 (AP)—The toll of dead in the Saturday night Cocoanut Grove night club fire crept close to 500 today, according to a Boston public safety committee tabulation, while the state, city, army and navy moved to investigate the causes of the tragedy and a Suffolk county grand jury gathered.

(Freeman Note: The tragedy was brought more closely to Kingston today with word that Clyde C. Clark, former student at St. Stephen's College, Annandale-on-Hudson, and his wife were victims in the fire.

(Mr. Clark, an accomplished pianist and orchestra leader, who at the time of his death was a resident of Keene, N. H., his home town, used to play at Kingston High School dances and was one of the leading musical figures of a decade and less ago when he played at leading night clubs in Greenwich Village.

(Mr. Clark, who attended St. Stephen's from 1922 to 1926, when he was graduated, was one of the most popular men in his class. He was a member of Kappa Gamma Chi, college local fraternity.)

After a final re-canvass of all its lists, the public safety committee announced that the dead had reached 490—with only three bodies still unidentified—while 174 lay injured or burned in hospitals. Of the injured, at least 35 had developed pneumonia as a result of inhalation of smoke and heat during the holocaust.

Meanwhile, throughout Boston and in many other communities funerals carried victims to their graves. In some, two and three members of the same family were laid to rest.

To Conduct Inquiries

Boston army and navy headquarters both revealed that they would conduct their own inquiries into the catastrophe because military personnel had perished in the fire, although the army indicated that it would not consider the civil aspects of the affair.

While licensing agencies investigated safety conditions in 52 closed night clubs and temporarily banned entertainment in any of the city's 1,161 eating and drinking places, city officials summoned additional witnesses before an inquest into the disaster.

One, Theodore Eldracher, a district inspector assigned to supervise alterations at the night club in February of this year, said that he had observed that a fire door was being installed between two parts of the club, but did not ascertain whether it had been covered with metal.

Disclosure that a three-year-old baby was in the Cocoanut Grove at the time of the fire and was carried out by a man who "looked ghastly" was made today by the next witness.

Mildred Lane, of Newton, who was a patron at the club, said that when she got out through a door leading to Shawmut avenue, "I turned around and saw a man holding a child high. I would say the child was about three years old. The child looked very ghastly. It wasn't making any noise at all that I could hear."

Miss Lane said that before her own escape she had been in a small dressing room off the main dining room in which there were about 50 people, and that "one of the women was screaming for her baby. She must have been one of the entertainers," but she add-

Meat Rationing Program Scheduled For Early Next Year; Coupons Are to Be in General Use

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP).—You'll have to learn how to juggle a new kind of money soon to put meat on the table.

Disclosing a few more details of the meat rationing program scheduled for early next year, the office of price administration explained some phases of the point rationing system which has been developed particularly for handling such commodities.

Shortly after New Year's, everyone will get war ration book No. 2. No. 1 was the sugar book which also is being used for coffee. Book No. 2 will contain 192 coupons of different colors, denominations, and lettering.

These coupons are the coin of the new money system which Americans will have to master. Instead of pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and halves, you'll have a red A-1 coupon, a red A-2 coupon, a red A-5 coupon, a red A-8 coupon, and a red B-1 coupon, and so on, through the whole alphabet (except I and O), and then all over again for the blue coupons in the same book.

When meat rationing starts, O.P.A. will asign certain letters for use the first month or period of weeks—perhaps red A, B and C for February—and then will put out a price list, in points, on various kinds of meat—maybe something like this:

Cut	Points per lb.
Hamburger	1
Porterhouse	8
Lamb chops	3
Bacon	5

This illustration is strictly hypothetical, because the big question which officials haven't settled yet is the point values to be assigned different kinds of meat. The points represent the figures on the coupons. An A-1 or an S-1 is good for one point, a B-5 or a T-5 points and so on. Two C-2's can be used for a 4-point purchase.

From this point on, you budget your points just like your money, except that it will be your points rather than your money that will be rationed. You might have a ration of 48 meat points for February. If you spend all your coupons on porterhouse, well you spend them all on porterhouse and that's that. If your taste runs to hamburger you get more of it for your coupons.

The government has printed 160,000,000 of these new "ration money" books, so that everyone can have one. While meat is expected to be the first commodity rationed with it, other things may be allotted with the same book. For instance, all the red coupons could be used for meat, leaving all the blue coupons for perhaps cothing, although O.P.A. does not contemplate clothing rationing at present.

Generally the point values will be figures on available supplies rather than on intrinsic values. In some cases O.P.A. might juggle the points from month to month, to influence the public to choose more plentiful things by making those items "cheap" in points. In the case of meat, for instance, steaks might be made very "expensive" in points to get people to eat more plentiful roasts—if that were the case—or pork might be made more expensive than beef, or vice versa.

P.S.: You'll still have to pay real money, of course, as well as coupons.

Zena Sailor Was in Navy About Year; George De Freese Is Listed as Missing

Word was received Friday by Mr. and Mrs. Edward White of Zena that their son, William White, who had been in the U. S. Navy for a year or so, had been killed in action. There are no details as to when or where he met his death. His parents had not heard from him in several months.

Besides his parents, who have been residents of Zena for eight or nine years, coming there from New York city, he leaves one sister, Margaret. Mr. White has been employed with the Kingan Packing Co., Poughkeepsie. The family has made their home in the former Shufeldt place at Zena, which they have conducted as a boarding house during their residence there.

William was well liked by all his friends and associates in Zena and was for two years a member of the Zena 4-H Club, where he took an active part in its work. He attended the Zena school and during 1940 attended the Kingston High School. According to records at the 4-H Club office he was born July 14, 1923 and enlisted in the Navy December 19, 1941.

It is stated that William is the second Zena boy in the armed forces of the United States to be reported missing. The other is George DeFreese, 18, who made his home with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Baldinger of Zena and who also enlisted in the Navy. He was reported missing some months since, following report that an American warship had been lost in the fog in North Atlantic waters. At that time a number of the crew of the ship were reported killed and others missing. It is stated that no word has been received from George since that time.

Cold Wave Warning

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—The weather bureau, following its regular morning forecast today, issued the following cold wave warning: Eastern New York: Light snow tonight. Much colder, with a cold wave and temperatures falling to 10 to 15 degrees in the extreme west, 15 to 20 in central to north portions, and 20 to 25 along the coast.

Charles Poletti Succeeds Lehman As Governor; Assurance Is Given

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Democratic Lieut. Governor Charles Poletti succeeds Herbert H. Lehman as governor of New York today with the latter's assurance that the state is, financially and otherwise, "in excellent condition."

Before resigning to direct foreign relief and rehabilitation under appointment by President Roosevelt, Lehman broadcast a valedictory accounting of his 10-year governorship last night with an assertion the state surplus may exceed $75,000,000 by the fiscal year-end, June 30.

Poletti, son of a Vermont stonecutter, will be sworn as chief executive (4 p. m., E.W.T.) soon after Lehman files his resignation with the secretary of state. Irving Lehman, chief judge of the Court of Appeals and brother of the governor, will administer the oath.

Poletti's plans thereafter are unknown. He was defeated for re-election as lieutenant governor by Thomas W. Wallace, Schenectady Republican.

Lehman stressed social labor accomplishments of his administration in his farewell address, expressed belief he has left no important problems "undisposed" and added:

"I am happy to be able to report that when Governor Dewey takes office on January 1, 1943, he will find the state in excellent condition."

Foreseeing New York and its people in "a great role in the development of the world of tomorrow," the retiring governor said "people will not be satisfied to go back to the old order of things. They want security, lasting peace, goodwill, justice and opportunity."

"I know that the enlightened and humane people of New York state," he continued, "will continue to play their part in bringing about a better and more secure world."

The governor traced in detail various steps of his administration through the depression years, citing the closing and subsequent strengthening of banks, unemployment relief, the moratorium

Situation Grave for Axis Arms

Il Duce Speaks

Assails Anglo Prime Minister for His Statements

By ROGER D. GREENE
(Associated Press War Editor)

Adolf Hitler was reported withdrawing at least part of his armies from the bloody 100-day-old siege of Stalingrad today, while on the shores of ancient Tunisia the allies cut off the vital Axis "escape corridor" to Tripoli.

Besides cutting off the avenue of retreat southward, crack shock troops of the British first army were reported to have cut the highway link between Bizerte and Tunis, thereby severing the last land communications between the two Axis citadels.

Rail communications had been cut previously.

The Soviet army newspaper Red Star said Stalingrad's defenders, folding back the weakening German siege lines, had recaptured a dominating hill on the southern side of the Volga metropolis and pushed out from two to five miles beyond the hill.

Red Star said the Russians defeated a German division in a two-day battle for the Satlingrad height.

On the Tunisian front, German headquarters asserted that counter-attacking Axis troops "threw the enemy out of several villages" yesterday and dispersed allied parachutists.

Significantly, neither Rome nor Berlin gave the scene of the action and again failed to mention that the key Axis strongholds of Bizerte and Tunis were virtually under siege and cut off from retreat.

Dispatches from North Africa said Hitler was frantically rushing reinforcements to Tunisia by sea and air in an attempt to stave off threatening disaster, even as American and French troops severed the coastal road some 200 miles south of Tunis, the capital.

Meanwhile, Hitler's Axis partner, Premier Mussolini, broke months of silence to warn the invasion-jittery Italian people that any weakening would mean Italy "would renounce forever its dream of being a great nation."

Capping reports of a mounting internal crisis in Italy, Il Duce declared he had "a vague impression that the Italian people want to hear me."

Then, bitterly, he assailed Prime Minister Churchill's blunt notice to the Italian people to get out of the war or get bombed out, and promised that Germany would help Italy with "powerful contributions" and "the joint Italian-German defenses will give the raiders a hot reception."

In the same breath, Mussolini disclosed that women and children were being evacuated from Italian cities to leave fighters as "masters of the situation."

Mass evacuations have already been reported from the Italian war-foundry cities of Turin, Milan and Genoa, the targets of heavy and repeated attacks by R. A. F. bombers in recent weeks. From Turin alone, 300,000 civilians are said to have fled to safer regions.

Asserting that the Italians "will not be inferior to the British and Russians," Mussolini declared that the war would last "forever—until we achieve complete victory."

On the Russian front, Soviet dispatches reported that Hitler was pulling troops from Stalingrad to bolster other German forces now all but trapped and threatened with annihilation on the snow-covered Steppes between the Don and Volga rivers.

The newspaper Pravda said a full Nazi division moved out of Stalingrad had counterattacked a fortified hill occupied by the Russians, but despite a local superiori-

Knox Says Losses Among Jap Force Five Times Ours

United States Navy Is Larger, Stronger Than Day Before Raid on Pearl Harbor

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Viewing the war outlook as the brightest in three years, Secretary of Navy Knox disclosed today that Japanese casualties are believed five times greater than America's and that the United States navy is larger and more powerful than—"the day before Pearl Harbor."

Balancing the nation's books of war near the end of a year of fighting, Knox told the National Association of Manufacturers' convention in a prepared speech:

"We have expended a lot of precious ships and material, but we have exacted a toll the enemy can ill afford."

The navy secretary asserted that while Japanese casualty figures could not be trusted even "if they were published," United States intelligence officers estimate that since December 7, 1941, to November 25, "the Japanese in all theatres have lost in killed or permanently injured roughly 250,000 men."

Approximately 37,000, he said, are navy casualties or about 10 per cent of the estimated Japanese naval personnel. United States naval losses, he said, are about one per cent of the personnel strength and estimates of comparative loss and damage of ships and planes is "equally encouraging."

"We have a larger and more powerful navy measured in tonnage, air power or anything else," he added, "than the day before Pearl Harbor—or the day after Pearl Harbor. Production records have been broken on almost every type of craft and I might add that the navy uses more than 150 different types.

Records Are Set

"I think you would like to know that the private companies and government yards which are building combat ships are setting records equal to anything now being achieved in the production of merchant ships."

Acknowledging that in the war effort America had displayed "timidity, hesitancy, inefficiency, confusion, waste and all the other things the critics say," Knox declared that in contrast:

"We have converted the greatest peaceful industrial plant into the greatest arsenal of all time.

"We have maintained our freedoms and our solvency at home.

"We have an army in the South Pacific; an army in Britain and an army in Africa and we equippped them.

"We have a navy on all the seas and it has no apologies for its performance to date.

"We have mounted offensives in two hemispheres.

"And the first anniversary of the war is still to come," he added. "Yes, I think as long as we do not overlook our failures there is nothing very immoral about taking a little comfort from our successes. I have said it before and I will again risk the assertion that, in view of the complexities and the enormity of the task, to date this has been America's best run war."

On the debit side, the secretary of navy cited the nation's 50,000 men killed and missing since Pearl Harbor, the "staggering total" of $46,000,000,000 spent on munitions and war construction this year, and predicted that the bill for 1943 would be more than $70,000,000,000.

"And we might as well face the hard fact right now," he said, "that we have a tough period directly ahead of us in the Atlantic. The operations in North Africa have tremendously increased the navy's task."

Knox declared that civilian sacrifices in 1942 were "but the forerunner of what's to come." In 1943, he observed, the nation will have to pay more taxes, work harder and experience more scarcities in many articles of food, convenience and comfort.

"Above and beyond all these changes, however, there will be one more important than all the rest," he added. "As time and battles go on, more and more homes in this land will display service flags with stars of gold. As war exacts its awful price they will become more impatient with delay, more intolerant of error.

"Summed up the changes which are ahead of us will mean that we will all live and work much closer to the war effort. If, as some say, we have only been ankle deep in the war this year, we will be up to our necks in the year ahead—in what Winston Churchill called that 'stern and terrible' year.

"And until we are in this thing up to our necks we cannot hope to end it."

Nuzzo Jury Selection Is Slow; Delays Trial

Newburgh, N. Y. Dec. 2 (AP)—Selection of a jury proceeded slowly for the trial of Samuel Nuzzo, former labor union business agent, on charges of grand larceny and forgery, dimming hope that introduction of evidence might begin by nightfall.

With 10 of 14 jurors seated at noon and the original panel nearly exhausted, defense and prosecution asked the court to prepare an additional list.

Assistant Attorney General Edward G. O'Neill, assigned by Governor Lehman as special prosecutor, had hoped to start taking testimony today.

Nuzzo, 46, is a former business agent of Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union (A.F.L.). The group claims 1,200 members, most of whom are working on the $300,000,000 New York city water project in the Hudson valley.

Horticultural Committee Meets to Plan Program

The program planning committee for the Eastern Meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society, which will be held in Kingston January 27, 28 and 29, met at the Governor Clinton Hotel today to make arrangements for the coming meeting.

Those present included Secretary Roy P. McPherson of LeRoy, N. Y., secretary-treasurer of the Society, Vice-presidents Theodore E. Cross of LaGrangeville and Gerow Schoonmaker of Wallkill, E. Stuart Hubbard of Poughkeepsie, Cyril G. Small, assistant Ulster County Farm Bureau agent and other Farm Bureau men and apple growers.

Secretary McPherson said that a program in keeping with war times and conditions was being planned for the Kingston meeting and it was hoped to have some prominent men from the U. S. Department of Agriculture present during the three days meeting to discuss questions that are perplexing the growers these days. These would include the question of adequate farm labor, securing necessary packages and equipment and other questions in which priorities and shortages are involved.

It will be a disappointment to many to learn that there will be no junior activities this year, such as the annual speaking contest, apple exhibits and judging, and the like, by the young folks. This is at the request of agricultural teachers and 4-H Club leaders, Mr. McPherson stated.

There will be little if any farm machinery exhibited this year, either at the Kingston or Rochester meetings, but Mr. McPherson said that he expected about the usual number of commercial exhibits, although smaller space would be taken. Representatives of the various farm machinery firms also will be present.

The meeting in Kingston will be held in the Municipal Auditorium, where exhibits will be shown and in the Common Council room at the city hall, where the speaking sessions will be held, the same as last year.

Attendance at these Eastern Meetings is always governed more or less by weather conditions, but outside of that Mr. McPherson said this morning that he expected to see about the usual attendance at the three days gathering, with most of the old familiar faces in evidence. Gasoline rationing undoubtedly will have some effect, but a large portion of the attendance is from people who come to Kingston by bus or train.

The regular annual meeting of the society, which is held in Rochester and at which officers are elected, will be held on January 13, 14 and 15—three days instead of four as usual. It is expected that exhibit space there will be cut to about one-third of normal, especially since it has been found necessary to return to convention hall, where meetings were held 20 years ago and which does not provide the space furnished in the three-story building in which meetings have been held in recent years.

Hitler Pulls Men From Stalingrad

ty in numbers the Germans were repulsed.

Pravda said the hill gave the Russians access to the rear of German forces immediately before Stalingrad.

Fighting still raged inside the city, with the Germans hugging pillboxes and shell-scarred buildings, but in the 40-mile-wide corridor to the west the Red Armies were reported steadily closing the jaws of a trap around Nazi forces estimated at 300,000 troops.

The precariousness of the German siege armies was emphasized by Soviet reports that Hitler was now resorting to giant transport planes to supply his forces as the Russians blocked rail and road communications.

"The enemy has been attempting to bring up supplies and war materials with transport planes."

Fresh Red Army gains were reported on both the Stalingrad and Moscow fronts, with the Soviet command declaring that "our troops continued their offensive . . . and occupied several populated places."

More than 6,000 Germans were listed as killed in the day's fighting.

Soviet troops battling their way down the east bank of the Don, in a vast wheeling operation to squeeze the Germans back against the bayonets of the Stalingrad garrison, were reported to have reached strong Nazi defenses and German resistance was described as bitter.

Nevertheless, "Red Army troops, breaking up the enemy's attempts, are continuing to advance," the Russians announced.

On the Moscow front, Soviet headquarters reported that more than 1,000 Germans were killed in a single battle as the Russians captured several villages west of Rzhev, key Nazi base 130 miles northwest of Moscow.

Another 1,700 Nazis were listed as killed in fighting east of Velikie Luki, less than 100 miles from the Latvian frontier.

In North Africa, Axis armies caught in a gigantic Allied "vise" pressing from east and west were strictly on the defensive.

On the eastern flank, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army opened up its big guns in a preliminary assault on the Germans entrenched in the El Agheila defile, a narrow corridor at the base of the Gulf of Sirte, and dispatches from Cairo indicated that the west-bound offensive was about to start anew.

A Berlin broadcast said air and land reinforcements, including a tank division, had reached the 8th Army drawn up against Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's defense line.

On the western flank, a broadcast from American-occupied Morocco said Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson's British 1st Army, strongly supported by American mobile forces, was now in contact with "the nucleus of enemy resistance" in the Bizerte-Tunis zone.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters said the German air force in Tunisia had suffered heavy blows from American and British fliers, but declared that "both German land and air forces are still fighting hard and making no effort to pull out."

Approximately 20,000 Axis combat troops, as well as thousands of specialists and helpers, were solidly entrenched behind minefields to the northern coastal region where the warriors of Scipio Africanus battled the Carthaginians many centuries ago.

No. 9 Coupon Worth Three

The amount of sugar that will be allowed for Stamp No. 10 in the sugar ration books which becomes valid on December 16, is not known as yet, it was stated at the office of the Kingston War Price and Rationing Board today. Stamp No. 9 in the ration book became valid on November 1, and is good until December 15. This stamp has a value of three pounds of sugar.

City Blackout Expected Soon

Air Raid Wardens, Associated Services Asked to Be on Alert

As a result of a letter written to General Thomas W. Darrah by Mayor William F. Edelmuth requesting that no practice blackouts be staged in Kingston during the holiday shopping season, it is expected that a practice blackout will be held within the next few days.

Mayor Edelmuth today requested that all air raid wardens and Civilian Defense units hold themselves in readiness for this expected blackout.

The mayor in his letter to General Darrah wrote that with the holiday season just a few weeks away he was asking that no blackout or alert be scheduled for the two weeks prior to Christmas.

The mayor in his letter pointed out that during the coming weeks the stores of the city will be taxed with shoppers from the outlying rural districts and as there had been no accidents to mar previous blackouts it was his desire to maintain that standard.

F.D.R. Reorganizes Petroleum Setup; Retains Ickes

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt today reorganized the government's petroleum administration, but kept Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes in charge.

No details of the reorganization were available immediately, but the White House promised the text of the order as soon as possible.

The order, however, appeared to dispose of the plan to make Ickes secretary of labor and manpower chief. Authoritative sources have indicated that Ickes had turned down the offer of the new job.

The White House said that pending the text of the order, all they could say about the reorganization was that Harold D. Smith, budget director, in submitting the draft of the order to the President, had expressed belief that the proposal represented the best definition of functions and division of responsibilities which can be achieved at this time.

A major question to be determined when the text of the order is made public will be whether Ickes will have any control over the rationing of gasoline and fuel oil, now administered by the Office of Price Administration under directives from the War Production Board.

The title of Ickes' new office will be "Petroleum Administration for War." The present office is called "Office of the Petroleum Coordinator for War."

Sidney Opens New Club

Announcement has been received from national headquarters of the opening in Sydney on Thanksgiving Day of the largest American Red Cross service club in Australia. A turkey dinner plus all the trimmings and an Allied dance featured the opening ceremonies and marked the first observance of Thanksgiving Day by U. S. troops in the "land down under." The new club contains restaurants and soda fountains serving typical American dishes; gymnasiums, game rooms, a barber shop, five lounges, beds to accommodate 150 men at one time, and a special officers' coffee shop. It caters especially to fliers returned from combat zones for rest and relaxation.

Couldn't Eat It All

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2 (AP)—After 60 nights in a fox hole on Guadalcanal Island, eating rice and corn beef twice a day, Corporal R. O. Middleton just knew he could devour anything but the table cloth when he got the opportunity, but he was wrong. "When we got to the states the first thing we did was go to a restaurant and order a full meal," he declared, "but we couldn't eat it all."

Ulster Heights Woman Is Injured in Accident

Mrs. Alice Lauber of Ulster Heights was injured about 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when the car in which she was riding, driven by her husband, Orrin R. Lauber, was in collision with a car driven by Richard C. Parker of 330 Clay avenue, Scranton, Pa., a salesman of the Hudson Coal Company of Scranton. Mr. Lauber was going toward Ellenville, on route 209 and Parker was driving north toward Kingston when the left front ends of both cars collided, near the intersection with the High Falls road.

Mrs. Lauber evidently struck the windshield of their car, which was broken. She sustained lacerations and bruises on her left cheek, forehead and head. She was taken to the Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville and her injuries were treated by Dr. O. M. Roberts. She was reported better this morning and her injuries apparently are not serious.

The accident was investigated by Deputy Sheriffs Clayton Vredenburg and Jacob DeWitt. It was snowing at the time and the road was wet.

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Stocks were generally steady today with steels and farm machinery shares drawing principal benefits from a limited buying interest.

Although plus marks were fairly numerous the gains were slim in most cases and some specialties dropped a point or so on tax selling. While improvement followed earlier backward action in certain groups the position of the list did not vary greatly and near the fourth hour many leaders were quoted about even with the previous finals.

Given modest support at intervals were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Sperry, American Telephone, American Can, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway and Chesapeake & Ohio. International Harvester, Oliver Farm and Westinghouse rose around a point.

Coca Cola, Douglas Aircraft and U. S. Rubber Preferred each fell back rather sharply under light selling. Smaller declines were recorded by United Aircraft, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, International Nickel and Owens-Illinois.

Bonds were narrow and uneven and commodities a shade better.

Two Officers Dive Plane 725 M. P. H.

Farmingdale, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP).—Two U. S. Army lieutenants recently dived P-47 Thunderbolt Fighter Planes at a speed of 725 miles an hour—more than 12 miles a minute—it was revealed today.

The Republic Aviation Corporation, in an announcement which it said was approved for publication by the war department, said that on November 15, Lieut. Harold Comstock, of Fresno, Calif., and Lieut. Roger Dyar, of Lowell, Ohio, both 22, hurtled downward in power dives so fast their control sticks were "frozen."

Both reported that they resorted to emergency devices to pull out of the dives.

Dr. Schairer Is Heard in Address

Kiwanis Club Sponsors High School Talk

One of the most interesting addresses delivered in some time in Kingston was that of Dr. Reinhold Schairer, speaking in the auditorium of the Kingston High School on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Kingston Kiwanis Club. Dr. Schairer took as his topic, "Know Your Enemy."

During the course of his address Dr. Schairer said that England and France did not know their enemy until too late, and that they continued to make treaties with Hitler trusting to his promises. Only President Roosevelt, he said, recognized the true Hitler from the beginning, and that it was due to the President's understanding that one year after Pearl Harbor well equipped armies were being sent overseas.

Dr. Schairer warned that victories over Hitler's well trained armies would not be easy, and that through propaganda stories of the internal weakness of Germany Goebbels was hoping to slow down the preparations of the nations fighting Germany.

Another danger he pointed out was the fear of the German people that if they were defeated they would be annihilated. Even now he said they are being taught to fear the vengeance of such nations as Czechoslovakia, France and Holland who have suffered so terribly at the hands of the Germans. He said that Hitler, a master of mob psychology, was leaving no stone unturned to foster this fear in the hearts of the German people.

Dr. Schairer warned that the Nazis will do their satanic worst before they go down to defeat, and that plans now exist to destroy as many of the conquered peoples as possible. This plan he said includes the use of poison gas. A quick Allied victory he said was necessary to mitigate this horror.

The speaker said that the Nazis also plan to kill off all those who are capable of becoming leaders in democratic reconstruction. It was Hitler's intention, he said, to leave no one to whom the people of Europe could turn for a constructive program at the close of the war. The only way to save these leaders was to speed the end of the conflict.

Another danger of which the speaker warned was that this war, like the first World War, would bring an unsatisfactory peace that would be only another armistice. A three-year failure in post war reconstruction Hitler plans will be sufficient to lead to a revolution which will give the Nazis an opportunity to stage a comeback. While Hitler is preparing his people for defeat he is counting on the Nazi education of the youth to take over and force his ideas upon the world.

In closing Dr. Schairer emphasized the tremendous task that confronts the democracies in reeducating millions of European youths to the ideals of democracy. This will prove no easy task but only in accomplishing it can the world hope to defeat Hitler's hope of a third World War.

Grand Jury Makes 14 Indictments

None of the defendants named in either the open or sealed bills were arraigned at this time and Justice Bergan directed that the rights of all defendants be maintained pending arraignments later in County Court. Justice Bergan discharged the grand jurors with the thanks of the court and directed that a resolution filed by the grand jurors praising the conduct of the grand jury proceedings under District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Assistant District Attorney Fred Stang, be filed. The resolution also commended Sheriff Anderson and his staff on the good condition found in the county jail and other public offices.

The six dismissals reported by the grand jury were:

Walter L. Constable, Lloyd, rape, second degree.

Frank M. Williams, town of Shawangunk, burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry.

Hugh O'Neil, Jr., Kingston, robbery, second degree, growing out of a purse snatching incident on October 23 in Kingston.

George A. Sweet, assault, second degree, in the town of Shandaken on September 11.

Philip E. Cutler, abduction, in the town of Lloyd on October 31.

In the above six cases where no bill of indictment was found, Mr. Haver moved that where the defendant was in jail the court direct a discharge and in cases where bail had been posted that this bail be exonerated. Granted.

ed, it was a man who carried out the child.

Morrill Sidney Guerin of Brookline, a waiter at the club, testified the lights went out about four or five minutes after the fire started. Just before the club was plunged into darkness he said he saw another waiter grab Mrs. Katherine Swett, the cashier by the hand and attempt to drag her out. She refused to go, saying she had to guard the cash drawer. Mrs. Swett died in the fire.

Fire Cimmissioner William A. Reilly asked him whether there was anything "strange about the smoke?"

"There was acid in the smoke," Guerin replied.

"How could you tell there was acid in the smoke?"

"It choked a person quickly," Guerin replied. "I held my handkerchief around my nose, but could feel the smoke coming through. It was either acid or something like burned cloth."

He said the smoke had no ill effects on his eyes or nose, but added "my mouth and throat became congested."

Meanwhile, the city of Lowell today closed all below-street-level eating and drinking places, banned the use of revolving doors in all licensed places and prohibited the use of artificial decorations of all kinds.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Contraband

Miami, Fla. — Picked up by police for a dimout headlight violation, a winter tourist was found to be all set for a pleasant winter.

In the car, and on the driver, police found three gasoline ration books, one extra sheet of A-3 tickets, one extra sheet of eight loose S coupons, one 53-gallon drum half filled with gasoline, and three extra unmounted tires.

Executive Slip

"Here is an opportunity for the owner to demonstrate his patriotism and conserve gasoline," the pastor said, reading the car's license number.

Dear Santy:

Medford, Ore. — The first letter to Santa Claus from a Camp White soldier to reach the camp post office read:

"Dear Santy: Due to the fact that there is a war on, I wanted to get my Christmas order in early. My want list is as follows: One quart—any brand, but good. One honorable discharge right after we've settled this war."

Concrete

While rummaging for some relics to give the local American Legion post, she came across a chunk of hardtack her late husband's father had carried in the Civil War.

Safety for Soldiers

Every body of men marching at night is equipped with amber glass reflectors to be worn on the belts of the first and last three men in the column. Student flight commanders also carry flash lights.

STAGES "AIR RAID"

Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—Oscar Payne, Red Cross instructor, is a realist.

He staged a mock raid on a civil air patrol unit taking an evening lesson.

The room was dimmed out as the raid was reported and Payne laid on the drama heavily as the planes came closer and closer.

As the first bombs were supposed to strike, the lights went out, there was an explosion and a terrific series of crashes.

Payne had slipped a horse-pistol from a brief case and had fired it in the small room at the same moment that he kicked a large garbage can lid and sent it bouncing across the floor.

"It took some time for the screams and pandemonium to die down and even as long as ten minutes later several people were so nervous they had trouble lighting cigarettes," reported Payne.

Knox Says Losses Among Jap Force Five Times Ours

United States Navy Is Larger, Stronger Than Day Before Raid on Pearl Harbor

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Viewing the war outlook as the brightest in three years, Secretary of Navy Knox disclosed today that Japanese casualties are believed five times greater than America's and that the United States navy is larger and more powerful than—"the day before Pearl Harbor."

Balancing the nation's books of war near the end of a year of fighting, Knox told the National Association of Manufacturers' convention in a prepared speech:

"We have expended a lot of precious ships and material, but we have exacted a toll the enemy can ill afford."

The navy secretary asserted that while Japanese casualty figures could not be trusted even "if they were published," United States intelligence officers estimate that since December 7, 1941, to November 25, "the Japanese in all theatres have lost in killed or permanently injured roughly 250,000 men."

Approximately 37,000, he said, are navy casualties or about 10 per cent of the estimated Japanese naval personnel. United States naval losses, he said, are about one per cent of the personnel strength and estimates of comparative loss and damage of ships and planes is "equally encouraging."

"We have a larger and more powerful navy measured in tonnage, air power or anything else," he added, "than the day before Pearl Harbor—or the day after Pearl Harbor. Production records have been broken on almost every type of craft and I might add that the navy uses more than 150 different types.

Records Are Set

"I think you would like to know that the private companies and government yards which are building combat ships are setting records equal to anything now being achieved in the production of merchant ships."

Acknowledging that in the war effort America had displayed "timidity, hesitancy, inefficiency, confusion, waste and all the other things the critics say," Knox declared that in contrast:

"We have converted the greatest peaceful industrial plant into the greatest arsenal of all time.

"We have maintained our freedoms and our solvency at home.

"We have an army in the South Pacific; an army in Britain and an army in Africa and we equippped them.

"We have a navy on all the seas and it has no apologies for its performance to date.

"We have mounted offensives in two hemispheres.

"And the first anniversary of the war is still to come," he added. "Yes, I think as long as we do not overlook our failures there is nothing very immoral about taking a little comfort from our successes. I have said it before and I will again risk the assertion that, in view of the complexities and the enormity of the task, to date this has been America's best run war."

On the debit side, the secretary of navy cited the nation's 50,000 men killed and missing since Pearl Harbor, the "staggering total" of $46,000,000,000 spent on munitions and war construction this year, and predicted that the bill for 1943 would be more than $70,000,000,000.

"And we might as well face the hard fact right now;" he said, "that we have a tough period directly ahead of us in the Atlantic. The operations in North Africa have tremendously increased the navy's task."

Knox declared that civilian sacrifices in 1942 were "but the forerunner of what's to come." In 1943, he observed, the nation will have to pay more taxes, work harder and experience more scarcities in many articles of food, convenience and comfort.

"Above and beyond all these changes, however, there will be one more important than all the rest," he added. "As time and battles go on, more and more homes in this land will display service flags with stars of gold. As war exacts its awful price they will become more impatient with delay, more intolerant of error.

"Summed up the changes which are ahead of us will mean that we will all live and work much closer to the war effort. If, as some say, we have only been ankle deep in the war this year, we will be up to our necks in the year ahead—in what Winston Churchill called that 'stern and terrible' year.

"And until we are in this thing up to our necks we cannot hope to end it."

Nuzzo Jury Selection Is Slow; Delays Trial

Newburgh, N. Y. Dec. 2 (AP)—Selection of a jury proceeded slowly for the trial of Samuel Nuzzo, former labor union business agent, on charges of grand larceny and forgery, dimming hope that introduction of evidence might begin by nightfall.

With 10 of 14 jurors seated at noon and the original panel nearly exhausted, defense and prosecution asked the court to prepare an additional list.

Assistant Attorney General Edward G. O'Neill, assigned by Governor Lehman as special prosecutor, had hoped to start taking testimony today.

Nuzzo, 45, is a former business agent of Local 17, International Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers Union (A.F.L.). The group claims 1,200 members, most of whom are working on the $300,000,000 New York city water project in the Hudson valley.

Horticultural Committee Meets to Plan Program

The program planning committee for the Eastern Meeting of the New York State Horticultural Society, which will be held in Kingston January 27, 28 and 29, met at the Governor Clinton Hotel today to make arrangements for the coming meeting.

Those present included Secretary Roy P. McPherson of LeRoy, N. Y., secretary-treasurer of the Society, Vice-presidents Theodore E. Cross of LaGrangeville and Gerow Schoonmaker of Wallkill, E. Stuart Hubbard of Poughkeepsie, Cyril G. Small, assistant Ulster County Farm Bureau agent and other Farm Bureau men and apple growers.

Secretary McPherson said that a program in keeping with war times and conditions was being planned for the Kingston meeting and it was hoped to have some prominent men from the U. S. Department of Agriculture present during the three days meeting to discuss questions that are perplexing the growers these days. These would include the question of adequate farm labor, securing necessary packages and equipment and other questions in which priorities and shortages are involved.

It will be a disappointment to many to learn that there will be no junior activities this year, such as the annual speaking contest, apple exhibits and judging, and the like, by the young folks. This is at the request of agricultural teachers and 4-H Club leaders, Mr. McPherson stated.

There will be little if any farm machinery exhibited this year, either at the Kingston or Rochester meetings, but Mr. McPherson said that he expected about the usual number of commercial exhibits, although smaller space would be taken. Representatives of the various farm machinery firms also will be present.

The meeting in Kingston will be held in the Municipal Auditorium, where exhibits will be shown and in the Common Council room at the city hall, where the speaking sessions will be held, the same as last year.

Attendance at these Eastern Meetings is always governed more or less by weather conditions, but outside of that Mr. McPherson said this morning that he expected to see about the usual attendance at the three days gathering, with most of the old familiar faces in evidence. Gasoline rationing undoubtedly will have some effect, but a large portion of the attendance is from people who come to Kingston by bus or train.

The regular annual meeting of the society, which is held in Rochester and at which officers are elected, will be held on January 13, 14 and 15—three days instead of four as usual. It is expected that exhibit space there will be cut to about one-third of normal, especially since it has been found necessary to return to convention hall, where meetings were held 20 years ago and which does not provide the space furnished in the three-story building in which meetings have been held in recent years.

ty in numbers the Germans were repulsed.

Pravda said the hill gave the Russians access to the rear of German forces immediately before Stalingrad.

Fighting still raged inside the city, with the Germans hugging pillboxes and shell-scarred buildings, but in the 40-mile-wide corridor to the west the Red Armies were reported steadily closing the jaws of a trap around Nazi forces estimated at 300,000 troops.

The precariousness of the German siege armies was emphasized by Soviet reports that Hitler was now resorting to giant transport planes to supply his forces as the Russians blocked rail and road communications.

"The enemy has been attempting to bring up supplies and war materials with transport planes."

Fresh Red Army gains were reported on both the Stalingrad and Moscow fronts, with the Soviet command declaring that "our troops continued their offensive . . . and occupied several populated places."

More than 6,000 Germans were listed as killed in the day's fighting.

Soviet troops battling their way down the east bank of the Don, in a vast wheeling operation to squeeze the Germans back against the bayonets of the Stalingrad garrison, were reported to have reached strong Nazi defenses and German resistance was described as bitter.

Nevertheless, "Red Army troops, breaking up the enemy's attempts, are continuing to advance," the Russians announced.

On the Moscow front, Soviet headquarters reported that more than 1,000 Germans were killed in a single battle as the Russians captured several villages west of Rzhev, key Nazi base 130 miles northwest of Moscow.

Another 1,700 Nazis were listed as killed in fighting east of Velikie Luki, less than 100 miles from the Latvian frontier.

In North Africa, Axis armies caught in a gigantic Allied "vise" pressing from east and west were strictly on the defensive.

On the eastern flank, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British 8th Army opened up its big guns in a preliminary assault on the Germans entrenched in the El Agheila defile, a narrow corridor at the base of the Gulf of Sirte, and dispatches from Cairo indicated that the west-bound offensive was about to start anew.

A Berlin broadcast said air and land reinforcements, including a tank division, had reached the 8th Army drawn up against Nazi Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's defense line.

On the western flank, a broadcast from American-occupied Morocco said Lieut.-Gen. Kenneth A. N. Anderson's British 1st Army, strongly supported by American mobile forces, was now in contact with "the nucleus of enemy resistance" in the Bizerte-Tunis zone.

A spokesman at Allied headquarters said the German air force in Tunisia had suffered heavy blows from American and British fliers, but declared that "both German land and air forces are still fighting hard and making no effort to pull out."

Approximately 20,000 Axis combat troops, as well as thousands of specialists and helpers, were solidly entrenched behind minefields in the northern coastal region where the warriors of Scipio Africanus battled the Carthaginians many centuries ago.

City Blackout Expected Soon

Air Raid Wardens, Associated Services Asked to Be on Alert

As a result of a letter written to General Thomas W. Darrah by Mayor William F. Edelmuth requesting that no practice blackouts be staged in Kingston during the holiday shopping season, it is expected that a practice blackout will be held within the next few days.

Mayor Edelmuth today requested that all air raid wardens and Civilian Defense units hold themselves in readiness for this expected blackout.

The mayor in his letter to General Darrah wrote that with the holiday season just a few weeks away he was asking that no blackout or alert be scheduled for the two weeks prior to Christmas.

The mayor in his letter pointed out that during the coming weeks the stores of the city will be taxed with shoppers from the outlying rural districts and as there had been no accidents to mar previous blackouts it was his desire to maintain that standard.

F.D.R. Reorganizes Petroleum Setup; Retains Ickes

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Roosevelt today reorganized the government's petroleum administration, but kept Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes in charge.

No details of the reorganization were available immediately, but the White House promised the text of the order as soon as possible.

The order, however, appeared to dispose of the plan to make Ickes secretary of labor and manpower chief. Authoritative sources have indicated that Ickes had turned down the offer of the new job.

The White House said that pending the text of the order, all they could say about the reorganization was that Harold D. Smith, budget director, in submitting the draft of the order to the President, had expressed belief that the proposal represented the best definition of functions and division of responsibilities which can be achieved at this time.

A major question to be determined when the text of the order is made public will be whether Ickes will have any control over the rationing of gasoline and fuel oil, now administered by the Office of Price Administration under directives from the War Production Board.

The title of Ickes' new office will be "Petroleum Administration for War." The present office is called "Office of the Petroleum Coordinator for War."

Sidney Opens New Club

Announcement has been received from national headquarters of the opening in Sydney on Thanksgiving Day of the largest American Red Cross service club in Australia. A turkey dinner plus all the trimmings and an Allied dance featured the opening ceremonies and marked the first observance of Thanksgiving Day by U. S. troops in the "land down under." The new club contains restaurants and soda fountains serving typical American dishes; gymnasiums, game rooms, a barber shop, five lounges, beds to accommodate 150 men at one time, and a special officers' coffee shop. It caters especially to fliers returned from combat zones for rest and relaxation.

Couldn't Eat It All

Baton Rouge, La., Dec. 2 (AP)—After 60 nights in a fox hole on Guadalcanal Island, eating rice and corn beef twice a day, Corporal R. O. Middleton just knew he could devour anything but the table cloth when he got the opportunity, but he was wrong. "When we got to the states the first thing we did was go to a restaurant and order a full meal," he declared, "but we couldn't eat it all."

Ulster Heights Woman Is Injured in Accident

Mrs. Alice Lauber of Ulster Heights was injured about 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon when the car in which she was riding, driven by her husband, Orrin R. Lauber, was in collision with a car driven by Richard C. Parker of 330 Clay avenue, Scranton, Pa., a salesman of the Hudson Coal Company of Scranton. Mr. Lauber was going toward Ellenville, on route 209 and Parker was driving north toward Kingston when the left front ends of both cars collided, near the intersection with the High Falls road.

Mrs. Lauber evidently struck the windshield of their car, which was broken. She sustained lacerations and bruises on her left cheek, forehead and head. She was taken to the Veterans Memorial Hospital in Ellenville and her injuries were treated by Dr. O. M. Roberts. She was reported better this morning and her injuries apparently are not serious.

The accident was investigated by Deputy Sheriffs Clayton Vredenburg and Jacob DeWitt. It was snowing at the time and the road was wet.

Christmas Seals Fund Has Reached Quarter of Goal

Results of the first week of the Christmas Seal Sale of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Association, total $2842.81, Alfred D. Ronder, treasurer of the campaign committee reported today.

"This means that we are about one-fourth of the way toward our goal," he said. The goal set for Ulster County is $11,000. Christmas Seal funds, according to Mr. Ronder are used for fighting tuberculosis, syphilis and other diseases and keeping up public health in Kingston and Ulster county. Also included in the many activities of the Association is Camp Happyland, where each year during July and August, about 96 children are given care and health training for four weeks each.

Twice she represented the American fishing fleets in international races against the Bluenose of Nova Scotia.

In her capacity, she will patrol off the New England coast, the announcement said.

Her owner and former racing skipper, Captain Ben Pine, will turn the vessel over to Commander Fletcher Brown, section coast guard officer.

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Stocks were generally steady today with steels and farm machinery shares drawing principal benefits from a limited buying interest.

Although plus marks were fairly numerous the gains were slim in most cases and some specialties dropped a point or so on tax selling. While improvement followed earlier backward action in certain groups the position of the list did not vary greatly and near the fourth hour many leaders were quoted about even with the previous finals.

Given modest support at intervals were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, General Motors, Chrysler, Boeing, Sperry, American Telephone, American Can, N. Y. Central, Southern Railway and Chesapeake & Ohio. International Harvester, Oliver Farm and Westinghouse rose around a point.

Coca Cola, Douglas Aircraft and U. S. Rubber Preferred each fell back rather sharply under light selling. Smaller declines were recorded by United Aircraft, Sears Roebuck, Montgomery Ward, International Nickel and Owens-Illinois.

Bonds were narrow and uneven and commodities a shade better.

Old Greenwich, Conn., Dec. 2 (AP)—Efforts of John F. Bannon of 342 Sound Beach avenue to conserve fuel oil boomeranged last night when an old pot bellied stove installed in the fire place of his living room exploded, causing painful injuries to Mrs. Bannon, upsetting furniture and breaking five windows. Mrs. Bannon, blown across the room, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and severe bruises and lacerations. Bannon suffered only minor bruises and burns.

Two Officers Dive Plane 725 M. P. H.

Farmingdale, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Two U. S. Army lieutenants recently dived P-47 Thunderbolt Fighter Planes at a speed of 725 miles an hour—more than 12 miles a minute—it was revealed today.

The Republic Aviation Corporation, in an announcement which it said was approved for publication by the war department, said that on November 15, Lieut. Harold Comstock, of Fresno, Calif., and Lieut. Roger Dyar, of Lowell, Ohio, both 22, hurtled downward in power dives so fast their control sticks were "frozen."

Both reported that they resorted to emergency devices to pull out of the dives.

Dr. Schairer Is Heard in Address

Kiwanis Club Sponsors High School Talk

One of the most interesting addresses delivered in some time in Kingston was that of Dr. Reinhold Schairer, speaking in the auditorium of the Kingston High School on Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Kingston Kiwanis Club. Dr. Schairer took as his topic, "Know Your Enemy."

During the course of his address Dr. Schairer said that England and France did not know their enemy until too late, and that they continued to make treaties with Hitler trusting to his promises. Only President Roosevelt, he said, recognized the true Hitler from the beginning, and that it was due to the President's understanding that one year after Pearl Harbor well equipped armies were being sent overseas.

Dr. Schairer warned that victories over Hitler's well trained armies would not be easy, and that through propaganda stories of the internal weakness of Germany Goebbels was hoping to slow down the preparations of the nations fighting Germany.

Another danger he pointed out was the fear of the German people that if they were defeated they would be annihilated. Even now he said they are being taught to fear the vengeance of such nations as Czechoslovakia, France and Holland who have suffered so terribly at the hands of the Germans. He said that Hitler, a master of mob psychology, was leaving no stone unturned to foster this fear in the hearts of the German people.

Dr. Schairer warned that the Nazis will do their satanic worst before they go down to defeat, and that plans now exist to destroy as many of the conquered peoples as possible. This plan he said includes the use of poison gas. A quick Allied victory he said was necessary to mitigate this horror.

The speaker said that the Nazis also plan to kill off all those who are capable of becoming leaders in democratic reconstruction. It was Hitler's intention, he said, to leave no one to whom the people of Europe could turn for a constructive program at the close of the war. The only way to save these leaders was to speed the end of the conflict.

Another danger of which the speaker warned was that this war, like the first World War, would bring an unsatisfactory peace that would be only another armistice. A three-year failure in post war reconstruction Hitler plans will be sufficient to lead to a revolution which will give the Nazis an opportunity to stage a comeback. While Hitler is preparing his people for defeat he is counting on the Nazi education of the youth to take over and force his ideas upon the world.

In closing Dr. Schairer emphasized the tremendous task that confronts the democracies in reeducating millions of European youths to the ideals of democracy. This will prove no easy task but only in accomplishing it can the world hope to defeat Hitler's hope of a third World War.

None of the defendants named in either the open or sealed bills were arraigned at this time and Justice Bergan directed that the rights of all defendants be maintained pending arraignments later in County Court. Justice Bergan discharged the grand jurors with the thanks of the court and directed that a resolution filed by the grand jurors praising the conduct of the grand jury proceedings under District Attorney N. LeVan Haver and Assistant District Attorney Fred Stang, be filed. The resolution also commended Sheriff Anderson and his staff on the good condition found in the county jail and other public offices.

The six dismissals reported by the grand jury were:

Walter L. Constable, Lloyd, rape, second degree.

Frank M. Williams, town of Shawangunk, burglary, third degree, and unlawful entry.

Hugh O'Neil, Jr., Kingston, robbery, second degree, growing out of a purse snatching incident on October 23 in Kingston.

George A. Sweet, assault, second degree, in the town of Shandaken on September 11.

Philip E. Cotler, abduction, in the town of Lloyd on October 31.

In the above six cases where no bill of indictment was found, Mr. Haver moved that where the defendant was in jail the court direct a discharge and in cases where bail had been posted that this bail be exonerated. Granted.

ed, it was a man who carried out the child.

Morrill Sidney Guerin of Brookline, a waiter at the club, testified the lights went out about four or five minutes after the fire started. Just before the club was plunged into darkness he said he saw another waiter grab Mrs. Katherine Swett, the cashier, by the hand and attempt to drag her out. She refused to go, saying she had to guard the cash drawer. Mrs. Swett died in the fire.

Fire Commissioner William A. Reilly asked him whether there was anything "strange about the smoke?"

"There was acid in the smoke," Guerin replied.

"How could you tell there was acid in the smoke?"

"It choked a person quickly," Guerin replied. "I held my handkerchief around my nose, but could feel the smoke coming through. It was either acid or something like burned cloth."

He said the smoke had no ill effects on his eyes or nose, but added "my mouth and throat became congested."

Meanwhile, the city of Lowell today closed all below-street-level eating and drinking places, banned the use of revolving doors in all licensed places and prohibited the use of artificial decorations of all kinds.

MOVIES AND BONDS

E. B. White, of "One Man's Meat" comments, in the December Harper's, on the American practice of actress appearances to sell bonds.

"This particular brand of rally is a rather odd American phenomenon—the spectacle of a people with homes and future at stake, their own lives threatened and the lives of their sons hanging by a thread, having to goad themselves to meet the challenge by indulging in a fit of actor worship and the veneration of the Hollywood gods."

Mr. White says every race has its own national forms and ecstasies, its own way of doing business and getting results. The Japanese have their Emperor, an idol, the Germans their State, identified with the Fuehrer. Americans have their Abe Lincoln, their Concord Bridge, their Bill of Rights, which he calls somewhat intellectual appurtenances.

"For pure idolatry and the necessary hysteria which must accompany the separation of the individual from his money they turn to Dorothy Lamour, or Beauty-at-a-Distance."

Before he went to the rally, Mr. White poked fun at the idea. But once in attendance at the "goofy American occasion" he found himself very glad to be there. Americans may be funny, but given their screen stars, they do buy their bonds for a high cause.

WARRING ON WOMEN

Once upon a time anyone wishing to infuriate a warrior would accuse him of making war on women. From time immemorial those have been fighting words. They may still be, but in the case of the Nazis and their hangers-on they are true words. Hungary has just proved this in the case of Madame Maurus Jokai.

Jokai was Hungary's greatest novelist. His works were translated into twenty-four different languages, and 108 of his books have appeared in English. Not a Hungarian town but has a street which bears his name. But he was pro-British until his death in 1904, and he disliked the Germans. The Nazis, who have long memories, have finally had a chance to do something about it by taking out their spite upon his widow.

Madame Jokai agreed in 1912 to give her husband's books and papers to the Hungarian National Museum in return for a life pension. In 1939 she came to England to arrange for a complete English edition of her husband's works, and because of ill health has remained there ever since. No objection was, until lately, raised by the Hungarian government.

Now Hungary, under Nazi pressure, has cut off her pension and left her, an aged and ailing woman, penniless to satisfy Nazi spite.

FOOLING YOURSELF

Many citizens seem to be fooling themselves about this tire-saving business. Rubber-dictator Jeffers mentioned it the other day. "The people are being told," he said, "that the 35-mile speed limit will save all the rubber that is necessary. That isn't true. The wheels can be driven off an automobile at 35 just as well as 60. It merely takes longer."

The safest way is not to take the car out unless you have to. And there's another thing worth mentioning. When you do drive, and shoot up to 50 or 60 miles on an open highway where there's nobody looking, don't imagine you're not harming anybody. You're harming yourself by wearing out those tires twice as fast.

FEWER LAWYERS

Whether lawyers really deserve all the charges brought against them, or whether that is just a time-honored tradition, may be open to argument. If present conditions continued for a while, say 100 years, this would be what lawyers call a moot argument, something suitable for debate but not necessarily of practical moment. For the once ceaseless stream of additions to the profession is drying to a trickle.

The law schools are losing students so fast that those which depend on tuition for their funds are in a bad way. Large and small are being hit. The Harvard law school six years ago had 1,500 students, now 93. The Yale school has dropped from 375 to 105, Wisconsin from 400 to 92. And the end is not yet.

A lawyerless world would be a strange world indeed. Certainly Congress and the state legislatures would tread new paths without their lawyer members.

FRENCH REDEMPTION

It might be said of those Frenchmen who deliberately blew up their navy at Toulon, and went down with it, that "nothing in their life became them like the leaving of it." It was a French gesture in the grand style, which at its best is also the style of antique Romans. The navy was trapped. They might have saved their lives by surrender, but they laughed in Hitler's face and sank with a salute to their country. The free world salutes them.

That sacrifice will not be in vain. It redeems France and raises new courage in living Frenchmen's hearts. If Frenchmen can foil their brutal destroyers by death, other Frenchmen can defy them by living opposition. The army of "Free French" newly formed in Africa is growing and marching. It is reported that 95 per cent of the French nation is relentlessly set against Hitler and his invaders, and only waiting for arms to sweep them back as Russia is doing.

America, already arming the valiant French Africans, must bring arms to their helpless comrades in France. When that is done, the war will end soon.

ISOLATION IMPOSSIBLE

"The age of aviation has brought with it the impossibility of isolation, and this makes inevitable a trend toward a truly global political structure." So says William Burden, aviation assistant to Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones.

He is right. Like it or not, Americans live in a world where they are close to many neighbors, and every year, with its improvements in transportation, brings them closer. They can no more ignore what other countries do than they could overlook a smallpox epidemic in the next street.

It remains to be seen whether we softhearted Americans are even yet capable of dealing firmly with any nation when we've once got it licked.

FOOD FOR INDUSTRY WORKERS

It must be gratifying to our research workers in nutrition to see how, in hundreds, if not thousands, of factories engaged in making armament and war utensils, the quantity and quality of the foods sold at the cafeterias of these industrial plants is under the supervision of trained dieticians.

One of the first points noticed in the printed menus at the tables or on the walls is the emphasis placed on meats. The workers are encouraged to eat meat not only at the evening meal but at their noon meal or lunch. That plenty of bread and potatoes should be eaten to give energy is also advised, but the meat is especially needed to repair worn tissues and cells caused by strenuous war work.

It will also be noticed in these menus, in addition to more meat than formerly and the usual amount of bread and potatoes, that fruits, green and yellow vegetables, and plenty of milk, are advised to make sure of obtaining the minerals and vitamins necessary to every tissue and cell in the body.

In an address on Nutrition and Industrial Health before the Second Pennsylvania Health Institute, Dr. Frank G. Bondreau, New York, stated that education in nutrition of the industrial worker can be made effective by following these suggestions:

1. A trained dietician can be made available to the employes and their families for advice on diet.
2. Information on nutrition can be made a regular feature of the plant's publications.
3. Pay envelope slips, listing items of food of good nutritional or nourishing value which are in season or on the market at reasonable prices can be used.
4. Posters emphasizing the importance of good nutrition can be placed in selected positions about the plant.
5. Pamphlets on nutrition, provided by such agencies as the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture, can be distributed to workers and their families.
6. The maintenance of a cafeteria system, where foods of high nutritional value are served "in an attractive fashion", so that the employes learn to appreciate how nice they taste as well as how nourishing they are, is one of the best ways of attracting their attention and careful consideration.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

With winter just around the corner it is interesting to recall that on October 16, 1912, G. F. Regendahl picked some ripe strawberries from the vines in his garden on O'Neil street, while Peter H. Osterhoudt picked ripe raspberries in his garden on Oak street.

One of the best known men in banking circles in Kingston is Charles Snyder, who was elected cashier of the National Ulster County Bank on October 9, 1912, a position he still holds.

I also recall that at the November election in 1912, William C. DeWitt was elected county clerk; James Jenkins, county judge and G. D. B. Hasbrouck to the Supreme Court bench.

Many of the older readers of this column may recall that on May 1, 1895, the free delivery mail system was inaugurated, and the first letter delivered by carrier in the city was left at the home of Abram Hasbrouck on Mill street.

When the free delivery was first proposed for Kingston there was considerable agitation in Kingston not so much over the inauguration of the system but that the uptown post office was to be designated as the main office, while the post office on the Strand was to be known as Station R.

However, the plan went through as first proposed and ever since then residents of Kingston have received their mail delivered at their homes.

I recall that the first ten letter carriers to serve when the system was inaugurated that May day in 1895, were Otis C. Burr, Frederick Carpenter, John T. Cusack, Charles F. Lebert, John P. Clark, William C. Straley, Robert McCormick, Francis R. Wood, Leonard W. Kirchner and Charles D. Romeyn.

Henry Crouch was postmaster of Kingston that year, and George Plant was superintendent of the downtown post office, a position he held until his death.

As I remember it Letter Carrier John P. Clark was appointed superintendent of the downtown office to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Plant, and he held that office until his death a short time ago.

Walter P. Crane, a former postmaster of Kingston, was serving as mayor of Kingston in 1922, and I recall that on December 2, of that year he appointed George Burgevin as a member of the water board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Aaron Katz.

Mr. Katz was for years a well known junk dealer and head of the Kingston Scrap Iron & Metal Co. on lower Hasbrouck avenue, while Mr. Burgevin was a member of V. Burgevin's Sons, the well known florists of this city.

Roosevelt Is Re-opening Drive on Incomes and Result Will Be More American Class Warfare

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 2—President Roosevelt has apparently decided to reopen and intensify class warfare in America. He has disclosed that he is going to press for the enactment of a law not only levelling off salaries in America but cutting down the incomes of all men, women and children who have estates or investments netting them more than $25,000 a year.

Just what this reduction of incomes has to do with winning the war or just why America's most successful and talented citizens must be subjected to socialistic experiments in the midst of war, diverting energies and time that should be devoted to the production of goods and vital services needed in the war effort, is not explained by the President.

But it was not a chance comment that came from the President in his press conference. What he said must represent a deliberate policy of carrying on his feud against America's successful business men, because Mr. Roosevelt has been well aware of the furor which has resulted from the czarlike acts of his subordinates who, in disregard of the plain wishes of Congress, wrote into the anti-inflation law a power that doesn't exist by mandate of law. The Office of Economic Stabilization was supposed to prevent inflation, but, in fixing limits, it has not only reduced pre-war salaries but it has actually increased thereby the profits of corporations, while denying individuals the salaries to which they have thought themselves entitled by contract with their employers.

Not only this, but the President's order undertakes to nullify the revenue laws passed by Congress, denying the customary deductions to any citizen who may have more than $25,000 left after paying the taxes that have been figured on his gross income "undiminished by any deductions."

In the new phase of the controversy, the President concedes that congressional action will be necessary but he has stated heretofore that, when Congress doesn't pass a law he wants, he can act anyway. So it is possible, using the same specious reasoning, for the executive to proclaim any day that all investments are equally subject to his anti-inflation policy. He has just as much authority to do that as to reduce pre-war salaries and call it a step to prevent inflation.

The President made a rather peculiar defense of his policy in his conference with the press. He said the reduction of the salaries of executives was necessary to prevent national bankruptcy if we lose the war. Nobody in Washington, not even the President, thinks we are going to lose the war, and nobody with any knowledge of the statistics would make such a statement, because if 100 per cent of all incomes above $25,000 a year from salaries and investments were confiscated by the government, it wouldn't pay for three days of the war effort, nor would it pay off seven-tenth of one per cent of the national debt as it stands today.

What Mr. Roosevelt chooses to overlook is that his administration has encouraged the biggest wave of extravagance and the biggest inflation of payrolls in all history and that he has done this by insisting that "the social gains of the New Deal" must be preserved. Since this kind of inequality and inconsistency is known to all students of government fiscal affairs, it should not be surprising now if there is opened up again in midst of war all the wounds of class warfare which began in 1933 with the President's attack on the successful and thrifty and which has furnished the principal ammunition for the demagogues ever since.

The tragedy of the President's blunder—for it is a blunder of major proportions and will hurt the morale of the war effort rather than help it—is that Congress, which is inclined to be rebellious anyway, will now refuse to grant any powers on any subject that are not specifically defined. The President this very week is being refused powers by the House ways and means committee because the distrust of his administration which is showing up on capitol hill is increasing rather than diminishing. Members of Congress are saying the executive agencies merely want more and more power over the citizenry and refuse to be specific. This means that important powers really needed in the war effort will be withheld.

Likewise, it will mean that, as the demand for socialization is intensified by the President, the isolationists will be given opportunities they never should be given. They will see in the administration's misuse of its war powers a plan to use post-war period for the enrichment of special groups and classes whose votes have been such an important part of the New Deal.

If class warfare is wanted by the President, plenty of citizens are ready to get into the fray. If what is wanted is to win the war, the executive has chosen a peculiar way to instill enthusiasm into the hearts of the men whose genius is responsible for our marvelous production record thus far.

Interest Revived in Growing of Currants

Geneva, N. Y. — Currants, long regarded as of minor importance in New York state, are rapidly gaining in favor with fruit growers, providing yields can be maintained at a high level. This is dependent upon control of the leaf spot disease which defoliates the bushes and reduces yields unless held in check. Tests carried on by Dr. R. F. Suit of the State Experiment Station here for the past four years have led to the development of a spray formula and program that make possible a substantial saving in spray materials and in number of application over over previous recommendations for currants.

Bordeaux mixture prepared at the rate of 3 pounds of copper sulphate and 3 pounds of spray lime to 100 gallons of water applied first when the fruit is about half grown and again after the fruit is harvested will give at least 75 per cent control of leaf spot, according to Dr. Suit. This degree of control will insure good crops of fruit and the amount of spray required does not leave an objectionable residue, one of the chief drawbacks to the old spray practices.

The currant leaf spot disease can usually be found on the lower or inside leaves of a currant bush about the middle of June as small brown or reddish spots, explains Dr. Suit. These leaves turn brown and fall from the bush, while the disease spreads to other leaves which, in turn, drop off. Some seasons the bushes are completely defoliated by the first of August. The disease organisms live over winter on the dead leaves on the ground and spores reinfect the new leaves during May of the next year.

Repeated defoliations deplete the food reserves in the roots and canes and make the plants more susceptible to winter injury. The fruit buds also are arrested in their development and may succumb to winter injury. At best the weakened buds do not set a normal crop of fruit. in the spring. This reduced set of fruit is the most apparent effect of defoliation. In some cases only about half of the flowers in a cluster will set fruit, while in other cases the fruit may set then drop off later in the season.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — There have been lots of moving days in Washington in the last couple of years, but January 3, 1943, will be the biggest mess of a moving day that Capitol Hill has seen in many a moon.

Into the new and old House office buildings on (or about—it will really take weeks to get the muddle straightened out) that date will come 106 new members of the House of Representatives.

If the only problem were moving 106 Congressmen into offices vacated by 106 Congressmen, the problem would be pretty simple for Edward Brown, superintendent of the House office buildings. But it's a good deal more complicated than that.

For example, there are many holdover congressmen who are dissatisfied with their present offices. These Congressmen have seniority. They have a priority on offices being vacated. They also have priorities (seniority) on each other. Consequently, every request has to be labelled according to the Congressman's rights.

This Congressman can't stand the bright afternoon sunlight. Another can't take it in the morning. A third wants to be closer to his two old cronies. A fourth wants to be in the "New" House office building. A fifth wants back in the "Old" House office building because the ceilings are higher there and he doesn't feel so "cramped up."

* * *

That may give you some idea of the pains in the neck that are keeping Brown awake these nights. Before it is over he will probably have settled and resettled 200 new and holdover Congressmen. Some of them are bound to be dissatisfied and won't be too keen on rehiring Brown. Is it any wonder that the hard-working and constantly harassed superintendent is nursing a biennial headache?

The business of getting a new Congress settled into the working groove is much more of a task than the public (or even most of the Congressmen) realizes.

Before any new members of Congress can take his seat, South Trimble, clerk of the House, has to have his certification (which comes from the governor of the state in which he was elected) on hand and in proper form. Without this, no incoming member of the House or, for that matter, any reelected member of the House can take his seat in the new Congress.

Back of that are the statements of campaign expenditures which, by law, also have to be filed with the clerk. This includes not only a statement from the elected candidate but also reports from all his opponents. In the recent campaign, these statements numbered over 2,000.

* * *

When the 106 new members arrive, each has to be instructed into the various complications of getting settled on the Congressional roles. There is the business of obtaining his signature for franking privileges and his biography for the Congressional Record; of instructing him about allowances, commutation, clerk hire, applications for committee assignments, how and when he (or she) will take the office, and 1,001 other details that all freshmen Congressmen must be told about before they can settle into their seats on House floor and start representing their constitutents.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

(By The Associated Press)

Contraband

Miami, Fla. — Picked up by police for a dimout headlight violation, a winter tourist was found to be all set for a pleasant winter.

In the car, and on the driver, police found three gasoline ration books, one extra sheet of A-3 tickets, one extra sheet of eight loose S coupons, one 53-gallon drum half filled with gasoline, and three extra unmounted tires.

Executive Slip

"Here is an opportunity for the owner to demonstrate his patriotism and conserve gasoline," the pastor said, reading the car's license number.

Dear Santy:

Medford, Ore. — The first letter to Santa Claus from a Camp White soldier to reach the camp post office read:

"Dear Santy: Due to the fact that there is a war on, I wanted to get my Christmas order in early. My want list is as follows: One quart—any brand, but good. One honorable discharge right after we've settled this war."

Concrete

While rummaging for some relics to give the local American Legion post, she came across a chunk of hardtack her late husband's father had carried in the Civil War.

Safety for Soldiers

Every body of men marching at night is equipped with amber glass reflectors to be worn on the belts of the first and last three men in the column. Student flight commanders also carry flash lights.

STAGES "AIR RAID"

Tulsa, Okla. (AP)—Oscar Payne, Red Cross instructor, is a realist.

He staged a mock raid on a civil air patrol unit taking an evening lesson.

The room was dimmed out as the raid was reported and Payne laid on the drama heavily as the planes came closer and closer.

As the first bombs were supposed to strike, the lights went out, there was an explosion and a terrific series of crashes.

Payne had slipped a horse-pistol from a brief case and had fired it in the small room at the same moment that he kicked a large garbage can lid and sent it bouncing across the floor.

"It took some time for the screams and pandemonium to die down and even as long as ten minutes later several people were so nervous they had trouble lighting cigarettes," reported Payne.

Plan Annual Dance For Christmas Cheer

The members of the Kingston Lodge, No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose will hold their second annual Christmas Cheer dance, Saturday evening, December 12, at the Moose Hall. Last year the affair was so successful that more than 100 toys were donated to the Mayor's Christmas Cheer committee for distribution. This year the members feel confident that indications promise an even greater contribution.

Joseph F. Ross, Jr., governor of the lodge, has appointed the following committee to complete arrangements for the occasion: Calvin Swart, chairman; Lamont Gedney, Jesse Hoffen, George Gardiner, Anthony J. Erena, Vincent Van Demark, and Charles M. Lord.

In accordance with the yuletide season, the hall will be gayly decorated in Christmas atmosphere and a popular orchestra will provide music for the dancing. Several novelty features of entertainment will be included in the program. Tickets may be procured from any member of the committee or by calling 1714 for reservations.

At 4-H Congress

MISS THEODORA STOKES

An Ulster county girl, Miss Theodora Stokes of Rifton, had the honor of being selected as one of 12 girls in all New York state to attend the National 4-H Club Congress which opened in Chicago, Sunday and continues through to Thursday of this week. She left for Chicago Saturday and expects to return home this week-end.

Formerly one 4-H member from each county in the state was selected to attend the national congress, but due to handicaps imposed by war conditions, including transportation difficulties as well as shortage of accommodations in Chicago it has been found necessary to cut the number of delegates to half or less.

Delegates are selected on a basis of state-wide competition of work done in various lines or on the record made in 4-H work.

Miss Stokes won her selection on the record she had made since she started in 4-H work in 1934 at the age of ten, as a member of the Rock Hill School of which Miss Anna Devine is teacher. Since that time she has started and completed many food and clothing projects each year — three years ago she carried to successful completion 13 projects.

She is a member of the Rifton Fife and Drum Corps, in addition to her other activities and last year was sent as a delegate to the Club Congress at Ithaca and to the State Fair.

Miss Stokes has won her 4-H honors in addition to other work that keeps her fully occupied. For three years she has spent her vacation period assisting at Dreamland Farms and in addition to keeping up her work as a senior at the Kingston High School, helps out in the cafeteria during noon hours, and Saturdays and Sundays assists in the Kingston Hospital.

All expenses of delegates to the Chicago meeting are paid by various nationally known firms, who sponsor the different competitions. The work record competition which was won by Miss Stokes was sponsored by Montgomery Ward and Co.

Yarn Is Needed To Make Afghans

Requests have come from the Bundles for America headquarters for afghans. These coverlets are made from either six or eight inch squares and are urgently needed for use by convalescing soldiers and sailors.

There are many volunteers registered with the local Bundles for America chapter who are willing to crochet or knit these afghans. However, yarn is difficult to obtain and the Bundles for America chapter has discontinued purchasing it. For this reason women are urged to contribute for this work any lengths of yarn in any color which they may have in surplus or of course, newly purchased skeins will be acceptable, too.

Sylvan Shop Has Fire

A call at 7:53 o'clock Tuesday night, brought firemen and apparatus to the Sylvan Shop at 304 Wall street, where heavy smoke was pouring from the front. They found that an electric iron which had been left on, at the rear of the shop, had burned through the ironing board and fire had communicated to a curtain and the baseboard. A sewing machine nearby also was damaged. The shop is owned by Sarah Estroff. The fire was put out by the use of chemicals. Fire damage was slight, but there was considerable smoke damage to stock as there is no rear entrance to the shop. There was slight smoke damage to the Smart Shop, adjoining, and to the Kingston Tea Garden on the second floor of the building.

COIN JUST 119 YEARS OLD

Helena, Mont. (AP) — George Leach says the fellow who owned the 50 cent piece that he found recently on a street was no spendthrift. The coin was dated 1823 —119 years old—and yet it showed hardly any wear from circulation. How it came to be on a sidewalk Leach was unable to guess.

Lenihan Is Present At Council Session

Alderman Martin F. Lenihan of the Fifth ward, now Private Lenihan of the U. S. Army, attended the monthly meeting of the Common Council on Tuesday evening, and at the invitation of Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk occupied a seat on the rostrum.

Private Lenihan was not present in his official capacity as alderman, but simply as a visitor, and his presence in uniform in the council chambers recalled the verbal battles of the past summer when the Republican aldermen endeavored to override the veto of Mayor William F. Edelmuth and pay Private Lenihan a month's salary for his service as alderman. The resolution that he be paid had been vetoed by the mayor on the ground that the city had no legal right to pay the salary as the alderman was no longer serving as such but was a member of the U. S. Army.

Private Lenihan, who is home on a 10-day furlough is now located at the Herbert Smart Air Field at Macon, Ga. He is a member of the 811th Chemical Company. Last night he said that he planned to return to Macon today.

U. S. Submarines Squeeze Jap Line

Last Sinkings Help Weaken Enemy's Supply Line to Far Outposts

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—United States naval pressure on Japan's vital supply lines squeezed tighter today with at least five more Nipponese ships sent to the bottom of the Pacific by American submarines.

Two additional enemy vessels were struck by torpedoes and one probably destroyed, the navy announced last night, bringing the toll of American undersea craft to date 98 Japanese ships sunk, 22 probably sunk and 28 damaged. The total, representing enemy vessels of all types, reached the new figure by the sinking of an enemy destroyer, a 9,000-ton tanker and three cargo ships of 8,000, 6,300 and 2,000 tons. A 6,000-ton cargo ship was damaged and another of twice that displacement was believed sunk.

Naval officials in Washington observed that the results obtained by American submarines since the start of the war represented one of the greatest contributions toward puncturing Japan's naval pipe lines to her stolen and mandated bases in the western Pacific and the China Sea.

In the southwestern Pacific, American forces in the Solomon Islands were proceeding with the job of cleaning the unwilling Japanese out of Guadalcanal with what was described as routine patrol activity. This activity, the navy said, included giving the Japanese outpost on the island a heavy dose of artillery fire accompanied by strafing and bombing from American planes. The artillery bombardments and aerial action supported army and marine ground patrols in the vicinity of the American-held airbase. No accounting was given of enemy troops slain or supplies captured.

Ickes Fades From Manpower Picture

President Sidetracks Plan for Time Being; New Candidate Sought

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes was reported bowing out of the manpower spotlight today and President Roosevelt has pigeonholed for the time being his plan to create a single administrator.

Authoritative sources who cannot be identified said the President and Ickes had agreed at a conference yesterday that the job of exercising over-all supervision of the federal manpower machinery probably should go to some more available candidate.

It was decided, these sources said, that there would be too many complications involved in a three-way cabinet shift which would be necessary to switch Ickes from Interior to Labor, in order to give him full control over Selective Service as well as industrial and farm labor.

Then, too, there was accumulating evidence that the oil industry, which viewed Ickes with a jaundiced eye when he was made petroleum coordinator a year and a half ago, had come to like him so well that it did not want to let him go.

It was emphasized meanwhile that the President had not abandoned the idea of centering all manpower controls under one man—the only thing lacking at the moment is an acceptable man.

At his press conference yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that there was nothing on the fire when he was asked about the projected cabinet shift, under which Paul V. McNutt would have become Interior secretary and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins would have succeeded McNutt as Federal Security administrator.

The President began by saying there was nothing ready to serve that there was quite a lot of food on the range but that it had not been cooked for the reporters as yet.

One result will be to deprive Congress of an opportunity to discuss whatever shortcoming the members may have found in the President's official family, since the cabinet shift would have required Senate confirmation.

Wonder of Il Duce Is That He Had Anything to Say

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt Mackenzie, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mr. Mackenzie, now touring the Middle East war zone, is expected to resume shortly).

Benito Mussolini admitted today that the United Nations were winning the current round of the war of nerves against his sorely beset people. His admission was not put in so many words; it lay in the fact that he spoke at all. Obviously the psychological warfare the Allies are concentrating on Italy, which reached a booming climax Sunday in Winston Churchill's broadcast, forced the Duce to break a virtual silence of almost a year.

Reading excerpts from the speech, it is difficult to see how it could have warned Italian hopes or dispelled Italian fears. To alien ears, in which the sonorous cadences of Churchill's pronouncement of doom on Italy still are ringing, it sounds as feeble as a popgun reply to a battleship's broadside. Its tone and content seem to a non-Italian defeatist. It may have sounded different to those it was meant to reassure.

But his reference to the removal of women and children from the great industrial cities of the north which the R. A. F. has laid in ruins could not have been cheering, nor the catalogue of Italy's losses in men and ships, even though these were understated. Neither could there have been much Italian joy over the promise that Germany would reinforce Italy with "powerful contributions." Already Il Duce's people know too much of these contributions, the German divisions and Gestapo units which have robbed them of what little freedom of decision the Fascist regime had left them.

For further solace Mussolini had to turn to the record of his other ally, Japan. During the year since Il Duce made his last full dress oration from his balcony, overlooking the Piazza Venezia—it was on December 11, when he declared war on the United States—Japan has conquered a great empire. Italy has just about completed the process of losing an empire. That contrast can hardly fail to escape millions of Italians. Can they draw comfort from that? Nothing could point more strikingly to the sorry place to which Italy has fallen in the plunderbund into which Mussolini thrust her. While the last vestiges of her empire are slipping away she is confronted with the choice of continuing to fight to help her associates hold their spoils or surrendering.

This, of course, is a one-sided picture. There doubtless is another side, and it would be a grave error to assume that Italy is about to fall out of the war. There must still be millions of Italians to whom the idea of surrender is either still distant or repugnant, who still acknowledge claims of loyalty to the Fascist regime and the Mussolini leadership, whose minds are capable of considering Il Duce's wheezing, puffing oration an adequate response to Churchill's invitation to revolt.

But the mere fact that the obviously aging, ailing dictator of Fascism should be prodded into a public appearance—"I have a vague impression the Italian people want to hear me," is his excuse—shows clearly that the psychological campaign Churchill launched nearly two years ago, with the speech pointing to the "one man and one man alone" who led Italy to war, is getting results. Even so conservative an observer as Secretary Hull would not be surprised to hear of rumblings in Italy.

Yesterday the Rome and Berlin radios rang the changes on the announcement that the Kaiserplatz in Augsburg had been renamed Benito Mussolini Platz "to symbolize the solidarity of the Axis." Perhaps the renaming of a few square rods in Augsburg is compensation for the empire of 1,200,000 square miles that is all but lost.

F.D.R.'s New Bill Is Still Contested

Special Wartime Power Is Modified but Unsettled

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—A redrafted, twice-sidetracked measure granting President Roosevelt new wartime powers, reached the full House ways and means committee today amid mounting demands that it be subjected to the give and take of public hearings. The modified measure would authorize the Chief Executive to suspend tariff regulations, but would ignore his request for authority to override immigration laws.

There were expressions of dissatisfaction by members who felt that the compromise form of the measure still went too far.

"I want to go into it a lot further before I will be in favor of this bill," said Rep. Woodruff (R.-Mich.), one of the sub-committee which toned down the bill. "We've accomplished all we can behind closed doors, and I for one will demand full public hearings before we send it to the floor." He said the elimination of the authority for the President to suspend barriers against admission of aliens did not remove all the objectionable features and predicted that representatives from agricultural states would show "a considerable interest" in the measure's contents.

New, Powerful X-Ray Machine Is Described

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—A new x-ray machine producing 30 million electron volts—the most powerful in the world—was described today before the Radiological Society of North America.

The device, called the betatron, was developed at the University of Illinois by Prof. Donald W. Kerst, who said it may give medical specialists a powerful weapon to use against malignant growths in the human body.

He said, however, that the machine is not yet ready for medical use and that no tests have yet been made on living tissue.

The betatron, built by General Electric Company, was patterned after a high-voltage "atom-smasher" which Professor Kerst made two years ago for research in atomic physics.

Its power is far beyond that of present day x-ray medical machines, most of which develop energies up to 400,000 volts.

Prof. Kerst said one advantage of the higher voltage machine is that its maximum effect appears to be about 1½ inches below the surface, whereas the effect of present x-ray machines is greatest on the surface and decreases as the rays pass into the body.

Congress Members Get Instructions

Newcomers Receive Booklet Telling What to Do

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Members of the new congress who take their seats on January 4 are being instructed by the chief clerk of the House in the rights, privileges and emoluments of their office.

And according to a booklet called "information for representatives-elect to the seventy-eighth congress," issued by Chief Clerk South Trimble, the official $10,000 annual salary is just part of said emoluments.

The moment they start their journey from their homes to the capital to take the oath of office, members get on Uncle Sam's expense account. They receive 20 cents a mile travel allowance going to and coming from each regular session of congress.

As soon as they hit Washington, Trimble reminds them, they are entitled to up-to-date office suites with all the accoutrements. Once set up in his office, a representative can start casting about for hired help to the tune of not more than $6,500 per year. The law limits the number of employes to three, and the top pay to $3,900. Any part of the salary allotment not used reverts to the treasury, but generally it is used up.

For each year in office, a representative is allowed $50 for air mail and special delivery postage. This is in addition to the franking privilege, under which ordinary mail may be sent at government expense. To obtain stationery for his office, the representative draws an additional $200 per session. And if he wants to use the telegraph instead of mail for official business, he may do so at the expense of congress.

Nonetheless, what with living costs and taxes what they are and the cost of election campaigns every other year, many members declare they serve at a personal sacrifice.

Buna-Gona Battle Continues Slowly

Japs Try Fourth Time to Reinforce Troops

By MURLIN SPENCER

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Dec. 2 (AP) — Despite their heavy losses in previous abortive attempts to reinforce their isolated troops in the Buna-Gona area of New Guinea, the Japanese sent four destroyers toward Buna today in another attempt to strengthen their forces. Allied planes scored hits and near misses on some of the ships, but there was no report whether this latest attempt at reinforcement had been turned back, a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said.

With MacArthur's airforce smashing repeatedly at Japanese positions, especially in the vicinity of Buna, American and Australian ground forces were slowly contracting their grip on the enemy, according to the Allied communique. Wave after wave of Allied planes—Airacobras, B-26s, A-20s, and B25s—hammed the Japanese lines and started fires in the vicinity of Buna Mission. The Japanese sent fighters and dive-bombers to strafe the Allied-held airstrip near the northern coast but two fighters and one dive-bomber were shot down.

The tea drinking habit was largely responsible for the development of fine English porcelain.

Yorkville Man Is Given 45 Years, Is Fined $10,000

Anthony Cramer's Counsel Plans Appeal; Accused of Aiding Saboteurs in New York

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Anthony Cramer, 42, Yorkville mechanic, convicted of treasonably aiding two of the eight Nazi saboteurs landed by submarine in the United States last June, today was sentenced to 45 years in prison and fined $10,000.

After sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, Defense Counsel Harold Medina said he would appeal.

At the trial of Cramer, who was convicted November 18, the government charged he gave "aid and comfort" to Werner Thiel and Edward J. Kerling after they landed by submarine on the Florida coast, intent on destroying units of the nation's aluminum industry.

Cramer was accused of meeting the two saboteurs in New York, and of giving false information to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in an attempt to conceal Thiel's mission and identity.

Both Thiel and Kerling, together with four of their companions, later were put to death after trial by a military court in Washington.

Cramer had faced a possible maximum penalty of death.

Judge Goddard said he would not impose the death penalty, as recommended by U. S. Attorney Mathias Correa, because "it does not appear that Cramer was aware that Kerling and the others were in possession of explosives or intended to destroy factories."

"It appears to me," the court said, "that he had no guilty knowledge of the subversive mission of Kerling and Thiel except that he had a vague idea that they came here to agitate and spread German propaganda.

"If there were any real proof that they had confided in him, or that he knew of their real purpose for coming here, I would not hesitate to impose the death sentence."

In presenting its case against him, the government charged that he met Thiel on June 22, less than a week after the saboteurs landed in the United States, and had arranged several rendezvous with them.

Cramer's defense was that he did not know Thiel was here on a mission of sabotage.

Cramer's was the third trial in Federal Court of persons accused of treason in aiding one or more of the saboteurs. Three men were condemned to death in Chicago November 24 and their wives, who had been tried with them, were sentenced to 25 years in prison and fined $10,000 each.

Helmut Leiner, Astoria gardener, was freed of a treason charge Monday when a judge in Federal Court here directed a verdict of acquittal on grounds that the government, in presenting its case, failed to produce at least two witnesses to testify to each overt act charged. Leiner also was accused of aiding Kerling. Following his acquittal, he was interned for the duration as a dangerous enemy alien.

In the nation's only other conviction for treason in 148 years—since the so-called whisky rebellion of 1794—Max Stephan of Detroit was sentenced to death last August for sheltering and aiding the flight of a German aviator who escaped from a Canadian prison camp.

Green Case Settled

The contract action brought by Mrs. Mary S. Green of the town of Rochester against Queen Insurance Company of America and others, which was scheduled for trial Tuesday afternoon in Supreme Court before Justice Bergan, was settled. Mrs. Green sought to recover insurance from four insurance companies, $4,000 on her house and $1,000 for personal property, which was burned on May 20, 1941. The companies claimed the proof of loss had not been received within the specified time and that at the time of the fire Mrs. Green was not residing in the house but nearby. She maintained she paid daily visits to the property. Peter H. Harp appeared for the plaintiff and Affeld, Sowers and Herrick were attorneys of record for the defendants with Fred Stang appearing as trial counsel.

Good Taste Today

By Emily Post

AGAIN THE WORD "FORMAL"

It is true that the interpretation of the word "formal" depends upon the habits and customs of each community. In one, men wear "white ties and tails"; in another white shirts and blue serge suits. To a letter asking: "Why is it wrong to stipulate "formal" on an evening wedding invitation so people will have some idea of how to dress?", let me say this: The only "wrong" is that this advice is unnecessary since the marriage service is a religious ceremony which is the most formal occurence possible. In other words, apart from the fact that it is "not done," the direction "formal" on a wedding invitation would probably confuse everyone. Those whose "tails" and ball dresses are laid away for the duration might feel they were expected to get them out. And those who have no evening clothes might feel that they had no suitable clothes to wear and as a result not even go to the wedding.

The Bridegroom Is Married

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance is a widower; has been for over three years. He has no children. When we are married may I wear white and a veil or would this be in questionable taste because of his previous marriage. His former wife is dead, and they were not divorced.

Answer: Of course you may wear white and a veil. It is not your second marriage!

Two Points of View

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a semi-invalid. I am to all appearances a well person except that I am not able to leave my house in a suburb of the city. Therefore, many relatives and friends from town come out to see me frequently. My daughter-in-law lives several blocks away and she thinks that some of our relatives should also go to see her when they come out here, and she thinks they ought to care to see her children and her home. I think it much easier for them all to meet here. She's very young and has plenty of time to do the coming, and the children have to be taken out anyway.

Answer: I agree with the points you make, but on the other hand I think it natural that your daughter-in-law might like to be shown a little attention and to want to have them see the children at home. Perhaps you could urge them to come for a longer time someday, in order to come to see you and also stop in to see her.

A Party for Mother

Dear Mrs. Post: Father has been retired and he and Mother are coming here to live. They will live however in a house by themselves. I would like to introduce many of our townspeople to Mother, especially some of the older women I've learned to know in the church. How shall I invite them, and tell me the wording and what to serve?

Answer: Write notes "Dear Mrs. Blank, Will you come in for a cup of tea next Wednesday at half after four o'clock and meet my mother (Mrs. Harry Foster)?, Sincerely ...."

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "RESTAURANT AND THE THEATRE." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. MOVIES AND BONDS

E. B. White, of "One Man's Meat" comments, in the December Harper's, on the American practice of actress appearances to sell bonds.

"This particular brand of rally is a rather odd American phenomenon—the spectacle of a people with homes and future at stake, their own lives threatened and the lives of their sons hanging by a thread, having to goad themselves to meet the challenge by indulging in a fit of actor worship and the veneration of the Hollywood gods."

Mr. White says every race has its own national forms and ecstasies, its own way of doing business and getting results. The Japanese have their Emperor, an idol, the Germans their State, identified with the Fuehrer. Americans have their Abe Lincoln, their Concord Bridge, their Bill of Rights, which he calls somewhat intellectual appurtenances.

"For pure idolatry and the necessary hysteria which must accompany the separation of the individual from his money they turn to Dorothy Lamour, or Beauty-at-a-Distance."

Before he went to the rally, Mr. White poked fun at the idea. But once in attendance at the "goofy American occasion" he found himself very glad to be there. Americans may be funny, but given their screen stars, they do buy their bonds for a high cause.

WARRING ON WOMEN

Once upon a time anyone wishing to infuriate a warrior would accuse him of making war on women. From time immemorial those have been fighting words. They may still be, but in the case of the Nazis and their hangers-on they are true words. Hungary has just proved this in the case of Madame Maurus Jokai.

Jokai was Hungary's greatest novelist. His works were translated into twenty-four different languages, and 108 of his books have appeared in English. Not a Hungarian town but has a street which bears his name. But he was pro-British until his death in 1904, and he disliked the Germans. The Nazis, who have long memories, have finally had a chance to do something about it by taking out their spite upon his widow.

Madame Jokai agreed in 1912 to give her husband's books and papers to the Hungarian National Museum in return for a life pension. In 1939 she came to England to arrange for a complete English edition of her husband's works, and because of ill health has remained there ever since. No objection was, until lately, raised by the Hungarian government.

Now Hungary, under Nazi pressure, has cut off her pension and left her, an aged and ailing woman, penniless to satisfy Nazi spite.

FOOLING YOURSELF

Many citizens seem to be fooling themselves about this tire-saving business. Rubber-dictator Jeffers mentioned it the other day. "The people are being told," he said, "that the 35-mile speed limit will save all the rubber that is necessary. That isn't true. The wheels can be driven off an automobile at 35 just as well as 60. It merely takes longer."

The safest way is not to take the car out unless you have to. And there's another thing worth mentioning. When you do drive, and shoot up to 50 or 60 miles on an open highway where there's nobody looking, don't imagine you're not harming anybody. You're harming yourself by wearing out those tires twice as fast.

FEWER LAWYERS

Whether lawyers really deserve all the charges brought against them, or whether that is just a time-honored tradition, may be open to argument. If present conditions continued for a while, say 100 years, this would be what lawyers call a moot argument, something suitable for debate but not necessarily of practical moment. For the once ceaseless stream of additions to the profession is drying to a trickle.

The law schools are losing students so fast that those which depend on tuition for their funds are in a bad way. Large and small are being hit. The Harvard law school six years ago had 1,500 students, now 93. The Yale school has dropped from 375 to 105, Wisconsin from 400 to 92. And the end is not yet.

A lawyerless world would be a strange world indeed. Certainly Congress and the state legislatures would tread new paths without their lawyer members.

FRENCH REDEMPTION

It might be said of those Frenchmen who deliberately blew up their navy at Toulon, and went down with it, that "nothing in their life became them like the leaving of it." It was a French gesture in the grand style, which at its best is also the style of antique Romans. The navy was trapped. They might have saved their lives by surrender, but they laughed in Hitler's face and sank with a salute to their country. The free world salutes them.

That sacrifice will not be in vain. It redeems France and raises new courage in living Frenchmen's hearts. If Frenchmen can foil their brutal destroyers by death, other Frenchmen can defy them by living opposition. The army of "Free French" newly formed in Africa is growing and marching. It is reported that 95 per cent. of the French nation is relentlessly set against Hitler and his invaders, and only waiting for arms to sweep them back as Russia is doing.

America, already arming the valiant French Africans, must bring arms to their helpless comrades in France. When that is done, the war will end soon.

ISOLATION IMPOSSIBLE

"The age of aviation has brought with it the impossibility of isolation, and this makes inevitable a trend toward a truly global political structure." So says William Burden, aviation assistant to Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones.

He is right. Like it or not, Americans live in a world where they are close to many neighbors, and every year, with its improvements in transportation, brings them closer. They can no more ignore what other countries do than they could overlook a smallpox epidemic in the next street.

It remains to be seen whether we soft-hearted Americans are even yet capable of dealing firmly with any nation when we've once got it licked.

FOOD FOR INDUSTRY WORKERS

It must be gratifying to our research workers in nutrition to see how, in hundreds, if not thousands, of factories engaged in making armament and war utensils, the quantity and quality of the foods sold at the cafeterias of these industrial plants is under the supervision of trained dieticians.

One of the first points noticed in the printed menus at the tables or on the walls is the emphasis placed on meats. The workers are encouraged to eat meat not only at the evening meal but at their noon meal or lunch. That plenty of bread and potatoes should be eaten to give energy is also advised, but the meat is especially needed to repair worn tissues and cells caused by strenuous war work.

It will also be noticed in these menus, in addition to more meat than formerly and the usual amount of bread and potatoes, that fruits, green and yellow vegetables, and plenty of milk, are advised to make sure of obtaining the minerals and vitamins necessary to every tissue and cell in the body.

In an address on Nutrition and Industrial Health before the Second Pennsylvania Health Institute, Dr. Frank G. Boudreau, New York, stated that education in nutrition of the industrial worker can be made effective by following these suggestions:

1. A trained dietician can be made available to the employes and their families for advice on diet.
2. Information on nutrition can be made a regular feature of the plant's publications.
3. Pay envelope slips, listing items of food of good nutritional or nourishing value which are in season or on the market at reasonable prices can be used.
4. Posters emphasizing the importance of good nutrition can be placed in selected positions about the plant.
5. Pamphlets on nutrition, provided by such agencies as the Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture, can be distributed to workers and their families.
6. The maintenance of a cafeteria system, where foods of high nutritional value are served "in an attractive fashion", so that the employes learn to appreciate how nice they taste as well as how nourishing they are, is one of the best ways of attracting their attention and careful consideration.

"AT CENTURY'S TURN"

By H. L. VAN DEUSEN

With winter just around the corner it is interesting to recall that on October 16, 1912, G. F. Regendahl picked some ripe strawberries from the vines in his garden on O'Neil street, while Peter H. Osterhoudt picked ripe raspberries in his garden on Oak street.

One of the best known men in banking circles in Kingston is Charles Snyder, who was elected cashier of the National Ulster County Bank on October 9, 1912, a position he still holds.

I also recall that at the November election in 1912, William C. DeWitt was elected county clerk; James Jenkins, county judge and G. D. B. Hasbrouck to the Supreme Court bench.

Many of the older readers of this column may recall that on May 1, 1895, the free delivery mail system was inaugurated, and the first letter delivered by carrier in the city was left at the home of Abram Hasbrouck on Mill street.

When the free delivery was first proposed for Kingston there was considerable agitation in Kingston not so much over the inauguration of the system but that the uptown post office was to be designated as the main office, while the post office on the Strand was to be known as Station R.

However, the plan went through as first proposed and ever since then residents of Kingston have received their mail delivered at their homes.

I recall that the first ten letter carriers to serve when the system was inaugurated that May day in 1895, were Otis C. Burr, Frederick Carpenter, John T. Cusack, Charles F. Lebert, John P. Clark, William C. Straley, Robert McCormick, Francis R. Wood, Leonard W. Kirchner and Charles D. Romeyn.

Henry Crouch was postmaster of Kingston that year, and George Plant was superintendent of the downtown post office, a position he held until his death.

As I remember it Letter Carrier John P. Clark was appointed superintendent of the downtown office to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Plant, and he held that office until his death a short time ago.

Walter P. Crane, a former postmaster of Kingston, was serving as mayor of Kingston in 1922, and I recall that on December 2, of that year he appointed George Burgevin as a member of the water board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Aaron Katz.

Mr. Katz was for years a well known junk dealer and head of the Kingston Scrap Iron & Metal Co. on lower Hasbrouck avenue, while Mr. Burgevin was a member of V. Burgevin's Sons, the well known florists of this city.

Roosevelt Is Re-opening Drive on Incomes and Result Will Be More American Class Warfare

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 2—President Roosevelt has apparently decided to reopen and intensify class warfare in America. He has disclosed that he is going to press for the enactment of a law not only levelling off salaries in America but cutting down the incomes of all men, women and children who have estates or investments netting them more than $25,000 a year.

Just what this reduction of incomes has to do with winning the war or just why America's most successful and talented citizens must be subjected to socialistic experiments in the midst of war, diverting energies and time that should be devoted to the production of goods and vital services needed in the war effort, is not explained by the President.

But it was not a chance comment that came from the President in his press conference. What he said must represent a deliberate policy of carrying on his feud against America's successful business men, because Mr. Roosevelt has been well aware of the furor which has resulted from the czar-like acts of his subordinates who, in disregard of the plain wishes of Congress, wrote into the anti-inflation law a power that doesn't exist by mandate of law. The Office of Economic Stabilization was supposed to prevent inflation, but, in fixing limits, it has not only reduced pre-war salaries but it has actually increased thereby the profits of corporations, while denying individuals the salaries to which they have thought themselves entitled by contract with their employers.

Not only this, but the President's order undertakes to nullify the revenue laws passed by Congress, denying the customary deductions to any citizen who may have more than $25,000 left after paying the taxes that have been figured on his gross income "undiminished by any deductions."

In the new phase of the controversy, the President concedes that congressional action will be necessary but he has stated heretofore that, when Congress doesn't pass a law he wants, he can act anyway. So it is possible, using the same specious reasoning, for the executive to proclaim any day that all investments are equally subject to his anti-inflation policy. He has just as much authority to do that as to reduce pre-war salaries and call it a step to prevent inflation.

The President made a rather peculiar defense of his policy in his conference with the press. He said the reduction of the salaries of executives was necessary to prevent national bankruptcy if we lose the war. Nobody in Washington, not even the President, thinks we are going to lose the war, and nobody with any knowledge of the statistics would make such a statement, because if 100 per cent of all incomes above $25,000 a year from salaries and investments were confiscated by the government, it wouldn't pay for three days of the war effort, nor would it pay off seven-tenth of one per cent of the national debt as it stands today.

What Mr. Roosevelt chooses to overlook is that his administration has encouraged the biggest wave of extravagance and the biggest inflation of payrolls in all history and that he has done this by insisting that "the social gains of the New Deal" must be preserved. Since this kind of inequality and inconsistency is known to all students of government fiscal affairs, it should not be surprising now if there is opened up again in midst of war all the wounds of class warfare which began in 1933 with the President's attack on the successful and thrifty and which has furnished the principal ammunition for the demagogues ever since.

The tragedy of the President's blunder—for it is a blunder of major proportions and will hurt the morale of the war effort rather than help it—is that Congress, which is inclined to be rebellious anyway, will now refuse to grant any powers on any subject that are not specifically defined. The President this very week is being refused powers by the House ways and means committee because the distrust of his administration which is showing up on capitol hill is increasing rather than diminishing. Members of Congress are saying the executive agencies merely want more and more power over the citizenry and refuse to be specific. This means that important powers really needed in the war effort will be withheld.

Likewise, it will mean that, as the demand for socialization is intensified by the President, the isolationists will be given opportunities they never should be given. They will see in the administration's misuse of its war powers a plan to use post-war period for the enrichment of special groups and classes whose votes have been such an important part of the New Deal.

If class warfare is wanted by the President, plenty of citizens are ready to get into the fray. If what is wanted is to win the war, the executive has chosen a peculiar way to instill enthusiasm into the hearts of the men whose genius is responsible for our marvelous production record thus far.

Interest Revived in Growing of Currants

Geneva, N. Y. — Currants, long regarded as of minor importance in New York state, are rapidly gaining in favor with fruit growers, providing yields can be maintained at a high level. This is dependent upon control of the leaf spot disease which defoliates the bushes and reduces yields unless held in check. Tests carried on by Dr. R. F. Suit of the State Experiment Station here for the past four years have led to the development of a spray formula and program that make possible a substantial saving in spray materials and in number of application over over previous recommendations for currants.

Bordeaux mixture prepared at the rate of 3 pounds of copper sulphate and 3 pounds of spray lime to 100 gallons of water applied first when the fruit is about half grown and again after the fruit is harvested will give at least 75 per cent control of leaf spot, according to Dr. Suit. This degree of control will insure good crops of fruit and the amount of spray required does not leave an objectionable residue, one of the chief drawbacks to the old spray practices.

The currant leaf spot disease can usually be found on the lower or inside leaves of a currant bush about the middle of June as small brown or reddish spots, explains Dr. Suit. These leaves turn brown and fall from the bush, while the disease spreads to other leaves which, in turn, drop off. Some seasons the bushes are completely defoliated by the first of August. The disease organisms live over winter on the dead leaves on the ground and spores reinfect the new leaves during May of the next year.

Repeated defoliations deplete the food reserves in the roots and canes and make the plants more susceptible to winter injury. The fruit buds also are arrested in their development and may succumb to winter injury. At best the weakened buds do not set a normal crop of fruit, in the spring. This reduced set of fruit is the most apparent effect of defoliation. In some cases only about half of the flowers in a cluster will set fruit, while in other cases the fruit may set then drop off later in the season.

Washington In Wartime

By Jack Stinnett

Washington — There have been lots of moving days in Washington in the last couple of years, but January 3, 1943, will be the biggest mess of a moving day that Capitol Hill has seen in many a moon.

Into the new and old House office buildings on (or about—it will really take weeks to get the muddle straightened out) that date will come 106 new members of the House of Representatives.

If the only problem were moving 106 Congressmen into offices vacated by 106 Congressmen, the problem would be pretty simple for Edward Brown, superintendent of the House office buildings. But it's a good deal more complicated than that.

For example, there are many holdover congressmen who are dissatisfied with their present offices. These Congressmen have seniority. They have a priority on offices being vacated. They also have priorities (seniority) on each other. Consequently, every request has to be labelled according to the Congressman's rights.

This Congressman can't stand the bright afternoon sunlight. Another can't take it in the morning. A third wants to be closer to his two old cronies. A fourth wants to be in the "New" House office building. A fifth wants back in the "Old" House office building because the ceilings are higher there and he doesn't feel so "cramped up."

* * *

That may give you some idea of the pains in the neck that are keeping Brown awake these nights. Before it is over he will probably have settled and resettled 200 new and holdover Congressmen. Some of them are bound to be dissatisfied and won't be too keen on rehiring Brown. Is it any wonder that the hard-working and constantly harassed superintendent is nursing a biennial headache?

The business of getting a new Congress settled into the working groove is much more of a task than the public (or even most of the Congressmen) realizes.

Before any new members of Congress can take his seat, South Trimble, clerk of the House, has to have his certification (which comes from the governor of the state in which he was elected) on hand and in proper form. Without this, no incoming member of the House or, for that matter, any re-elected member of the House can take his seat in the new Congress.

Back of that are the statements of campaign expenditures which, by law, also have to be filed with the clerk. This includes not only a statement from the elected candidate but also reports from all his opponents. In the recent campaign, these statements numbered over 2,000.

* * *

When the 106 new members arrive, each has to be instructed into the various complications of getting settled on the Congressional rolls. There is the business of obtaining his signature for franking privileges and his biography for the Congressional Record; of instructing him about allowances, commutation, clerk hire, applications for committee assignments, how and when he (or she) will take the office, and 1,001 other details that all freshmen Congressmen must be told about before they can settle into their seats on House floor and start representing their constituents.

RECALLED BY MEMORIAL

Gravesend, England (AP) — In Cobham park stands Britain's quaintest monument—recalling a peer's lost toe. On that spot 107 years ago the Earl of Darnley became dissatisfied with the way a woodcutter was wielding an axe. The Earl took the axe and lunged at the tree, but the blade struck a glancing blow and severed one of his toes.

A few days later the Earl died of blood poisoning from the injury and the monument—a family mausoleum which has never been used—was erected on the spot in his memory.

American Troops Down to 'Normal' Wartime Existence

Father Ryan Says Lads Show Genuine Interest in Things Spiritual; Feel Holy Motive

By HAL BOYLE

With the American army, French Morocco, Nov. 24 (Delayed) (AP)—With their first actual battle experience behind them, American troops are settling down to a "normal" wartime existence.

Parents who fear the war will make religious backsliders of their sons would be comforted to hear the Rev. Patrick J. Ryan, a priest who for 15 years has marched and slept in the field with American troops.

Father Ryan—he wears the Silver Maple Leaf of a lieutenant colonel but is known as "Padre" to the men—is responsible as senior chaplain for arranging all religious services in his division, Protestant and Jewish as well as Catholic.

"These lads show a genuine interest in things spiritual because they are facing reality earlier than they would ordinarily," said Father Ryan, who baptized three men on the voyage over.

"War crystallizes and matures their ideas about their relation to their God. You notice the dead seriousness of the men as they approach a showdown.

"It seems to me the men feel there is a holy motive in their part in this war—something akin to the spirit of the men who march in the Crusades."

"Padre," who has spread his altar cloths for Mass on baggage cart platforms, on benches under trees, "any place you can get a little windbreak," was born in Litchfield, Minn., educated at St. Thomas College and St. Paul Seminary, both in St. Paul, Minn.

Stories of Heroism

From enlisted men, I keep hearing stories of heroism displayed by green junior officers in battle. Young lieutenants disregarded their personal safety and lunged forward to knock out machine-gun nests, without waiting for mortar support.

A second lieutenant who suffered an abdominal wound wept when friends visited him in the hospital ship.

"You lucky stiffs," he said, "Hell, they'll ship me back home and I'll have to spend six months instructing at some replacement center before I can get back where things are popping."

Another lieutenant, with a machine gun wound in his leg, was so determined to stay with his unit that he hid in the ship morgue, and was carried ashore along with the dead.

When they discovered him, officials permitted him to remain in the hospital here. He'll be ready for more action in a few weeks.

The combat force was the antithesis of Hitler's idea of a racially "pure" army. There were Italians, French, Jews, Irish, Germans, Russians, Serbs, Greeks, Spanish, Mexicans, Dutch, Filipinos, Negroes, Scotch, Chinese, Poles, Swedes, Norwegians, Czechs—welded into unity by a common American purpose.

All sections of the nation were represented, but the southern drawl seemed to sound most often amid the babel of American dialects.

First Lieutenant Philip H. McCorkle, 24-year-old signal officer from York, South Carolina, was so engrossed with invasion plans, that on each night of the voyage to North Africa he slept under a coverlet of codes and charts and maps.

A colonel was William H. Wilbur, a native of Massachusetts, whose wife lives at Highland Park-hill, and the corporal was Sanford (Sandy) Forbes, former Golden Gloves welterweight champion, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Landing at Fedala, they drove 13 miles to Casablanca and back, without suffering a scratch, although bombs fell within 50 yards of their jeep.

French army authorities received the pair but the French admiralty declined to discuss an armistice.

"Forbes never turned a hair," said Col. Wilbur, "calmest man you ever saw. Once when a bomb struck nearby, he kept on driving, and all he said was 'Gee, Colonel, that was a close one.'"

Private Tommy Poy, a Chinese and long time San Francisco chef, is personal cook for Major-General Jonathan W. Anderson.

"Me no got gun, can no shoot down parachute soldier in sky," he explains. But the General insists he is a better cook than a rifle shot.

New Standing Army

Out of this war will come a new standing army for the United States. It will be comprised by selectees and war-time enlisted men who have found a home in the army.

One of these is a reticent little piccolo-player in the Regimental Band. He's a sergeant-technician now, drawing $78 a month, plus 20 per cent for foreign duty, and in addition, his room, board and clothing.

Says he, "sure I'm going to stay in the army. Where else would they pay me so much to tootle a few toots? I used to be an $18-a-week millhand back in the states. The army's got that beat all hollow!"

He thinks the biggest dopes in the army are tuba players. He can carry his piccolo in his pocket.

Some of our troops can speak a few words to the natives of Morocco in their own language—Arabic.

They took Arabic lessons on board ship from P.F.C. Robert Camy, 35. An Egyptian who entered the American army from a haberdashery business in Springfield, Mass., Camy is a master of ten languages.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Dec. 1—The Rev. Victor Kane of Kingston addressed the local congregation Sunday afternoon. His subject was: "The Greatest Word and Work." He will preach again next Sunday at 3 p. m., after the Sunday school classes.

Mrs. Francis Whittier celebrated her birthday on Friday, November 20.

Honor roll pupils at the Brodhead school for the month of November are: Gertrude Palen, Rose Marie Crispell and Norma Burgher. The one who gave "best effort" was Robert Whispell. Norma Burgher received the highest number of points for the first eight weeks of the Health Club. Brodhead District pupils who have had perfect attendance since the beginning of the September term are: Norma Burgher and Rose Marie Crispell.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burgher of Mt. Tremper called on his sister, Miss Ollie Burgher, Sunday afternoon.

The Rev. and Mrs. Frank Barley and daughters, Irma and Lois, of Liberty, called on Mrs. Minnie Every, Friday.

The Odd Fellows' annual Thanksgiving oyster supper, held last Wednesday evening in the Olive Bridge Lodge hall proved highly successful. More than 100 people were served. Later the tables were cleared away and dancing was held. Music was furnished by Sylvester Wells and his partner, for modern and square dancing. Past Grand Henry Winchell of Kingston was among the veteran members present.

Larry Kelder spent Thanksgiving week-end at Head Acres and entertained at a turkey dinner Saturday evening. His son, Dana, accompanied him here from New Jersey.

Mrs. Charles Richter had an unexpected guest Thanksgiving morning, when a partridge crashed through one of the large dining room windows and into the wall of the room.

E. C. Davis was called to Kingston last Wednesday to attend a session of the Napanoch grand jury, which is continuing its investigation of the Local No. 17 Labor Union case.

Mrs. Lena Burgher entertained her niece, Mrs. Wallace, of Monticello, over Thanksgiving week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kerr of West Hurley were guests Thanksgiving day of his sister, Miss Jennie Kerr, and her friend, Miss Bebe.

Pvt. Raymond Kelder has returned after spending a 10-day furlough at home with his mother, Mrs. Addie Kelder.

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock, Dec. 1—Mr. and Mrs. Fiolic who recently purchased the Peter Longendyke house, are making extensive improvements and additions to the building.

Mrs. Marcene Fredenberg of Home Place spent Thanksgiving week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Toms.

Mrs. Archibald McCaw, who has been ill shows improvement.

Mr. and Mrs. Danforth left for New York on Saturday. Mr. Danforth has been spending the Thanksgiving holiday at his home here.

Mrs. Marcena Fredenberg who has been spending the Thanksgiving holiday in Woodstock, left for her position in New Paltz on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Herrick entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Harrison and their two children at dinner on Friday evening.

Hope Herrick and Theodora de Ruyter returned on Monday from their visit to New York over the Thanksgiving holiday.

Arrangements are being made for the observance of Christmas by the various churches.

Persons who sleep in a cold room with the windows wide open can save heat by placing a rug or blanket against the bottom of the door, to prevent cold air from leaking into the rest of the house.

Munger Takes Post As Plant Breeder

Wisconsin Head Now Returns to State

Ithaca—Dr. Henry Munger, instructor and research investigator in the breeding of vegetable crops at the University of Wisconsin since 1941, returns to Cornell December 1 as assistant research professor of plant breeding and vegetable crops.

Mr. Munger, who grew up on a western New York farm, was graduated from the college of agriculture at Cornell in 1936, with a major study in vegetable crops. He started graduate work at Ohio State University that year, and received his master's degree in 1937. While at Ohio State, he cooperated in soybean breeding work with scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

He returned to Cornell in 1938, to continue work in breeding vegetable crops, as an assistant in the plant breeding department. He received his doctor's degree in plant breeding at Cornell in June 1941, based on his work in the breeding of improved melons for New York state.

In July of 1941, Dr. Munger went to the University of Wisconsin as an instructor, where he has continued his work of improving vegetable stocks, notably carrots.

As an undergraduate in the New York State College of Agriculture, Munger carried the highest four-year average in scholarship of the 163 students in the college who were graduated in 1936.

At Cornell, he plans to continue breeding of improved melons and other crops for New York state farms.

The 9 Billion Dollar Victory Loan Drive Is On!

This week the United States Government begins the task of borrowing nine billion dollars within the next several weeks as an essential part of winning the war more quickly and more completely.

During these critical weeks you probably will be visited by a representative of one of the securities firms or banks which are contributing their time and effort — without compensation of any kind — to the Victory Fund Committee. He will explain to you, for instance, the benefits that you can obtain from the new Victory 2½'s —available for the first time. Welcome him as a war worker when he calls. If you miss him, ask your banker or securities dealer for full particulars. There is no limit to the amount that you can purchase.

Today many American families are torn apart. Millions have left their homes or their jobs; thousands have given their lives and many more are prepared to do so.

But the government, your government, is not asking you to give anything to this Nine Billion Dollar Drive. It is asking you to lend it all of the money you can possibly invest in what is the safest investment in the world—at a good rate of interest.

When the victory Fund representative calls, please remember this: it is in your own interest, as well as that of your country, to listen to him—and to invest.

BUY THESE VICTORY 2½'s NOW

Twenty-six year 2½ per cent bonds due December 15, 1968, callable December 15, 1963. Issued in coupon or registered form at the option of the buyer. Commercial banks will not be permitted to hold these bonds until ten years after the date of issue. There is no limit on the amount any eligible investor may purchase. Interest is paid semi-annually, June 15 and Dec. 15. The bonds will be sold in denominations from $500 to $100,000. In the event of the death of a holder, the bonds may be redeemed at 100% and accrued interest for the purpose of satisfying federal estate taxes.

Two series of shorter term obligations: (a) 1¾ per cent bonds due June 15, 1948, and (b) ⅞ per cent certificates of indebtedness due one year after issuance. These securities are open for subscription by banks, and also by all other classes of investors, whether private, corporate or institutional.

Other Treasury Securities offered to investors through the Victory Fund Committee are Treasury Tax Savings Notes A and C, and U. S. Savings Bonds, Series F and G.

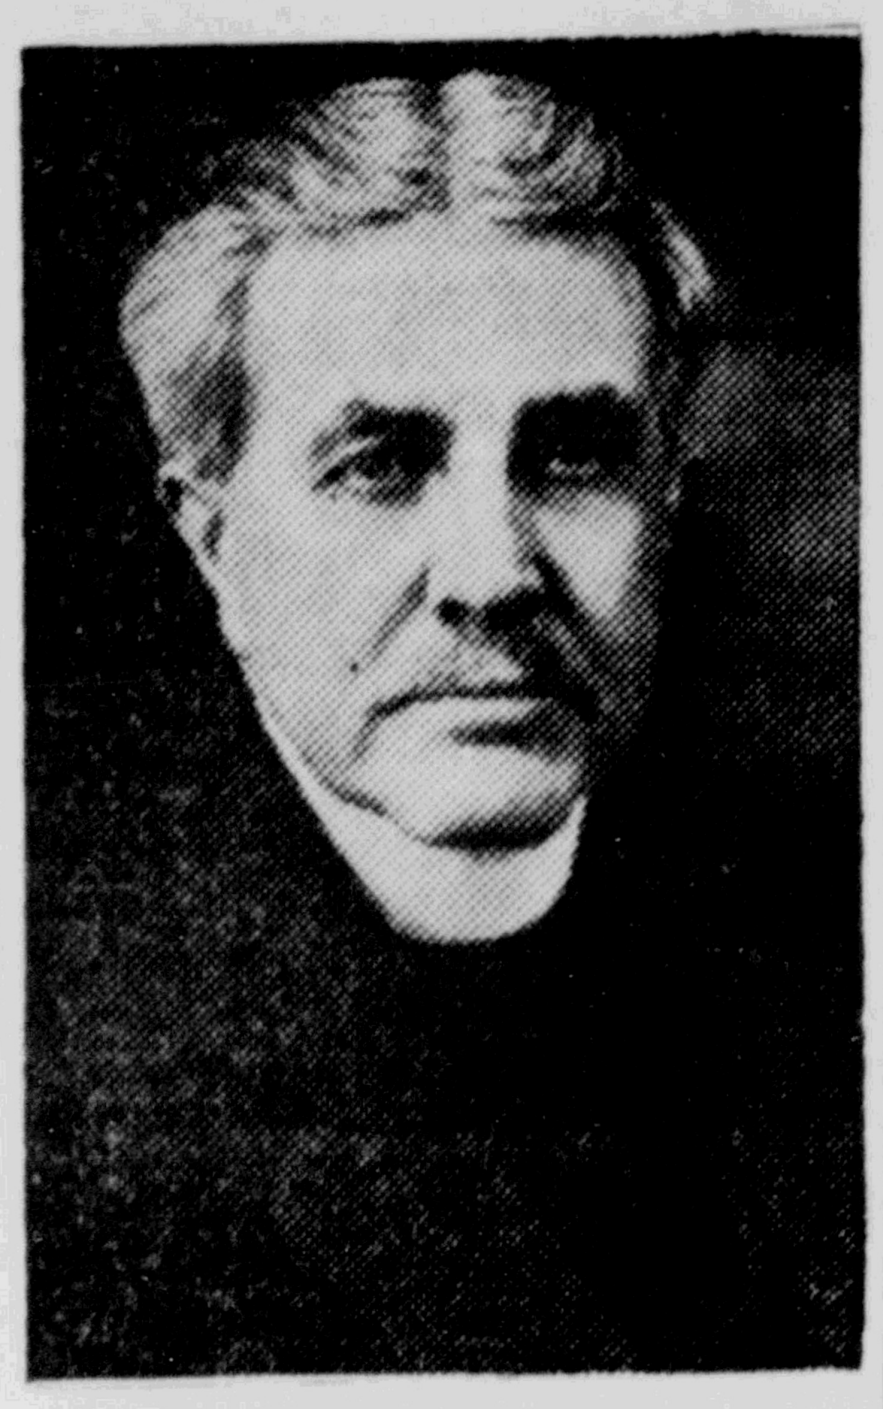
Saugerties Church Presents Talk on England at War



DEAN LYNN H. HOUGH

A lecture, "Eighty Days in England," will be given in the Saugerties Methodist Church on Friday evening, December 4, at 7:30 o'clock, by Dean Lynn Harold Hough, dean and professor of Homiletics and the Christian Criticism of Life, at Drew University. Dr. Hough is being brought to Saugerties by the Clergy Club of the Kingston district Methodist ministers on the occasion of their fall meeting, which will be held in the Saugerties church Friday afternoon.

So many people have expressed a desire to head Dr. Hough's lecture on England under war conditions, that the evening session has been devoted entirely to him and has been made an open meeting to which the public is cordially invited. Delegations from the 55 churches of the district and many people from Kingston and surrounding places are expected to attend the lecture.

Dr. Hough was one of the representative American clergymen selected by the Federal Council of Churches to visit England last summer. He spent the summer there, preaching and speaking in London and other large centers of Britain. From his experience he is well able to give a picture of England at war. The evening meeting is open to the public.

Rain Washes Away Tuesday's Snowfall

Two and a half inches of snow fell in Kingston on Tuesday afternoon and early evening, according to the records in the city engineer's office, but the heavy rainfall that followed the snowstorm washed streets and sidewalks clear of snow. The total precipitation for the storm, snow and rain combined, as recorded by the city engineer's office was 1.22 inches.

Snow began falling in Kingston about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and continued falling until early evening when the temperature began to rise and the snow turned to rain.

The more than two-inch fall of snow soon turned to slush and streets became very slippery. The Board of Public Works had out several sanding crews during the afternoon and early evening, and one crew was kept on duty until this morning ready to respond to any call where needed.

One automobile crash was reported in the city Tuesday afternoon as a result of the storm. Norman Shapiro of 19 Joy's Lane, reported to the police that while driving over Washington avenue, near Hurley avenue, that a truck operated by Joseph Van Althen of Hudson, skidded and crashed into the side of his automobile. Both machines were damaged but no personal injuries were reported.

Tony Martin Goes To Los Angeles

Singer Dismissed by Navy May Be Drafted

San Francisco, Dec. 2 (AP)—Dismissed by "unfitness" from the navy with which he had served 11 months, singer-actor Tony Martin returned today to Los Angeles and the prospect of an immediate interview with his Beverly Hills draft board.

The 29-year-old radio and picture performer boarded a bus for the south at Oakland last night, dressed in the civilian clothes he had said he did not "want to walk around in," and his face partly concealed by dark glasses.

Only a few hours before an order had reached the Treasure Island navy base stripping Martin, former husband of film star Alice Faye, of his rating as a chief specialist and releasing him from the service. Naval officials made clear the dismissal "doesn't carry any degradation" and should not be construed as a dishonorable discharge.

At Treasure Island, Martin had been assigned to staging entertainment for navy personnel. Last summer Lieut. Comdr. Maurice N. Aroff was courtmartialed on Treasure Island on various charges of falsehood and unofficerlike conduct, one of which was that, contrary to naval regulations, he accepted a $950 automobile as a gift from Martin for facilitating the singer's enlistment.

Martin testified first that Aroff did accept the car as a gift and later that the officer had arranged to pay for it in installments.

on mortgage foreclosures, near elimination of industrial strife, promotion of low-cost housing, and maintenance of high educational and health standards.

Although reporting the state's "physical plant" in "good shape," the governor expressed concern over an insufficient qualified personnel to man state institutions.

"Today because of conditions imposed by the draft and the competition of high industrial wages," he said, "we are short several thousand attendants and other workers in our institutions."

That problem is expected to be discussed in a New York city conference today between Governor-elect Dewey and Republican legislative leaders. A proposal that institutional employes work 12 instead of eight hours a day, at time and a half overtime pay, for the war's duration has been endorsed by the Association of State Civil Service Employes.

Citing a state credit "unequalled" by any other unit of government, Lehman said the state surplus "may well amount to more than $75,000,000" by next June 30 and declared it "was accumulated while income tax reductions were made which have resulted in a saving to the taxpayers of more than $90,000,000 last year and this."

Preparing "with full confidence" to turn administration of the state over to Poletti, Lehman paid tribute to his successor as one who "knows thoroughly the problems of the state and the aspirations of its people."

"I am confident that during the period of his governorship he will render devoted and efficient service," he said.

New Presbyterian Society Is Formed

The Youth Progressive Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church was organized Tuesday evening at a meeting with the Rev. and Mrs. D. Linton Doherty at the Manse on Broadway when the following officers were elected: President, Miss Amy Palmer; Vice President, Chester Diffley; Secretary, Miss Betty Doherty, and Treasurer, Miss Anna A. Van Deusen.

Chester Diffley and Kenneth Lowe were appointed members of the membership committee, and Miss Van Deusen was named chairman of the publicity committee.

The topic of the evening was Africa and was in charge of Kenneth Lowe, who spoke of the missionary work being carried on in that country by the Presbyterian Church.

The newly organized society decided to hold its first Christmas party in the chapel of the church on December 22, and committees were named to make arrangements.

Following the business meeting games were played and refreshments served.

Council Holds Brief Session

Little Business Transacted; Resolutions Adopted

Tuesday evening the Common Council held one of the briefest sessions of the year, and little business was tracted. Alderman Thomas F. Coughlin of the Seventh Ward extended an invitation to the aldermen to attend the dedication of the Seventh Ward Service Flag on Sunday afternoon at Cornell Park.

The council adopted a resolution to the effect that unpaid water bills be included in the 1943 tax roll. The water board had filed with the council a lengthy list of delinquent property owners who had not paid this year's water rents.

The aldermen also took similar action in regard to the five property owners who had failed to pay the snow removal bills of the past winter. The total amount to be placed on next year's tax roll was slightly more than $26.

During the reading of the list of bills one was read calling for the payment of $135 for floor wax.

Alderman Paul Zucca, chairman of the building and supply committee, desired to know who had ordered the wax, which has been delivered at the city hall, but no one was present who could answer the question.

"That is a lot of wax to use on the floors of the city hall," said Alderman Zucca.

Accident Is Reported

Mrs. Melvina Lapo of Shokan reported to the sheriff's office Tuesday afternoon that her car had gone off the road on the turn above West Hurley and struck a guard rail post. No one was injured and damage to the car was slight.

The Greatest Christmas Present of All SAVINGS PLAN
UNITED STATES
SAVINGS BONDS

Photograph Courtesy United States Treasury Department

In other years at Christmastime we have devoted this space to Electrical Gifts. We have said they were presents with a future—that through the years to come the gifts you gave would continue to keep on giving . . . in comfort, convenience, and the saving of labor.

This year you can give the finest Christmas Gift of all—the future of America—that we may continue to be free to live and speak and act and work and worship as we please!

To those to whom you would give Electrical Gifts if this were a happier year, we urge you to give United States War Bonds and Stamps. To the youngsters you can give a start toward a higher education; to young folks a little older you can give a nestegg toward the future; to older folks you can give a bit of financial independence to help them through their later years.

Plan Annual Dance For Christmas Cheer

The members of the Kingston Lodge, No. 970, Loyal Order of Moose will hold their second annual Christmas Cheer dance, Saturday evening, December 12, at the Moose Hall. This annual social event is always anticipated with much interest by the members who contribute the entire proceeds derived from the affair to the purchase of toys for the needy children in the city.

Last year the affair was so successful that more than 100 toys were donated to the Mayor's Christmas Cheer committee for distribution. This year the members feel confident that indications promise an even greater contribution.

Joseph F. Ross, Jr., governor of the lodge, has appointed the following committee to complete arrangements for the occasion: Calvin Swart, chairman; Lamont Gedney, Jesse Hoffen, George Gardiner, Anthony J. Erena, Vincent Van Demark, and Charles M. Lord.

In accordance with the yuletide season, the hall will be gayly decorated in Christmas atmosphere and a popular orchestra will provide music for the dancing. Several novelty features of entertainment will be included in the program. Tickets may be procured from any member of the committee or by calling 1714 for reservations.

An Ulster county girl, Miss Theodora Stokes of Rifton, had the honor of being selected as one of 12 girls in all New York state to attend the National 4-H Club Congress which opened in Chicago, Sunday and continues through to Thursday of this week. She left for Chicago Saturday and expects to return home this week-end.

Formerly one 4-H member from each county in the state was selected to attend the national congress, but due to handicaps imposed by war conditions, including transportation difficulties as well as shortage of accommodations in Chicago it has been found necessary to cut the number of delegates to half or less.

Delegates are selected on a basis of state-wide competition of work done in various lines or on the record made in 4-H work.

Miss Stokes won her selection on the record she had made since she started in 4-H work in 1934 at the age of ten, as a member of the Rock Hill School of which Miss Anna Devine is teacher. Since that time she has started and completed many food and clothing projects each year — three years ago she carried to successful completion 13 projects.

She is a member of the Rifton Fife and Drum Corps, in addition to her other activities and last year was sent as a delegate to the Club Congress at Ithaca and to the State Fair.

Miss Stokes has won her 4-H honors in addition to other work that keeps her fully occupied. For three years she has spent her vacation period assisting at Dreamland Farms and in addition to keeping up her work as a senior at the Kingston High School, helps out in the cafeteria during noon hours, and Saturdays and Sundays assists in the Kingston Hospital.

All expenses of delegates to the Chicago meeting are paid by various nationally known firms, who sponsor the different competitions. The work record competition which was won by Miss Stokes was sponsored by Montgomery Ward and Co.

Yarn Is Needed To Make Afghans

Requests have come from the Bundles for America headquarters for afghans. These coverlets are made from either six or eight inch squares and are urgently needed for use by convalescing soldiers and sailors.

There are many volunteers registered with the local Bundles for America chapter who are willing to crochet or knit these afghans. However, yarn is difficult to obtain and the Bundles for America chapter has discontinued purchasing it. For this reason women are urged to contribute for this work any lengths of yarn in any color which they may have in surplus or of course, newly purchased skeins will be acceptable, too.

Greco-Duda

Saugerties, Dec. 1—The wedding of Miss Mildred A. Duda, daughter of Stanley Duda and the late Mrs. Duda of Churchland, to P.F.C. Frank D. G. Greco, son of Mr. and Mrs. Domenico Greco of Mt. Marion, took place Sunday afternoon, November 1, at the main chapel in Fort Lewis, Wash.

The bride was given in marriage by Sgt. John A. Van Winkle, a close friend of the bridegroom. Attendants were Miss Wilrae Widness of Seattle and Pvt. Carmen de Santis.

The bride was dressed in sand colored crepe with casual coat of soft brown wool. She had a Mrs. Miniver style hat of matching brown and a corsage of bronze pom pon chrysanthemums. Miss Widness wore a brown two-piece wool dress and tan coat with a brown skull cap and a cluster of bright yellow chrysanthemums for corsage.

A reception was held the following evening at the U.S.O. Club with Sgt. and Mrs. Leon Ayle acting as hosts. They were assisted by Miss Lorena Glenn and John W. Cash, private first class.

Sylvan Shop Has Fire

A call at 7:53 o'clock Tuesday night, brought firemen and apparatus to the Sylvan Shop at 304 Wall street, where heavy smoke was pouring from the front. They found that an electric iron which had been left on, at the rear of the shop, had burned through the ironing board and fire had communicated to a curtain and the baseboard. A sewing machine nearby also was damaged. The shop is owned by Sarah Estroff. The fire was put out by the use of chemicals. Fire damage was slight, but there was considerable smoke damage to stock as there is no rear entrance to the shop. There was slight smoke damage to the Smart Shop, adjoining, and to the Kingston Tea Garden on the second floor of the building.

COIN JUST 119 YEARS OLD

Helena, Mont. (AP) — George Leach says the fellow who owned the 50 cent piece that he found recently on a street was no spendthrift. The coin was dated 1823 —119 years old—and yet it showed hardly any wear from circulation. How it came to be on a sidewalk Leach was unable to guess.

Lenihan Is Present At Council Session

Alderman Martin F. Lenihan of the Fifth ward, now Private Lenihan of the U. S. Army, attended the monthly meeting of the Common Council on Tuesday evening, and at the invitation of Alderman-at-large John J. Schwenk occupied a seat on the rostrum.

Private Lenihan was not present in his official capacity as alderman, but simply as a visitor, and his presence in uniform in the council chambers recalled the verbal battles of the past summer when the Republican aldermen endeavored to override the veto of Mayor William F. Edelmuth and pay Private Lenihan a month's salary for his service as alderman. The resolution that he be paid had been vetoed by the mayor on the ground that the city had no legal right to pay the salary as the alderman was no longer serving as such but was a member of the U. S. Army.

Private Lenihan, who is home on a 10-day furlough is now located at the Herbert Smart Air Field at Macon, Ga. He is a member of the 811th Chemical Company. Last night he said that he planned to return to Macon today.

U. S. Submarines Squeeze Jap Line

Last Sinkings Help Weaken Enemy's Supply Line to Far Outposts

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—United States naval pressure on Japan's vital supply lines squeezed tighter today with at least five more Nipponese ships sent to the bottom of the Pacific by American submarines.

Two additional enemy vessels were struck by torpedoes and one probably destroyed, the navy announced last night, bringing the toll of American undersea craft to date 98 Japanese ships sunk, 22 probably sunk and 28 damaged. The total, representing enemy vessels of all types, reached the new figure by the sinking of an enemy destroyer, a 9,000-ton tanker and three cargo ships of 8,000, 6,300 and 2,000 tons. A 6,000-ton cargo ship was damaged and another of twice that displacement was believed sunk.

Naval officials in Washington observed that the results obtained by American submarines since the start of the war represented one of the greatest contributions toward puncturing Japan's naval pipe lines to her stolen and mandated bases in the western Pacific and the China Sea.

In the southwestern Pacific, American forces in the Solomon Islands were proceeding with the job of cleaning the unwilling Japanese out of Guadalcanal with what was described as routine patrol activity. This activity, the navy said, included giving the Japanese outpost on the island a heavy dose of artillery fire accompanied by strafing and bombing from American planes. The artillery bombardments and aerial action supported army and marine ground patrols in the vicinity of the American-held airbase. No accounting was given of enemy troops slain or supplies captured.

Ickes Fades From Manpower Picture

President Sidetracks Plan for Time Being; New Candidate Sought

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes was reported bowing out of the manpower spotlight today and President Roosevelt has pigeonholed for the time being his plan to create a single administrator.

Authoritative sources who cannot be identified said the President and Ickes had agreed at a conference yesterday that the job of exercising over-all supervision of the federal manpower machinery probably should go to some more available candidate.

It was decided, these sources said, that there would be too many complications involved in a three-way cabinet shift which would be necessary to switch Ickes from Interior to Labor, in order to give him full control over Selective Service as well as industrial and farm labor.

Then, too, there was accumulating evidence that the oil industry, which viewed Ickes with a jaundiced eye when he was made petroleum coordinator a year and a half ago, had come to like him so well that it did not want to let him go.

It was emphasized meanwhile that the President had not abandoned the idea of centering all manpower controls under one man—the only thing lacking at the moment is an acceptable man.

At his press conference yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that there was nothing on the fire when he was asked about the projected cabinet shift, under which Paul V. McNutt would have become Interior secretary and Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins would have succeeded McNutt as Federal Security administrator.

The President began by saying there was nothing ready to serve that there was quite a lot of food on the range but that it had not been cooked for the reporters as yet.

One result will be to deprive Congress of an opportunity to discuss whatever shortcoming the members may have found in the President's official family, since the cabinet shift would have required Senate confirmation.

Wonder of Il Duce Is That He Had Anything to Say

(This column, conducted as a daily feature by DeWitt Mackenzie, is written today by Glenn Babb. Mr. Mackenzie, now touring the Middle East war zone, is expected to resume shortly).

Benito Mussolini admitted today that the United Nations were winning the current round of the war of nerves against his sorely beset people. His admission was not put in so many words; it lay in the fact that he spoke at all. Obviously the psychological warfare the Allies are concentrating on Italy, which reached a booming climax Sunday in Winston Churchill's broadcast, forced the Duce to break a virtual silence of almost a year.

Reading excerpts from the speech, it is difficult to see how it could have warned Italian hopes or dispelled Italian fears. To alien ears, in which the sonorous cadences of Churchill's pronouncement of doom on Italy still are ringing, it sounds as feeble as a popgun reply to a battleship's broadside. Its tone and content seem to a non-Italian defeatist. It may have sounded different to those it was meant to reassure.

But his reference to the removal of women and children from the great industrial cities of the north which the R. A. F. has laid in ruins could not have been cheering, nor the catalogue of Italy's losses in men and ships, even though these were understated. Neither could there have been much Italian joy over the promise that Germany would reinforce Italy with "powerful contributions." Already Il Duce's people know too much of these contributions, the German divisions and Gestapo units which have robbed them of what little freedom of decision the Fascist regime had left them.

For further solace Mussolini had to turn to the record of his other ally, Japan. During the year since Il Duce made his last full dress oration from his balcony, overlooking the Piazza Venezia—it was on December 11, when he declared war on the United States—Japan has conquered a great empire. Italy has just about completed the process of losing an empire. That contrast can hardly fail to escape millions of Italians. Can they draw comfort from that? Nothing could point more strikingly to the sorry place to which Italy has fallen in the plunderbund into which Mussolini thrust her. While the last vestiges of her empire are slipping away she is confronted with the choice of continuing to fight to help her associates hold their spoils or surrendering.

This, of course, is a one-sided picture. There doubtless is another side, and it would be a grave error to assume that Italy is about to fall out of the war. There must still be millions of Italians to whom the idea of surrender is either still distant or repugnant, who still acknowledge claims of loyalty to the Fascist regime and the Mussolini leadership, whose minds are capable of considering Il Duce's wheezing, puffing oration an adequate response to Churchill's invitation to revolt.

But the mere fact that the obviously aging, ailing dictator of Fascism should be prodded into a public appearance—"I have a vague impression the Italian people want to hear me," is his excuse—shows clearly that the psychological campaign Churchill launched nearly two years ago, with the speech pointing to the "one man and one man alone" who led Italy to war, is getting results. Even so conservative an observer as Secretary Hull would not be surprised to hear of rumblings in Italy.

Yesterday the Rome and Berlin radios rang the changes on the announcement that the Kaiserplatz in Augsburg had been renamed Benito Mussolini Platz "to symbolize the solidarity of the Axis." Perhaps the renaming of a few square rods in Augsburg is compensation for the empire of 1,200,000 square miles that is all but lost.

Special Wartime Power Is Modified but Unsettled

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—A redrafted, twice-sidetracked measure granting President Roosevelt new wartime powers, reached the full House ways and means committee today amid mounting demands that it be subjected to the give and take of public hearings. The modified measure would authorize the Chief Executive to suspend tariff regulations, but would ignore his request for authority to override immigration laws.

There were expressions of dissatisfaction by members who felt that the compromise form of the measure still went too far.

"I want to go into it a lot further before I will be in favor of this bill," said Rep. Woodruff (R.-Mich.), one of the sub-committee which toned down the bill. "We've accomplished all we can behind closed doors, and I for one will demand full public hearings before we send it to the floor." He said the elimination of the authority for the President to suspend barriers against admission of aliens did not remove all the objectionable features and predicted that representatives from agricultural states would show "a considerable interest" in the measure's contents.

New, Powerful X-Ray Machine Is Described

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—A new x-ray machine producing 30 million electron volts—the most powerful in the world—was described today before the Radiological Society of North America.

The device, called the betatron, was developed at the University of Illinois by Prof. Donald W. Kerst, who said it may give medical specialists a powerful weapon to use against malignant growths in the human body.

He said, however, that the machine is not yet ready for medical use and that no tests have yet been made on living tissue.

The betatron, built by General Electric Company, was patterned after a high-voltage "atom-smasher" which Professor Kerst made two years ago for research in atomic physics.

Its power is far beyond that of present day x-ray medical machines, most of which develop energies up to 400,000 volts.

Prof. Kerst said one advantage of the higher voltage machine is that its maximum effect appears to be about 1½ inches below the surface, whereas the effect of present x-ray machines is greatest on the surface and decreases as the rays pass into the body.

Congress Members Get Instructions

Newcomers Receive Booklet Telling What to Do

Washington, Dec. 2 (AP)—Members of the new congress who take their seats on January 4 are being instructed by the chief clerk of the House in the rights, privileges and emoluments of their office.

And according to a booklet called "information for representatives-elect to the seventy-eighth congress," issued by Chief Clerk South Trimble, the official $10,000 annual salary is just part of said emoluments.

The moment they start their journey from their homes to the capital to take the oath of office, members get on Uncle Sam's expense account. They receive 20 cents a mile travel allowance going to and coming from each regular session of congress.

As soon as they hit Washington, Trimble reminds them, they are entitled to up-to-date office suites with all the accoutrements. Once set up in his office, a representative can start casting about for hired help to the tune of not more than $6,500 per year. The law limits the number of employes to three, and the top pay to $3,900. Any part of the salary allotment not used reverts to the treasury, but generally it is used up.

For each year in office, a representative is allowed $50 for air mail and special delivery postage. This is in addition to the franking privilege, under which ordinary mail may be sent at government expense. To obtain stationery for his office, the representative draws an additional $200 per session. And if he wants to use the telegraph instead of mail for official business, he may do so at the expense of congress.

Nonetheless, what with living costs and taxes what they are and the cost of election campaigns every other year, many members declare they serve at a personal sacrifice.

Buna-Gona Battle Continues Slowly

By MURLIN SPENCER

Allied Headquarters in Australia, Dec. 2 (AP) — Despite their heavy losses in previous abortive attempts to reinforce their isolated troops in the Buna-Gona area of New Guinea, the Japanese sent four destroyers toward Buna today in another attempt to strengthen their forces. Allied planes scored hits and near misses on some of the ships, but there was no report whether this latest attempt at reinforcement had been turned back, a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said.

With MacArthur's airforce smashing repeatedly at Japanese positions, especially in the vicinity of Buna, American and Australian ground forces were slowly contracting their grip on the enemy, according to the Allied communique. Wave after wave of Allied planes—Airacobras, B-26s, A-20s, and B25s—hammered the Japanese lines and started fires in the vicinity of Buna Mission. The Japanese sent fighters and dive-bombers to strafe the Allied-held airstrip near the northern coast but two fighters and one dive-bomber were shot down.

Yorkville Man Is Given 45 Years, Is Fined $10,000

Anthony Cramer's Counsel Plans Appeal; Accused of Aiding Saboteurs in New York

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Anthony Cramer, 42, Yorkville mechanic, convicted of treasonably aiding two of the eight Nazi saboteurs landed by submarine in the United States last June, today was sentenced to 45 years in prison and fined $10,000.

After sentence was imposed by Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard, Defense Counsel Harold Medina said he would appeal.

At the trial of Cramer, who was convicted November 18, the government charged he gave "aid and comfort" to Werner Thiel and Edward J. Kerling after they landed by submarine on the Florida coast, intent on destroying units of the nation's aluminum industry.

Cramer was accused of meeting the two saboteurs in New York, and of giving false information to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in an attempt to conceal Thiel's mission and identity.

Both Thiel and Kerling, together with four of their companions, later were put to death after trial by a military court in Washington.

Cramer had faced a possible maximum penalty of death.

Judge Goddard said he would not impose the death penalty, as recommended by U. S. Attorney Mathias Correa, because "it does not appear that Cramer was aware that Kerling and the others were in possession of explosives or intended to destroy factories."

"It appears to me," the court said, "that he had no guilty knowledge of the subversive mission of Kerling and Thiel except that he had a vague idea that they came here to agitate and spread German propaganda.

"If there were any real proof that they had confided in him, or that he knew of their real purpose for coming here, I would not hesitate to impose the death sentence."

In presenting its case against him, the government charged that he met Thiel on June 22, less than a week after the saboteurs landed in the United States, and had arranged several rendezvous with them.

Cramer's defense was that he did not know Thiel was here on a mission of sabotage.

Cramer's was the third trial in Federal Court of persons accused of treason in aiding one or more of the saboteurs. Three men were condemned to death in Chicago November 24 and their wives, who had been tried with them, were sentenced to 25 years in prison and fined $10,000 each.

Helmut Leiner, Astoria gardener, was freed of a treason charge Monday when a judge in Federal Court here directed a verdict of acquittal on grounds that the government, in presenting its case, failed to produce at least two witnesses to testify to each overt act charged. Leiner also was accused of aiding Kerling. Following his acquittal, he was interned for the duration as a dangerous enemy alien.

In the nation's only other conviction for treason in 148 years—since the so-called whisky rebellion of 1794—Max Stephan of Detroit was sentenced to death last August for sheltering and aiding the flight of a German aviator who escaped from a Canadian prison camp.

Green Case Settled

The contract action brought by Mrs. Mary S. Green of the town of Rochester against Queen Insurance Company of America and others, which was scheduled for trial Tuesday afternoon in Supreme Court before Justice Bergan, was settled. Mrs. Green sought to recover insurance from four insurance companies, $4,000 on her house and $1,000 for personal property, which was burned on May 20, 1941. The companies claimed the proof of loss had not been received within the specified time and that at the time of the fire Mrs. Green was not residing in the house but nearby. She maintained she paid daily visits to the property. Peter H. Harp appeared for the plaintiff and Afield, Sowers and Herrick were attorneys of record for the defendants with Fred Stang appearing as trial counsel.

Thanks Are Given

Good Taste Today

AGAIN THE WORD "FORMAL"

It is true that the interpretation of the word "formal" depends upon the habits and customs of each community. In one, men wear "white ties and tails"; in another white shirts and blue serge suits. To a letter asking: "Why is it wrong to stipulate "formal" on an evening wedding invitation so people will have some idea of how to dress?", let me say this: The only "wrong" is that this advice is unnecessary since the marriage service is a religious ceremony which is the most formal occurence possible. In other words, apart from the fact that it is "not done," the direction "formal" on a wedding invitation would probably confuse everyone. Those whose "tails" and ball dresses are laid away for the duration might feel they were expected to get them out. And those who have no evening clothes might feel that they had no suitable clothes to wear and as a result not even go to the wedding.

The Bridegroom Is Married

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiance is a widower; has been for over three years. He has no children. When we are married may I wear white and a veil or would this be in questionable taste because of his previous marriage. His former wife is dead, and they were not divorced.

Answer: Of course you may wear white and a veil. It is not your second marriage!

Two Points of View

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a semi-invalid. I am to all appearances a well person except that I am not able to leave my house in a suburb of the city. Therefore, many relatives and friends from town come out to see me frequently. My daughter-in-law lives several blocks away and she thinks that some of our relatives should also go to see her when they come out here, and she thinks they ought to care to see her children and her home. I think it much easier for them all to meet here. She's very young and has plenty of time to do the coming, and the children have to be taken out anyway.

Answer: I agree with the points you make, but on the other hand I think it natural that your daughter-in-law might like to be shown a little attention and to want to have them see the children at home. Perhaps you could urge them to come for a longer time someday, in order to come to see you and also stop in to see her.

A Party for Mother

Dear Mrs. Post: Father has been retired and he and Mother are coming here to live. They will live however in a house by themselves. I would like to introduce many of our townspeople to Mother, especially some of the older women I've learned to know in the church. How shall I invite them, and tell me the wording and what to serve?

Answer: Write notes "Dear Mrs. Blank, Will you come in for a cup of tea next Wednesday at half after four o'clock and meet my mother (Mrs. Harry Foster)?, Sincerely ...."

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "RESTAURANT AND THE THEATRE." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. Leaflets cannot be mailed unless self-addressed envelope bears correct amount of postage.

WHAT IT MEANS

By JOHN GROVER

Events of this last month should dispel any doubts that the United Nations are truly united—united by interdependence on mutual action for success against the Axis.

Dispatches from Associated Press war correspondents in Russia, Africa, China and the south seas document the fact that what happens on one front has immediate repercussions on all the rest. We—the United Nations—are in hot water or in clover together.

Two days after Gen. Eisenhower landed in Africa, Henry Cassidy and Eddy Gilmore of the AP Moscow bureau reported that Nazi air activity decreased from 2,000 to 200 sorties daily. Hitler had to pull his luftwaffe out of Russia in a desperate gamble to save his remaining chips in Africa.

With the air again the province of Russian Stormoviks and lend-leased Airocobras and Spitfires, the Soviets launched the offensive that has sent Hitler reeling in Russia. Stalin's jubilant letter to Cassidy attested the value of the African front to Russian plans.

Conversely, when the offensive in the Solomon Islands seemed bogged down six weeks ago, it threatened the success of fronts on the other side of the world. Precious shipping had to be diverted to reinforce that area. Only the magnificent victory of the U. S. fleet saved the situation.

Russian successes in the two-pronged drive on the Don-Volga front, made possible by withdrawal of the Nazi air forces to Africa, in their turn contribute to the softening of the Axis everywhere else. Troops pinned there can't bulwark the channel coast or the Mediterranean bastion of the Axis. Eisenhower and his international force will have easier going for every Nazi the Russians hold on the steppes. There'll be fewer U.S.A.A.F. and R.A.F. planes lost in the round the clock bombing of German production centers for each plane kept busy in Russia.

Stamps IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

Wartime censorship again has made its presence felt on the stamp market, numerous new stamps known to have been issued by foreign countries not having been received by dealers in the United States. Within the past week the shortage has been particularly evident.

Then censorship is largely precautionary, and with no reflection on the leaders, whose consignments are held up along with those addressed to individuals.

Attempts frequently are made to send code messages with stamps, using single stamps or combinations of stamps. Each consignment usually is held by censorship for a month, whether or not it is studied for evidences of code. At the end of a month, it is figured, whatever message the stamps might have carried no longer is useful in this fast-moving war.

The Post Office Department announces it has published a revised edition of the official booklet containing descriptions and illustrations of all United States postage stamps from the date of their introduction in 1847 to July 31, 1942. Plate numbers and quantities of commemoratives.. and airmail stamps are included in the booklet, which is being sold by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 30 cents—in postal money orders or checks.

One of New York's most important auction sales of recent months has concerned the late Col. E. H. R. Green's collection. The huge and valuable collection has been broken into parts and is being sold in several sessions, the last of which will be December 8. For the latter sessions, a 110-page booklet with 24 pages of engravings has been published. Total receipts are expected to reach $200,000, and among the more prominent buyers has been Adolphe Menjou, the actor.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

BY John Barclay

AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Clean That Coal Bin!

Now that we are getting close to the end of the heating season, let us give special thought to the proper care of the heating equipment during the coming summer months when it will not be in operation. It has been a good friend during the winter, so treat it considerately during the few months it is not being used. As a rule the heating plant represents an investment of several hundred dollars. A little time spent now may save many dollars later on.

Let us start with the coal bin. After all it is an integral part of the heating plant and houses the fuel. In other words it is the warehouse or storeroom for the heat. Many times a coal dealer is blamed for delivering "dirty" coal. Often this is not his fault at all, but is directly due to the condition of the bin. Most dealers will wet down the load before the delivery is made, yet this clean coal when chuted into the basement will raise a dense cloud of dust. This dust is already in the bin. It merely becomes disturbed when the new load of coal is chuted in and belches into a cloud of dirt particles. It is an accumulation of a long period of time. Even a closed room will accumulate a thin layer of dust if it is not used. Imagine coal being handled in such a closed room. The accumulation is bound to be much heavier.

Anthracite coal is dense but not very brittle, although upon handling as one piece rubs on another, small chips will break off. If the coal bin is not cleaned out periodically, sizeable amounts of dust particles may gather. This is an unnecessary condition for it would only take a minute or two to clean out the bin before a new delivery of coal is made.

Not only is this important from the dirt angle, but if it is permitted to have this dirt accumulate in the bin, sooner or later, large amounts of these "fines" will be fired into the heater. These so-called "fines" will have a tendency to "pack" the fuel bed. This condition, in turn, will cause a sluggish draft and a dull fuel bed. The fire will not be lively and because sufficient air cannot be supplied to the fuel, the result will be unsatisfactory heat and the common complaint of cold rooms. If this condition of dust being fired into the furnace continues, it may ultimately cause clinkers to form.

So be sure, before your load of coal is delivered, to have the coal bin cleaned out. It only takes a minute and is well worth the trouble. You will not only have a cleaner basement, but also trouble free operation of your heating plant. (26)

RECALLED BY MEMORIAL

Gravesend, England (AP) — In Cobham park stands Britain's quaintest monument—recalling a peer's lost toe. On that spot 107 years ago the Earl of Darnley became dissatisfied with the way a woodcutter was wielding an axe. The Earl took the axe and lunged at the tree, but the blade struck a glancing blow and severed one of his toes.

A few days later the Earl died of blood poisoning from the injury and the monument—a family mausoleum which has never been used—was erected on the spot in his memory.

Recreations Ready for Harlem Yankee Cagers Tonight

Visitors Expected To Give Kingston Best Struggle Yet

'Turk' Karam May Mention New Player Later Today; Tonight's Game to Start 9:15

It's professional basketball night here in Kingston tonight. At the municipal auditorium starting at 8:15 o'clock and continuing until about 11 o'clock there will be plenty of basketball for local patrons.

At the 8:15 o'clock gun the preliminary attraction pits Worfs against the Matthew cagers in what promises to be a stellar subattraction for the main feature scheduled for 9:15 o'clock when the second half of the double-header will be played between the Kingston Recreations and the famous Harlem Yankees.

May Name Player

Up until about 9:30 o'clock this morning Manager "Turk" Karam still hadn't announced the name of the new player who will replace Nick Shaback, who recently decided to accept a war job in New England. However, Karam is expected to arrive in Kingston sometime later today and providing his arrival is before this paper goes to press, the new player's name will be found in this edition.

Although Karam hasn't declared who will be the new cager for the Recreations, it is very evident that he will bring some star here for tonight's big battle with the Harlem club. The local pilot seemed very pleased with the Recs after winning last week's tussle from the New York Jewels but he followed up with the announcement that he still desired to obtain another scoring ace to build the Recs into a high scoring machine.

Tonight's contest with the Yanks appears to be Kingston's toughest struggle of the season especially after remembering last year's terrific battle with the New Yorkers. The Harlem cagers are rated as one of the top Negro clubs of the country and will be ready to stop Kingston's two-game winning skein tonight with such outstanding players as Sonny Woods, Johnny Isaacs, "Moonbeam" Isles, Caffey, Garret and White. Isaccs and Woods are the two big "guns" for the Yankees on the offensive.

Sees Hard Contest

"We'll have a tough time with the Yankees tonight," remarked a Recreation spokesman this morning, "but with a few good breaks we should make it three in a row. Of course, if Karam does come here with another new player that should help out. Last week Kingston played with one reserve player on the bench which meant that most of the cagers saw full-time duty against the fast-stepping Jewels."

Manager Karam will undoubtedly start with Hagen Anderson, Ace Goldstein, Howie Bollerman, Herb Gershon and Jim Naughton again, with Irv Rosen and the new player seeing action throughout the contest. Gershon experienced a bad night last Thursday in the manner of hitting the scoring column but the New York State League star won't be stopped too many times.

Anderson, in two games, has been the big star for Kingston. Meanwhile, the Recreations have been fortunate in having Goldstein, Naughton, Gershon and Bollerman around. The entire Rec outfit played great basketball last week and proved to local fandom that this year's team packs plenty of power.

Freeman League Results

Team No. 1 continued to fight its way to the top of the standings in The Freeman Bowling League last night at the Immanuel alleys by taking two decisions from No. 2, present loop leaders. A four game margin now separates No. 2 in first place from Team 1 and 3 in a tie for second place.

Last night's two triumphs were achieved the hard way as No. 1 went into the game with a 100 blind score. However, the four bowlers blasted away and proceeded to register a nifty 756 team single in the opener. They took the third game with a 683 single.

Walt Kirchofer's 492 triple on a string of 185, 155 and 152 paced the winners. Walt Scharp posted high single in the match with his 187. Dick Gruver, also of No. 1 had a 186 solo. Roland Post highlighted the drive for No. 2 on games of 175, 178 and 146 for high series in the match of 499. The "big" score for No. 2 in the second game was Harry Hutton's sizzling 176 single, one of the best scores that the veteran has collected recently. Harry appeared on his way for a 200 game but wound up with his 176 which was a big help to his club in winning one game from No. 1.

Monday night at the Immanuel alleys John Haas' Team No. 3 club captured three straight from No. 4. Jack Hartman posted high single of 216 and had high series of 532. Milfred Buddenhagen's 490 was tops for the losers.

The standings:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
No. 2	17	10	.629
No. 1	13	14	.481
No. 3	13	14	.481
No. 4	11	17	.392

Central Rec League

Lou Bruhn and Bill Evans took honors in last night's Central Rec League matches at the mid-town alleys on Railroad avenue. Bruhn, bowling for the Crystals, captured high single honors of the night with a blazing 231 and finished with a 537 series. Evans, helping the Gov. Clintons to sweep three from Dawkins, high-powered a terrific 614 triple and a 230 single. His other scores were 173 and 211.

With Evans' big score as the pacer, the Clintons also had E. Cunningham's 564 and J. Edinger's 542 to help out to blast Dawkins in three games. Phil Corrado's 515 was high for the losers.

Bruhn sparked the Crystals to a lone victory over Vining and Smith. Lou's other scores were 148 and 163. Hod Spaulding posted high triple of 599. Joe Messinger's 550 was high for the winners. Smith hit 543 and Terwilliged 518.

Johnny Zeeh hit high single of 217 and high triple of 599 for the Astors but that club lost three straight decisions to Johnny Sangi's Pickups. Steve Fassbender's 536 was next to Zeeh's mark. Orv Van Alstyne had a 586 for the winners while Larry Petersen, Jr., registered 570.

The Ulsters defeated Hercules in two games as Georgie Robinson polished off a 553 triple on scores of 188, 167, and 198. Lou Guadagnola had a high 204 solo. Norm Niles' 532 was tops for the losers.

Catholic League Games

St. Joseph's bowlers took the spotlight in the Catholic League at the Central Rec allsys last night when they established a new high team single of 905. B. Whelan paced the winners with a 201 single and 565 series. Fred Ferraro also had 201 as they won three from St. Peter's of Rosendale. J. Turck had 507 for St. Peters.

Philadelphia Gets Honor For Next All-Star Game

Player Deals Still Out as Majors and Minors Assemble Today in Chicago

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—The major leagues returned to their wartime baseball discussions today still at odds over night game schedules and what should constitute a standard baseball for the duration.

It was considered likely that both differences would be settled tomorrow when the National and American Leagues meet jointly with Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The National League voted yesterday that each team be restricted to seven night games in 1943. The American agreed to a maximum of 14 for clubs other than Washington, which was allowed 28 on Clark Griffith's contention that the Senators were the only team in Washington and that most workers there had daytime hours.

The question of an official wartime baseball was taken up because of a rubber and cork shortage. Both leagues would use reprocessed materials, but the National asked a rubber core while the American voted cork. The National League said it was its intention to use a reported one million rubber cores now available with the manufacture of golf balls halted.

Shibe Park Gets Game

The majors, however, were in agreement on these subjects:

1. To hold the 1943 All Star game at Philadelphia's Shibe Park July 7 with the American League as the home team and proceeds going to baseball's "ball and bat" fund.

2. To maintain the present player limit of 25 for each club.

3. To extend the present major-minor league agreement for another year.

A three point request from Joseph Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, that baseball travel be curtailed came in for some attention by the American League, which ordered all its clubs to review spring training plans and to cut down on travel where possible. The result might be a number of changes in exhibition schedules.

The National League, however, became wrapped up in the financial plight of the Philadelphia Phils. President Ford Frick said the league's board of directors were working on three plans to solve the Phils' money problems, but added that he doubted a solution would be found during the Chicago meetings.

Frick also disclosed that a fourth plan, one in which "Bill Terry could fit into the picture," was abandoned yesterday. He hastened to add, however, there might be other propositions forthcoming and that abandoning of this one did not mean that Terry, who resigned Monday as farm director of the New York Giants, might not turn up in Philadelphia.

Brother Line Is First in Hockey; Plays Thursday

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—For the first time this season, the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team will present an all-brother line—the three Bentleys, Doug, Max and Reggie—in tomorrow night's game with the New York Rangers.

Injuries forced Manager Paul Thompson to put Bill Thoms on defense and pave the way to insert Reggie Bentley into the forward line with his brothers, both regulars and holdovers from last year. Reggie is playing his first season with the Hawks.

The all-brother line is believed to be the first in the National Hockey League.

Little Change Seen By Survey in Grid Scoring for Season

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Whether freshmen football players, given 1942 varsity status in many sectors because of the war's manpower demands, increased or decreased the scoring still is open to question although the season is virtually over.

The Associated Press' twenty-first annual scoring survey, involving 193 teams scattered throughout the country, shows that only two sectors showed a gain in the average number of points in a game compared with similar figures of a year ago.

One of the sectors was the midwest, where the big ten and the big six conferences did not use the freshmen. The other was the Rocky Mountain area, where the frosh were welcomed.

The southern and eastern districts, where use of the freshmen was common, showed a decline as did the far west and southwest which followed the midwest in not allowing the freshmen to play.

However, the Midwest and Rocky Mountain sector increased their scoring to such an extent that the entire country showed a gain.

	Schools	Games	Points	Team Avg.	Game Avg.
South	32	301	4,850	151.56	16.11
Rocky Mountains	7	58	911	130.14	15.70
Southwest	8	78	1,059	132.37	13.58
East	97	733	9,621	99.19	13.12
Far West	12	104	1,294	107.83	12.44

THE HERITAGE... AND THE HARVEST

A man plants a seed that grows and ripens and bears fruit. Some do it on a farm; some in a factory.

A man started a brewery some 77 years ago. He made it a friendly place to work in, a dependable place to buy from, a place that exalts pride and skill and craftsmanship above all.

Today you who drink Dobler Lager or Dobler Ale, reap the harvest of his handiwork. For the crowning touch of his genius was the Expert Hopping of his brews. To this day Expert Hopping gives you that finer flavor which has made Dobler one of the largest selling beverages on the market.

EXPERT HOPPING distinguishes

LAGER PON ALE

WHAT IS EXPERT HOPPING?

The most important flavor factor in any lager or ale is the hopping. Expert hopping is Dobler's specialized skill in selecting the hops for quality; dating them for freshness; blending them for aroma, and infusing them in 5 important steps to give you that famous finer flavor of Dobler P.O.N. Lager and Dobler P.O.N. Ale.

American Troops Down to 'Normal' Wartime Existence

By HAL BOYLE

With the American army, French Morocco, Nov. 24 (Delayed) (AP)—With their first actual battle experience behind them, American troops are settling down to a "normal" wartime existence.

Parents who fear the war will make religious backsliders of their sons would be comforted to hear the Rev. Patrick J. Ryan, a priest who for 15 years has marched and slept in the field with American troops.

Father Ryan—he wears the Silver Maple Leaf of a lieutenant colonel but is known as "Padre" to the men—is responsible as senior chaplain for arranging all religious services in his division, Protestant and Jewish as well as Catholic.

"These lads show a genuine interest in things spiritual because they are facing reality earlier than they would ordinarily," said Father Ryan, who baptized three men on the voyage over.

"War crystallizes and matures their ideas about their relation to their God. You notice the dead seriousness of the men as they approach a showdown.

"It seems to me the men feel there is a holy motive in their part in this war—something akin to the spirit of the men who march in the Crusades."

"Padre," who has spread his altar cloths for Mass on baggage cart platforms, on benches under trees, "any place you can get a little windbreak," was born in Litchfield, Minn., educated at St. Thomas College and St. Paul Seminary, both in St. Paul, Minn.

Stories of Heroism

From enlisted men, I keep hearing stories of heroism displayed by green junior officers in battle. Young lieutenants disregarded their personal safety and lunged forward to knock out machine-gun nests, without waiting for mortar support.

A second lieutenant who suffered an abdominal wound wept when friends visited him in the hospital ship.

"You lucky stiffs," he said, "Hell, they'll ship me back home and I'll have to spend six months instructing at some replacement center before I can get back where things are popping."

Another lieutenant, with a machine gun wound in his leg, was so determined to stay with his unit that he hid in the ship morgue, and was carried ashore along with the dead.

When they discovered him, officials permitted him to remain in the hospital here. He'll be ready for more action in a few weeks.

The combat force was the antithesis of Hitler's idea of a racially "pure" army. There were Italians, French, Jews, Irish, Germans, Russians, Serbs, Greeks, Spanish, Mexicans, Dutch, Filipinos, Negroes, Scotch, Chinese, Poles, Swedes, Norwegians, Czechs—welded into unity by a common American purpose.

All sections of the nation were represented, but the southern drawl seemed to sound most often amid the babel of American dialects.

First Lieutenant Philip H. McCorkle, 24-year-old signal officer from York, South Carolina, was so engrossed with invasion plans, that on each night of the voyage to North Africa he slept under a coverlet of codes and charts and maps.

A colonel was William H. Wilbur, a native of Massachusetts, whose wife lives at Highland Parkhill, and the corporal was Sanford (Sandy) Forbes, former Golden Gloves welterweight champion, of Milwaukee, Wis.

Landing at Fedala, they drove 13 miles to Casablanca and back, without suffering a scratch, although bombs fell within 50 yards of their jeep.

French army authorities received the pair but the French admiralty declined to discuss an armistice.

"Forbes never turned a hair," said Col. Wilbur, "calmest man you ever saw. Once when a bomb struck nearby, he kept on driving, and all he said was 'Gee, Colonel, that was a close one.'"

Private Tommy Poy, a Chinese and long time San Francisco chef, is personal cook for Major-General Jonathan W. Anderson.

"Me no got gun, can no shoot down parachute soldier in sky," he explains. But the General insists he is a better cook than a rifle shot.

New Standing Army

Out of this war will come a new standing army for the United States. It will be comprised by selectees and war-time enlisted men who have found a home in the army.

One of these is a reticent little piccolo-player in the Regimental Band. He's a sergeant-technician now, drawing $78 a month, plus 20 per cent for foreign duty, and in addition, his room, board and clothing.

Says he, "sure I'm going to stay in the army. Where else would they pay me so much to tootle a few toots? I used to be an $18-a-week millhand back in the states. The army's got that beat all hollow!"

He thinks the biggest dopes in the army are tuba players. He can carry his piccolo in his pocket.

Some of our troops can speak a few words to the natives of Morocco in their own language—Arabic. They took Arabic lessons on board ship from P.F.C. Robert Camy, 35. An Egyptian who entered the American army from a haberdashery business in Springfield, Mass., Camy is a master of ten languages.

WEST SHOKAN

West Shokan, Dec. 1—The Rev. Victor Kane of Kingston addressed the local congregation Sunday afternoon. His subject was: "The Greatest Word and Work." He will preach again next Sunday at 3 p. m., after the Sunday school classes.

Honor roll pupils at the Brodhead school for the month of November are: Gertrude Palen, Rose Marie Crispell and Norma Burgher. The one who gave "best effort" was Robert Whispell. Norma Burgher received the highest number of points for the first eight weeks of the Health Club. Brodhead District pupils who have had perfect attendance since the beginning of the September term are: Norma Burgher and Rose Marie Crispell.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Burgher of Mt. Tremper called on his sister, Miss Ollie Burgher, Sunday afternoon.

The Rev. and Mrs. Frank Barley and daughters, Irma and Lois, of Liberty, called on Mrs. Minnie Every, Friday.

The Odd Fellows' annual Thanksgiving oyster supper, held last Wednesday evening in the Olive Bridge Lodge hall proved highly successful. More than 100 people were served. Later the tables were cleared away and dancing was held. Music was furnished by Sylvester Wells and his partner, for modern and square dancing. Past Grand Henry Winchell of Kingston was among the veteran members present.

Raymond Cruthers and family spent the Thanksgiving week-end at their country home in Brodhead.

Larry Kelder spent Thanksgiving week-end at Head Acres and entertained at a turkey dinner Saturday evening. His son, Dana, accompanied him here from New Jersey.

Mrs. Charles Richter had an unexpected guest Thanksgiving morning, when a partridge crashed through one of the large dining room windows and into the wall of the room.

E. C. Davis was called to Kingston last Wednesday to attend a session of the Napanoch grand jury, which is continuing its investigation of the Local No. 17 Labor Union case.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kerr of West Hurley were guests Thanksgiving day of his sister, Miss Jennie Kerr, and her friend, Miss Bebe.

Pvt. Raymond Kelder has returned after spending a 10-day furlough at home with his mother, Mrs. Addie Kelder.

Munger Takes Post As Plant Breeder

Wisconsin Head Now Returns to State

Ithaca—Dr. Henry Munger, instructor and research investigator in the breeding of vegetable crops at the University of Wisconsin since 1941, returns to Cornell December 1 as assistant research professor of plant breeding and vegetable crops.

Mr. Munger, who grew up on a western New York farm, was graduated from the college of agriculture at Cornell in 1936, with a major study in vegetable crops. He started graduate work at Ohio State University that year, and received his master's degree in 1937. While at Ohio State, he cooperated in soybean breeding work with scientists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

He returned to Cornell in 1938, to continue work in breeding vegetable crops, as an assistant in the plant breeding department. He received his doctor's degree in plant breeding at Cornell in June 1941, based on his work in the breeding of improved melons for New York state.

In July of 1941, Dr. Munger went to the University of Wisconsin as an instructor, where he has continued his work of improving vegetable stocks, notably carrots.

As an undergraduate in the New York State College of Agriculture, Munger carried the highest four-year average in scholarship of the 163 students in the college who were graduated in 1936.

At Cornell, he plans to continue breeding of improved melons and other crops for New York state farms.

The 9 Billion Dollar Victory Loan Drive Is On!

This week the United States Government begins the task of borrowing nine billion dollars within the next several weeks as an essential part of winning the war more quickly and more completely.

During these critical weeks you probably will be visited by a representative of one of the securities firms or banks which are contributing their time and effort — without compensation of any kind — to the Victory Fund Committee. He will explain to you, for instance, the benefits that you can obtain from the new Victory 2½'s —available for the first time. Welcome him as a war worker when he calls. If you miss him, ask your banker or securities dealer for full particulars. There is no limit to the amount that you can purchase.

Today many American families are torn apart. Millions have left their homes or their jobs; thousands have given their lives and many more are prepared to do so.

But the government, your government, is not asking you to give anything to this Nine Billion Dollar Drive. It is asking you to lend it all of the money you can possibly invest in what is the safest investment in the world—at a good rate of interest.

When the victory Fund representative calls, please remember this: it is in your own interest, as well as that of your country, to listen to him—and to invest.

BUY THESE VICTORY 2½'s NOW

Twenty-six year 2½ per cent bonds due December 15, 1968, callable December 15, 1963. Issued in coupon or registered form at the option of the buyer. Commercial banks will not be permitted to hold these bonds until ten years after the date of issue. There is no limit on the amount any eligible investor may purchase. New Paltz Cagers Start Season on Friday Night

Vandals Open Against Trenton Teachers in Game Starting at 8:30

Sport fans in the Hudson valley will still have their chance to enjoy their basketball this winter. New Paltz Teachers is to have a basketball team and a schedule of games. Friday evening will open the season at New Paltz against the State Teachers College of Trenton, N. J.

Prospects for a fairly good season appear in the persons of Captain Maloney, Burns, and Dever, three regulars from last year's crack team. These three will be aided by the Heroy brothers and Thoben, all three over 6 feet 2 inches.

Even though Trenton Teachers is somewhat out of New Paltz's class, the Vandals were defeated at Trenton last year only by the score of 51 to 34. They are determined to "take over" the Jerseyites in this return game. Trenton Teachers goes on to New Haven, Conn., the next night to play Arnold College.

Games will be played on December 11 and January 8, home and home, with an opponent as yet not definitely contracted. Albany Business College is under consideration.

January 16, New Paltz will travel to Plattsburgh Teachers College. The following Saturday, January 23, will see Plattsburgh visiting New Paltz for their traditional game.

The preliminary on December 4, starting at 7:30 o'clock, will bring those two colorful teams together —the Delphic Fraternity House and the Kappa Fraternity House.

Robinson Defeats Jannazzo Again; Ends in Eighth

Fight Is Staged as Part of Cleveland News' 17th Annual Fund; 12,190 at Bout

The company, whose business is fighting by the president and treasurer, Mr. Robinson—better known as Sugar — last night eliminated a business competitor, welterweight Izzy Jannazzo, on the Cleveland News' 17th annual Christmas fund show at the arena.

"Eliminated" is the word, for the 148½-pound Jannazzo absorbed such a barrage of lefts and rights in the eighth stanza of their scheduled 10-rounder that Robinson was awarded a technical knockout while a crowd of 12,190 who paid $47,934.98 to watch the program roared its approval.

Stopped in Eighth

Robinson, weighing 145, delivered a volley of lefts and rights to Jannazzo's face during most of the first seven rounds. In the eighth Sugar slammed Izzy all over the ring and finally floored him for a count of nine. Robinson resumed his deadly attack after Jannazzo arose and Referee Jackie Davis halted it after two minutes and 43 seconds of the round.

Jannazzo probably could have saved himself a lot of punishment by not mixing it with Robinson but he was long on courage. Every time Jannazzo landed one blow he took three or four in return from Robinson.

It took big Harry Bobo of Pittsburgh, 211-pound aspirant for the world heavyweight championship, only two minutes and 49 seconds of the opening stanza to knock out Larry Lane of Trenton, N. J., in a bout listed for 10 rounds. Lane weighed 191.

Ezzard Charles, 21-year-old Cincinnati light heavyweight, at 166 gave away 18 pounds in his 10-round re-match with heavyweight Joey Maxim of Cleveland, but this was no handicap as Charles registered his second win of the year over the Clevelander.

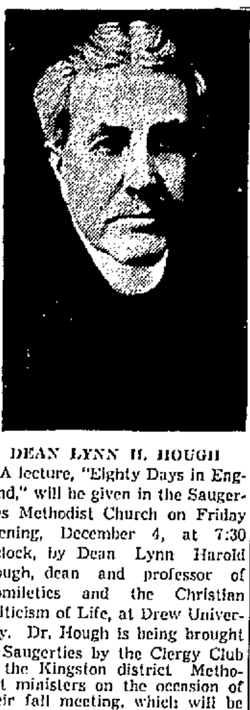
Saugerties Church Presents Talk on England at War



DEAN LYNN H. HOUGH

A lecture, "Eighty Days in England," will be given in the Saugerties Methodist Church on Friday evening, December 4, at 7:30 o'clock, by Dean Lynn Harold Hough, dean and professor of Homiletics and the Christian Criticism of Life, at Drew University. Dr. Hough is being brought to Saugerties by the Clergy Club of the Kingston district Methodist ministers on the occasion of their fall meeting, which will be held in the Saugerties church Friday afternoon.

So many people have expressed a desire to head Dr. Hough's lecture on England under war conditions, that the evening session has been devoted entirely to him and has been made an open meeting to which the public is cordially invited. Delegations from the 55 churches of the district and many people from Kingston and surrounding places are expected to attend the lecture.

Dr. Hough was one of the representative American clergymen selected by the Federal Council of Churches to visit England last summer. He spent the summer there, preaching and speaking in London and other large centers of Britain. From his experience he is well able to give a picture of England at war. The evening meeting is open to the public.

Rain Washes Away Tuesday's Snowfall

Two and a half inches of snow fell in Kingston on Tuesday afternoon and early evening, according to the records in the city engineer's office, but the heavy rainfall that followed the snowstorm washed streets and sidewalks clear of snow. The total precipitation for the storm, snow and rain combined, as recorded by the city enginrer's office was 1.22 inches.

Snow began falling in Kingston about 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and continued falling until early evening when the temperature began to rise and the snow turned to rain.

The more than two-inch fall of snow soon turned to slush and streets became very slippery. The Board of Public Works had out several sanding crews during the afternoon and early evening, and one crew was kept on duty until this morning ready to respond to any call where needed.

One automobile crash was reported in the city Tuesday afternoon as a result of the storm. Norman Shapiro of 19 Joy's Lane, reported to the police that while driving over Washington avenue, near Hurley avenue, that a truck operated by Joseph Van Althen of Hudson, skidded and crashed into the side of his automobile. Both machines were damaged but no personal injuries were reported.

An electric motor must be kept clean to allow air to circulate through the coils, to prevent its burning out.

Tony Martin Goes To Los Angeles

Singer Dismissed by Navy May Be Drafted

San Francisco, Dec. 2 (AP)—Dismissed by "unfitness" from the navy with which he had served 11 months, singer-actor Tony Martin returned today to Los Angeles and the prospect of an immediate interview with his Beverly Hills draft board.

The 29-year-old radio and picture performer boarded a bus for the south at Oakland last night, dressed in the civilian clothes he had said he did not "want to walk around in," and his face partly concealed by dark glasses.

Only a few hours before an order had reached the Treasure Island navy base stripping Martin, former husband of film star Alice Faye, of his rating as a chief specialist and releasing him from the service. Naval officials made clear the dismissal "doesn't carry any degradation" and should not be construed as a dishonorable discharge.

At Treasure Island, Martin had been assigned to staging entertainment for navy personnel. Last summer Lieut. Comdr. Maurice N. Aroff was courtmartialed on Treasure Island on various charges of falsehood and unofficerlike conduct, one of which was that, contrary to naval regulations, he accepted a $950 automobile as a gift from Martin for facilitating the singer's enlistment.

Martin testified first that Aroff did accept the car as a gift and later that the officer had arranged to pay for it in installments.

on mortgage foreclosures, near elimination of industrial strife, promotion of low-cost housing, and maintenance of high educational and health standards.

Although reporting the state's "physical plant" in "good shape," the governor expressed concern over an insufficient qualified personnel to man state institutions.

"Today because of conditions imposed by the draft and the competition of high industrial wages," he said, "we are short several thousand attendants and other workers in our institutions."

That problem is expected to be discussed in a New York city conference today between Governor-elect Dewey and Republican legislative leaders. A proposal that institutional employes work 12 instead of eight hours a day, at time and a half overtime pay, for the war's duration has been endorsed by the Association of State Civil Service Employes.

Citing a state credit "unequalled" by any other unit of government, Lehman said the state surplus "may well amount to more than $75,000,000" by next June 30 and declared it "was accumulated while income tax reductions were made which have resulted in a saving to the taxpayers of more than $90,000,000 last year and this."

Preparing "with full confidence" to turn administration of the state over to Poletti, Lehman paid tribute to his successor as one who "knows thoroughly the problems of the state and the aspirations of its people."

"I am confident that during the period of his governorship he will render devoted and efficient service," he said.

New Presbyterian Society Is Formed

The Youth Progressive Society of the Rondout Presbyterian Church was organized Tuesday evening at a meeting with the Rev. and Mrs. D. Linton Doherty at the Manse on Broadway when the following officers were elected: President, Miss Amy Palmer; Vice President, Chester Diffley; Secretary, Miss Betty Doherty, and Treasurer, Miss Anna A. Van Deusen.

Chester Diffley and Kenneth Lowe were appointed members of the membership committee, and Miss Van Deusen was named chairman of the publicity committee.

The topic of the evening was Africa and was in charge of Kenneth Lowe, who spoke of the missionary work being carried on in that country by the Presbyterian Church.

The newly organized society decided to hold its first Christmas party in the chapel of the church on December 22, and committees were named to make arrangements.

Following the business meeting games were played and refreshments served.

Council Holds Brief Session

Little Business Transacted; Resolutions Adopted

Tuesday evening the Common Council held one of the briefest sessions of the year, and little business was tracted. Alderman Thomas F. Coughlin of the Seventh Ward extended an invitation to the aldermen to attend the dedication of the Seventh Ward Service Flag on Sunday afternoon at Cornell Park.

The council adopted a resolution to the effect that unpaid water bills be included in the 1943 tax roll. The water board had filed with the council a lengthy list of delinquent property owners who had not paid this year's water rents.

The aldermen also took similar action in regard to the five property owners who had failed to pay the snow removal bills of the past winter. The total amount to be placed on next year's tax roll was slightly more than $26.

During the reading of the list of bills one was read calling for the payment of $135 for floor wax.

Alderman Paul Zucca, chairman of the building and supply committee, desired to know who had ordered the wax, which has been delivered at the city hall, but no one was present who could answer the question.

"That is a lot of wax to use on the floors of the city hall," said Alderman Zucca.

Accident Is Reported

Mrs. Melvina Lapo of Shokan reported to the sheriff's office Tuesday afternoon that her car had gone off the road on the turn above West Hurley and struck a guard rail post. No one was injured and damage to the car was slight.

One sea mile equalls 2,000 yards.

The Greatest Christmas Present of All

Photograph Courtesy United States Treasury Department

In other years at Christmastime we have devoted this space to Electrical Gifts. We have said they were presents with a future—that through the years to come the gifts you gave would continue to keep on giving . . . in comfort, convenience, and the saving of labor.

This year you can give the finest Christmas Gift of all—the future of America—that we may continue to be free to live and speak and act and work and worship as we please!

To those to whom you would give Electrical Gifts if this were a happier year, we urge you to give United States War Bonds and Stamps. To the youngsters you can give a start toward a higher education; to young folks a little older you can give a nestegg toward the future; to older folks you can give a bit of financial independence to help them through their later years.

Farm Bureau Staff Is Busy With Appeals

Assisting truck owners, both owners of farm trucks and others, in making out applications for certificates of necessity and in making out appeals for greater amounts of gas than those specified in certificates which have been received, continues to occupy the greater portion of the time of the staff at the Ulster County Farm Bureau these days.

Appeals for more gas have been coming in at the rate of a dozen to 15 a day. In some cases the amounts which have been allowed are so far below the needs of the truck owners that apparently there must have been some misunderstanding in making out the original application. Thus it was noted that one southern Ulster man who, in addition to conducting a boarding house, is engaged in the fruit and poultry business, was allowed enough gas to go 3,100 miles in a year, whereas he had figured his needs at 22,490 miles. A Wallkill dairyman who does some retail business asked for gas sufficient for 7,200 miles; he got enough for 2,700.

All appeals for further gas allowances must be submitted to the Ulster County Farm Transportation Committee for their action.

Mr. Kurdt noted that beginning December 1 all commercial truck drivers must have the new T ration book in order to get gas. The city rationing board was issuing T books to holders of certificates on Saturday and the county board began issuing them on Tuesday. It was stated that where truck owners had filed applications for certificates but had not yet received them, and were out of gas, they would be permitted to buy gas up to January 1.

Truck Owners Back War Bond Drive

James C. Styles, county chairman of the trucking industry's war bond campaign, announced that motor truck owners have thrown their full weight into a one-week national drive which began Monday, during which the trucking industry will sign up all employes from executives down, to put at least 10 per cent of earnings into purchases of War Bonds.

The drive, requested by the Treasury Department and sponsored nationally by American Trucking Associations, will feature a payroll savings plan among the line followed by numerous companies and industries throughout the nation and will have the backing of trucking company executives and employes alike. Individual trucking companies already are organizing for the effort so that no segment of the industry will remain untouched in helping to win the war with savings that will provide the material for armed forces of the United States and its Allies on the far-flung battlefronts.

Mr. Styles of Cottekill pointed out, in announcing the campaign, that the trucking industry is one of the seven major industries which have been designated by the treasury to go "over the top" in War Bond purchases equalling or exceeding 10 per cent of payroll, and asks that every motor truck owner of Ulster county attend meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday at the County Court House, Supervisors Room, Kingston.

Drinking of Egg Whites Help Some Cancer Patients

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—Daily drinking of large quantities of whites of raw eggs, says a preliminary report by two New York doctors, has had a benefical effect on three advanced cases of cancer, but, one of the physicians explained the experiment produced no claim for a cancer cure.

Drs. Irá I. Kaplan and Milton Zurrow of the Radiation Therapy Department of Bellevue Hospital, New York, made the report yesterday to the Radiological Society of North America.

Dr. Kaplan, who read the paper, said in an interview that the experiment "merely opens a field for further research and study in the hope of finding something that might be useful in developing a cure for the disease. The duration of the study (three months) and the small number of cases preclude the possibility of definite conclusions."

WHAT IT MEANS

By JOHN GROVER

Events of this last month should dispel any doubts that the United Nations are truly united—united by interdependence on mutual action for success against the Axis.

Dispatches from Associated Press war correspondents in Russia, Africa, China and the south seas document the fact that what happens on one front has immediate repercussions on all the rest. We—the United Nations—are in hot water or in clover together.

Two days after Gen. Eisenhower landed in Africa, Henry Cassidy and Eddy Gilmore of the AP Moscow bureau reported that Nazi air activity decreased from 2,000 to 200 sorties daily. Hitler had to pull his luftwaffe out of Russia in a desperate gamble to save his remaining chips in Africa.

With the air again the province of Russian Stormoviks and lend-leased Airocobras and Spitfires, the Soviets launched the offensive that has sent Hitler reeling in Russia. Stalin's jubilant letter to Cassidy attested the value of the African front to Russian plans.

Conversely, when the offensive in the Solomon Islands seemed bogged down six weeks ago, it threatened the success of fronts on the other side of the world. Precious shipping had to be diverted to reinforce that area. Only the magnificent victory of the U. S. fleet saved the situation.

That had its effect in China, where Gen. "Uncle Joe" Stilwell, certain now to get a steady stream of supplies, could take the offensive against key Jap bases.

Russian successes in the two-pronged drive on the Don-Volga front, made possible by withdrawal of the Nazi air forces to Africa, in their turn contribute to the softening of the Axis everywhere else. Troops pinned there can't bulwark the channel coast or the Mediterranean bastion of the Axis. Eisenhower and his international force will have easier going for every Nazi the Russians hold on the steppes. There'll be fewer U.S.A.A.F. and R.A.F. planes lost in the round the clock bombing of German production centers for each plane kept busy in Russia.

It all adds up.

Stamps
IN THE NEWS

By the AP Feature Service

Wartime censorship again has made its presence felt on the stamp market, numerous new stamps known to have been issued by foreign countries not having been received by dealers in the United States. Within the past week the shortage has been particularly evident.

Then censorship is largely precautionary, and with no reflection on the leaders, whose consignments are held up along with those addressed to individuals.

Attempts frequently are made to send code messages with stamps, using single stamps or combinations of stamps. Each consignment usually is held by censorship for a month, whether or not it is studied for evidences of code. At the end of a month, it is figured, whatever message the stamps might have carried no longer is useful in this fast-moving war.

This year's Christmas seal (and be advised that there are many who include the seals in their stamp collections) portrays a rustic winter scene, of a sleigh, barn and farmhouse, colors used being red, blue, black and yellow. The yellow is an under-color and not visible.

The Post Office Department announces it has published a revised edition of the official booklet containing descriptions and illustrations of all United States postage stamps from the date of their introduction in 1847 to July 31, 1942. Plate numbers and quantities of commemoratives and airmail stamps are included in the booklet, which is being sold by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C., for 30 cents—in postal money orders or checks.

One of New York's most important auction sales of recent months has concerned the late Col. E. H. R. Green's collection. The huge and valuable collection has been broken into parts and is being sold in several sessions, the last of which will be December 8. For the latter sessions, a 110-page booklet with 24 pages of engravings has been published. Total receipts are expected to reach $200,000, and among the more prominent buyers has been Adolphe Menjou, the actor.

How to cut the cost of Heating Your Home

AMERICA'S HOME HEATING EXPERT

Clean That Coal Bin!

Now that we are getting close to the end of the heating season, let us give special thought to the proper care of the heating equipment during the coming summer months when it will not be in operation. It has been a good friend during the winter, so treat it considerately during the few months it is not being used. As a rule the heating plant represents an investment of several hundred dollars. A little time spent now may save many dollars later on.

Let us start with the coal bin. After all it is an integral part of the heating plant and houses the fuel. In other words it is the warehouse or storeroom for the heat. Many times a coal dealer is blamed for delivering "dirty" coal. Often this is not his fault at all, but is directly due to the condition of the bin. Most dealers will wet down the load before the delivery is made, yet this clean coal when chuted into the basement will raise a dense cloud of dust. This dust is already in the bin. It merely becomes disturbed when the new load of coal is chuted in and belches into a cloud of dirt particles. It is an accumulation of a long period of time. Even a closed room will accumulate a thin layer of dust if it is not used. Imagine coal being handled in such a closed room. The accumulation is bound to be much heavier.

Anthracite coal is dense but not very brittle, although upon handling as one piece rubs on another, small chips will break off. If the coal bin is not cleaned out periodically, sizeable amounts of dust particles may gather. This is an unnecessary condition for it would only take a minute or two to clean out the bin before a new delivery of coal is made.

Not only is this important from the dirt angle, but if it is permitted to have this dirt accumulate in the bin, sooner or later, large amounts of these "fines" will be fired into the heater. These so-called "fines" will have a tendency to "pack" the fuel bed. This condition, in turn, will cause a sluggish draft and a dull fuel bed. The fire will not be lively and because sufficient air cannot be supplied to the fuel, the result will be unsatisfactory heat and the common complaint of cold rooms. If this condition of dust being fired into the furnace continues, it may ultimately cause clinkers to form.

So be sure, before your load of coal is delivered, to have the coal bin cleaned out. It only takes a minute and is well worth the trouble. You will not only have a cleaner basement, but also trouble free operation of your heating plant. (25)

Recreations Ready for Harlem Yankee Cagers Tonight

Visitors Expected To Give Kingston Best Struggle Yet

'Turk' Karam May Mention New Player Later Today; Tonight's Game to Start 9:15

It's professional basketball night here in Kingston tonight. At the municipal auditorium starting at 8:15 o'clock and continuing until about 11 o'clock there will be plenty of basketball for local patrons.

At the 8:15 o'clock gun the preliminary attraction pits Worfs against the Matthew cagers in what promises to be a stellar subattraction for the main feature scheduled for 9:15 o'clock when the second half of the double-header will be played between the Kingston Recreations and the famous Harlem Yankees.

May Name Player

Up until about 9:30 o'clock this morning Manager "Turk" Karam still hadn't announced the name of the new player who will replace Nick Shaback, who recently decided to accept a war job in New England. However, Karam is expected to arrive in Kingston sometime later today and providing his arrival is before this paper goes to press, the new player's name will be found in this edition.

Although Karam hasn't declared who will be the new cager for the Recreations, it is very evident that he will bring some star here for tonight's big battle with the Harlem club. The local pilot seemed very pleased with the Recs after winning last week's tussle from the New York Jewels but he followed up with the announcement that he still desired to obtain another scoring ace to build the Recs into a high scoring machine.

Tonight's contest with the Yanks appears to be Kingston's toughest struggle of the season especially after remembering last year's terrific battle with the New Yorkers. The Harlem cagers are rated as one of the top Negro clubs of the country and will be ready to stop Kingston's two-game winning skein tonight with such outstanding players as Sonny Woods, Johnny Isaacs, "Moonbeam" Isles, Caffey, Garret and White. Isaacs and Woods are the two big "guns" for the Yankees on the offensive.

Sees Hard Contest

"We'll have a tough time with the Yankees tonight," remarked a Recreation spokesman this morning, "but with a few good breaks we should make it three in a row. Of course, if Karam does come here with another new player that should help out. Last week Kingston played with one reserve player on the bench which meant that most of the cagers saw full-time duty against the fast-stepping Jewels."

Manager Karam will undoubtedly start with Hagen Anderson, Ace Goldstein, Howie Bollerman, Herb Gershon and Jim Naughton again, with Irv Rosen and the new player seeing action throughout the contest. Gershon experienced a bad night last Thursday in the manner of hitting the scoring column but the New York State League star won't be stopped too many times.

Anderson, in two games, has been the big star for Kingston. Meanwhile, the Recreations have been fortunate in having Goldstein, Naughton, Gershon and Bollerman around. The entire Rec outfit played great basketball last week and proved to local fandom that this year's team packs plenty of power.

Freeman League Results

Team No. 1 continued to fight its way to the top of the standings in The Freeman Bowling League last night at the Immanuel alleys by taking two decisions from No. 2, present loop leaders. A four game margin now separates No. 2 in first place from Team 1 and 3 in a tie for second place.

Last night's two triumphs were achieved the hard way as No. 1 went into the game with a 100 blind score. However, the four bowlers blasted away and proceeded to register a nifty 756 team single in the opener. They took the third game with a 683 single.

Walt Kirchofer's 492 triple on a string of 185, 155 and 152 paced the winners. Walt Scharp posted high single in the match with his 187. Dick Gruver, also of No. 1 had a 186 solo. Roland Post highlighted the drive for No. 2 on games of 175, 178 and 146 for high series in the match of 499. The "big" score for No. 2 in the second game was Harry Hutton's sizzling 176 single, one of the best scores that the veteran has collected recently. Harry appeared on his way for a 200 game but wound up with his 176 which was a big help to his club in winning one game from No. 1.

Monday night at the Immanuel alleys John Haas' Team No. 3 club captured three straight from No. 4. Jack Hartman posted high single of 216 and had high series of 532. Milfred Buddenhagen's 490 was tops for the losers.

The standings:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
No. 2	17	10	.629
No. 1	13	14	.481
No. 3	13	14	.481
No. 4	11	17	.392

Central Rec League

Lou Bruhn and Bill Evans took honors in last night's Central Rec League matches at the mid-town alleys on Railroad avenue. Bruhn, bowling for the Crystals, captured high single honors of the night with a blazing 231 and finished with a 537 series. Evans, helping the Gov. Clintons to sweep three from Dawkins, high-powered a terrific 614 triple and a 230 single. His other scores were 173 and 211.

With Evans' big score as the pacer, the Clintons also had E. Cunningham's 564 and J. Edinger's 542 to help out to blast Dawkins in three games. Phil Corrado's 515 was high for the losers.

Bruhn sparked the Crystals to a lone victory over Vining and Smith. Lou's other scores were 148 and 163. Hod Spaulding posted high triple of 599. Joe Messinger's 550 was high for the winners. Smith hit 543 and Terwilliger 518.

Johnny Zeeh hit high single of 217 and high triple of 599 for the Astors but that club lost three straight decisions to Johnny Sangi's Pickups. Steve Fassbender's 536 was next to Zeeh's mark. Orv Van Alstyne had a 586 for the winners while Larry Petersen, Jr., registered 570.

The Ulsters defeated Hercules in two games as Georgie Robinson polished off a 553 triple on scores of 188, 167, and 198. Lou Guadagnola had a high 204 solo. Norm Niles' 532 was tops for the losers.

Catholic League Games

St. Joseph's bowlers took the spotlight in the Catholic League at the Central Rec allsys last night when they established a new high team single of 905. B. Whelan paced the winners with a 201 single and 565 series. Fred Ferraro also had 201 as they won three from St. Peter's of Rosendale. J. Turck had 507 for St. Peters.

Frank McDonough of St. Mary's blasted out a 238 single and 567 but his club dropped two games to the Holy Name. Walt Peterson's 215 and 583 were high for the winners.

St. Peter's of Kingston proceeded to knock off St. Colmans in two games. Charlie Tiano of the losers posted high single of 210 and high series of 570 in the match. Ralph Nardi had 525. Ed Schupp's 506 was high the winners.

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—The major leagues returned to their wartime baseball discussions today still at odds over night game schedules and what should constitute a standard baseball for the duration.

It was considered likely that both differences would be settled tomorrow when the National and American Leagues meet jointly with Commissioner K. M. Landis.

The National League voted yesterday that each team be restricted to seven night games in 1943. The American agreed to a maximum of 14 for clubs other than Washington, which was allowed 28 on Clark Griffith's contention that the Senators were the only team in Washington and that most workers there had daytime hours.

The question of an official wartime baseball was taken up because of a rubber and cork shortage. Both leagues would use reprocessed materials, but the National asked a rubber core while the American voted cork. The National League said it was its intention to use a reported one million rubber cores now available with the manufacture of golf balls halted.

Shibe Park Gets Game

The majors, however, were in agreement on these subjects:

1. To hold the 1943 All Star game at Philadelphia's Shibe Park July 7 with the American League as the home team and proceeds going to baseball's "ball and bat" fund.

2. To maintain the present player limit of 25 for each club.

3. To extend the present major-minor league agreement for another year.

A three point request from Joseph Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, that baseball travel be curtailed came in for some attention by the American League, which ordered all its clubs to review spring training plans and to cut down on travel where possible. The result might be a number of changes in exhibition schedules.

The National League, however, became wrapped up in the financial plight of the Philadelphia Phils. President Ford Frick said the league's board of directors were working on three plans to solve the Phils' money problems, but added that he doubted a solution would be found during the Chicago meetings.

Frick also disclosed that a fourth plan, one in which "Bill Terry could fit into the picture," was abandoned yesterday. He hastened to add, however, there might be other propositions forthcoming and that abandoning of this one did not mean that Terry, who resigned Monday as farm director of the New York Giants, might not turn up in Philadelphia.

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—For the first time this season, the Chicago Blackhawks hockey team will present an all-brother line—the three Bentleys, Doug, Max and Reggie—in tomorrow night's game with the New York Rangers.

Injuries forced Manager Paul Thompson to put Bill Thoms on defense and pave the way to insert Reggie Bentley into the forward line with his brothers, both regulars and holdovers from last year. Reggie is playing his first season with the Hawks.

The all-brother line is believed to be the first in the National Hockey League.

New York, Dec. 2 (AP)—Whether freshmen football players, given 1942 varsity status in many sectors because of the war's manpower demands, increased or decreased the scoring still is open to question although the season is virtually over.

The Associated Press' twenty-first annual scoring survey, involving 193 teams scattered throughout the country, shows that only two sectors showed a gain in the average number of points in a game compared with similar figures of a year ago.

One of the sectors was the midwest, where the big ten and the big six conferences did not use the freshmen. The other was the Rocky Mountain area, where the frosh were welcomed.

The southern and eastern districts, where use of the freshmen was common, showed a decline as did the far west and southwest which followed the midwest in not allowing the freshmen to play.

However, the Midwest and Rocky Mountain sector increased their scoring to such an extent that the entire country showed a gain.

	Schools	Games	Points	Team Avg.	Game Avg.
Midwest	37	327	6,346	171.51	19.41
South	32	301	4,850	151.56	16.11
Rocky Mountains	7	58	911	130.14	15.70
Southwest	8	78	1,059	132.37	13.58
East	97	733	9,621	99.19	13.12

New Paltz Cagers Start Season on Friday Night

The company, whose business is fighting by the president and treasurer, Mr. Robinson—better known as Sugar — last night eliminated a business competitor, welterweight Izzy Jannazzo, on the Cleveland News' 17th annual Christmas fund show at the arena.

"Eliminated" is the word, for the 148½-pound Jannazzo absorbed such a barrage of lefts and rights in the eighth stanza of their scheduled 10-rounder that Robinson was awarded a technical knockout while a crowd of 12,190 who paid $47,934.98 to watch the program roared its approval.

Stopped in Eighth

Robinson, weighing 145, delivered a volley of lefts and rights to Jannazzo's face during most of the first seven rounds. In the eighth Sugar slammed Izzy all over the ring and finally floored him for a count of nine. Robinson resumed his deadly attack after Jannazzo arose and Referee Jackie Davis halted it after two minutes and 43 seconds of the round.

Jannazzo probably could have saved himself a lot of punishment by not mixing it with Robinson but he was long on courage. Every time Jannazzo landed one blow he took three or four in return from Robinson.

It took big Harry Bobo of Pittsburgh, 211-pound aspirant for the world heavyweight championship, only two minutes and 49 seconds of the opening stanza to knock out Larry Lane of Trenton, N. J., in a bout listed for 10 rounds. Lane weighed 191.

Ezzard Charles, 21-year-old Cincinnati light heavyweight, at 166 gave away 18 pounds in his 10-round re-match with heavyweight Joey Maxim of Cleveland, but this was no handicap as Charles registered his second win of the year over the Clevelander.

Sport fans in the Hudson valley will still have their chance to enjoy their basketball this winter. New Paltz Teachers is to have a basketball team and a schedule of games. Friday evening will open the season at New Paltz against the State Teachers College of Trenton, N. J.

Prospects for a fairly good season appear in the persons of Captain Maloney, Burns, and Dever, three regulars from last year's crack team. These three will be aided by the Heroy brothers and Thoben, all three over 6 feet 2 inches.

Even though Trenton Teachers is somewhat out of New Paltz's class, the Vandals were defeated at Trenton last year only by the score of 51 to 34. They are determined to "take over" the Jerseyites in this return game. Trenton Teachers goes on to New Haven, Conn., the next night to play Arnold College.

Games will be played on December 11 and January 8, home and home, with an opponent as yet not definitely contracted. Albany Business College is under consideration.

January 16, New Paltz will travel to Plattsburgh Teachers College. The following Saturday, January 23, will see Plattsburgh visiting New Paltz for their traditional game.

The preliminary on December 4, starting at 7:30 o'clock, will bring those two colorful teams together —the Delphic Fraternity House and the Kappa Fraternity House.

Farm Bureau Staff Is Busy With Appeals

Assisting truck owners, both owners of farm trucks and others, in making out applications for certificates of necessity and in making out appeals for greater amounts of gas than those specified in certificates which have been received, continues to occupy the greater portion of the time of the staff at the Ulster County Farm Bureau these days.

Appeals for more gas have been coming in at the rate of a dozen to 15 a day. In some cases the amounts which have been allowed are so far below the needs of the truck owners that apparently there must have been some misunderstanding in making out the original application. Thus it was noted that one southern Ulster man who, in addition to conducting a boarding house, is engaged in the fruit and poultry business, was allowed enough gas to go 3,100 miles in a year, whereas he had figured his needs at 22,490 miles. A Wallkill dairyman who does some retail business asked for gas sufficient for 7,200 miles; he got enough for 2,700.

All appeals for further gas allowances must be submitted to the Ulster County Farm Transportation Committee for their action.

Mr. Kurdt noted that beginning December 1 all commercial truck drivers must have the new T ration book in order to get gas. The city rationing board was issuing T books to holders of certificates on Saturday and the county board began issuing them on Tuesday. It was stated that where truck owners had filed applications for certificates but had not yet received them, and were out of gas, they would be permitted to buy gas up to January 1.

Truck Owners Back War Bond Drive

James C. Styles, county chairman of the trucking industry's war bond campaign, announced that motor truck owners have thrown their full weight into a one-week national drive which began Monday, during which the trucking industry will sign up all employes from executives down, to put at least 10 per cent of earnings into purchases of War Bonds.

The drive, requested by the Treasury Department and sponsored nationally by American Trucking Associations, will feature a payroll savings plan among the line followed by numerous companies and industries throughout the nation and will have the backing of trucking company executives and employes alike. Individual trucking companies already are organizing for the effort so that no segment of the industry will remain untouched in helping to win the war with savings that will provide the material for armed forces of the United States and its Allies on the far-flung battlefronts.

Mr. Styles of Cottekill pointed out, in announcing the campaign, that the trucking industry is one of the seven major industries which have been designated by the treasury to go "over the top" in War Bond purchases equalling or exceeding 10 per cent of payroll, and asks that every motor truck owner of Ulster county attend meeting at 8 p. m. Thursday at the County Court House, Supervisors Room, Kingston.

Drinking of Egg Whites Help Some Cancer Patients

Chicago, Dec. 2 (AP)—Daily drinking of large quantities of whites of raw eggs, says a preliminary report by two New York doctors, has had a benefical effect on three advanced cases of cancer, but, one of the physicians explained the experiment produced no claim for a cancer cure.

Drs. Ira I. Kaplan and Milton Zurrow of the Radiation Therapy Department of Bellevue Hospital, New York, made the report yesterday to the Radiological Society of North America.

Dr. Kaplan, who read the paper, said in an interview that the experiment "merely opens a field for further research and study in the hope of finding something that might be useful in developing a cure for the disease. The duration of the study (three months) and the small number of cases preclude the possibility of definite conclusions."
